Profits Come Second—F. D. R.
The Money Puzzle.
The Female Form.
Mother-in-Law's Day.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SPEAKING FROM Constitution Hall in Washington, the President told four thousand code delegates, and the whole nation, about his first year's work, emphasizing his conviction that humanity is more important than profits.

One year from March 4 to March 4 has made him familiar with intense popularity, and the bursts of applause did not surprise him.

THE PRESIDENT read a message of congratulation from the head of the American Bankers' Association assuring him that banks are in absolutely sound condition and heartily approve the President's financial policies, also indicating that "superliquidity" no longer seems so important to banks, and lending in the old way will soon begin again.

THE COMPTROLLER of the Currency says assets of national banks exceed twenty-one thousand million dollars—a fine increase. But figures and "dollars" no longer mean anything definite.

Twenty-one billions of assets in five thousand odd national banks make the country feel rich. Then you recall the public debt that by the end of this year will be at least thirty-two billions, eleven billions more than all the national bank assets, and the country does not seem so rich.

Presently some one reminds you that in good times the annual income of the nation is ninety billions, and a national debt of thirty-two billions seems small.

NEXT YOU remember that today's dollar means 59 cents, so you must cut forty per cent from the banks' twenty-one billions.

BUT, Uncle Sam has stored in his vaults seven or eight billion dollars' worth of gold, more than any other two countries in the world possess, and you reflect "with all that gold back of our dollars foreign nations will be afraid to sell them short. Perhaps they are worth as much as ever."

Then, with a start, you remember that Uncle Sam has been amusing himself, changing the price of gold from about twenty dollars to about forty dollars an ounce, and you wonder how much gold we really have.

It all reminds you of the boy, in the Florida boom, who told his doubting father he planned to sell his dog for five thousand dollars. Later, when he had actually made the sale for five thousand dollars, it developed that he got twenty-five cents in cash and "a five thousand dollar guinea pig" in exchange for his dog.

Schopenhauer made that complaint of all women. He could not understand how anybody could call "beautiful" that "narrow shouldered, broad-hipped, short-legged thing, woman." See his "Studies in Pessimism."

Short French legs did not keep Suzanne Lenglen from playing tennis better than any long-legged Anglo-Saxon female ever played, and they do not interfere with the fact that long-legged females of England and America borrow their styles from French women, and try to look like them. Besides, perfect figures in France may not be looking for work as artists' models.

AMARILLO, TEX., celebrated "Mother-in-Law's Day." Husbands, by request, brought flowers to their wives' mothers, part of Main street was roped off as a "parade ground for mothers-in-law;" there were "contests for the fattest, leanest, youngest and oldest, and the one having the most in-laws, also a beauty contest."

Amarillo seems to have made the most of its holiday, which should remind a certain type of American that it is most stupid and unworthy to ridicule the mother of his own wife, and the grandmother of his children. If they have any good qualities they probably inherit them from that grandmother.

TO PROVE that she is "coming back" despite the Versailles treaty, Germany plans a mass flight of powerful planes from Berlin to the former German colonies in West Africa—perhaps to remind the present owners of those colonies that something disagreeable might happen some time.

IT MAKES you thoughtful to hear Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, in charge of our air forces in the big war, say that the fighting air forces of the United States are so inferior that they would easily be overcome by the air armada of any major foreign power.

Gen. Mitchell, who knows about military flying in this and other countries, says:

"United States air forces would be grounded by thirty per cent of the British forces, forty per cent of the French, fifty per cent of the Japanese, Italian or Russian forces."

SOME YOUNGER man with imagination and ability to receive new ideas seems to be needed in this country's defensive department.

We have not even had brains and initiative enough to establish a separate air force that would make the one important modern weapon independent of

TERMS GIVEN COYNE WARD OFFICIALS

Woman Among Group Penalized on Ballot Fraud Charges

Thomas Dolan, follower of State Senator James J. Coyne, was sentenced to 18 months in a federal penitentiary and six other defendants to penitentiary or jail terms and fines as Judge F. P. Schoonmaker dealt out first penalties in the vote fraud trials in Federal Court today.

In pronouncing sentence on the seven officers of two election boards of Coyn'e home ward, the Fourth, the court struck the most telling blow delivered here at alleged vote cheaters.

All had been found guilty of falsifying ballots in the congressional election of 1932 in which the election of Congressman M. J. Muldowney, as representative of the Thirty-second District, was contested by Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democrat.

WOMAN FINED $1,000

Mrs. Alice Daschbach, for whom extreme mercy had been recommended by the jury, was sentenced to serve one day in jail and pay a fine of $1,000. Operation of the sentence was postponed until March 12 to permit her to raise the amount of the fine.

These sentences were meted out:

Board of the Eighth District, Fourth Ward:

Thomas Dolan judge, 18 months in a Federal Penitentiary and $1 fine.

William Connolly, inspector, one year and one day in a Federal Penitentiary and $1 fine.

Mrs. Alice Daschbach, inspector, one day in jail and $1,000 fine.

Board of Tenth District, Fourth Ward:

Albert Diulius, judge, one year and one day in a Federal Penitentiary and $1 fine.

Albert Levine, inspector, four months in jail and $1 fine.

Joseph Ridge, election constable, one year and one day in a Federal Penitentiary and $1 fine.

Kennedy and Levine went to jail this afternoon to begin serving their terms.

Defense counsel announced that appeals would be filed in behalf of Dolan, Diulius, Connolly and Ridge.

In sentencing Dolan, Judge Schoonmaker remarked:

"This looked like a very vicious case."

Penalizing Ability

THE PUBLICATION of the salaries and extra compensations paid to officers of corporations raises the question as to what purpose, useful or otherwise, is served by such publication.

The amount of the salaries and commissions, the names of the recipients and the employer corporations have been compiled by the Federal Trade Commission.

It is fair to assume that the publication is made upon the direction or with the approval of the administration.

Why is this?

Is it an attempt to depreciate everybody who has reached an influential or commanding position in business, despite the fact, of which everyone is aware, that business is constantly in quest of business talent of an exceptional order, and has long been accustomed to reward it generously as an encouragement both to the building up of great undertakings and the development of high capacities?

CAN IT BE the thought of the administration that by publicly exhibiting these salaries and compensations paid to men of demonstrated ability, it will succeed in arousing a popular antagonism against them on the part of envious but less talented or less diligent men?

Is it the intention of the administration to make big business, as such, hateful, and to make big businessmen who have labored long and successfully to develop the enterprises intrusted to their direction, PERSONALLY UNPOPULAR?

If so, it is the cheapest form of demagogy and the most injurious form!

The men who receive big salaries and conduct big businesses are of big service to the country in developing industry and providing employment.

Unless we are going completely over to communism, we must realize that there is a LEGITIMATE BASIS for LARGE COMPENSATION FOR LARGE SERVICES.

The whole system of American business development and industrial progress is based upon a liberal reward for a valuable contribution.

OF COURSE, there have been some abuses, but that does not discredit the whole system.

There are some abuses in the administration's policy,—notably the crookedness in the CWA, in certain instances.

But this does not discredit the whole program of the administration or justify a general attack.

It is time, if we are really engaged in an effort of recovery, to begin to BUILD UP and STOP TRYING TO TEAR DOWN!

Confidence cannot be created by methods of general and indiscriminate detraction.

Industry cannot be stimulated by destructive criticism and oppressive coercion; and without a wider confidence and a greater expansion of industry, there is going to be no permanent improvement in production and employment, and no genuine recovery.

Four Girls Abducted; Machine Guns Cow Police and Crowd

BULLETIN.

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 6.—(AP.)—Prosecutor Robert G. Estill said today he would file affidavits seeking the arrest of Deputy Earnest Blunk and Turnkey Sam Cahoon on the ground that they "assisted" in the escape of John Dillinger from the Crown Point jail.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., March 6.—(AP.)—Six daring daylight bandits, headed by a man thought by some to be John Dillinger, held up the Security National Bank and Trust Company today, wounded a patrolman, seized five employes, four of them girls, as hostages and fled.

Armed with machine guns, the bandits, fleeing southward, drove off pursuers with a volley of bullets over the heads of the girl hostages.

The girls and Lee Olson, teller, the other hostage, were released south of the city. They were not harmed, although they were forced to stand as shields while the robbers opened fire on pursuing possemen.

1,000 WATCH HOLDUP

Nearly 1,000 persons watched the robbery, small groups gathering in the street, peering from doorways, behind poles, mail boxes and automobiles and from windows of adjacent buildings. An occasional burst of machine gun fire sent some scurrying for cover, but others continued to watch without regard for the possible danger.

One robber, as he swept the muzzle of his machine gun across

Bridge Wrecked By Ice Gorge In Allegheny

THE HALF OF THE EAST BRADY BRIDGE STANDING TODAY

A young man on the remaining half of the East Brady (Pa.) bridge—and even it is endangered—today surveying the great ice blocks racing past after the gorge swept away the other half of the bridge. The rivers here rise rapidly. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

FLOOD STAGE REACHED; WATERS RISING

Allegheny Roaring Torrent; Throngs View Scene

Churning with huge ice packs, the Allegheny River passed the flood mark here this afternoon for the first time in a year, menacing houseboat dwellers and flooding cellars in low-lying districts.

On the gigantic cakes that filled the stream from shore to shore rode part of the ruins of the East Brady Bridge and of dwellings swept away far upstream by the rush of the gorges.

The spectacular torrent, viewed from bridges by thousands, reached the flood stage of 25 feet at 1 o'clock this afternoon and continued to rise slowly.

CREST OF FLOOD DUE

Observer W. S. Brotzman estimated that the crest, around 26 feet, would be reached at 5 p. m. The river was falling at Dam No. 4 at Natrona, Brotzman was informed, soon after the flood mark was reached here.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks on the North Side were covered with flood waters and ice, automobiles along the wharf were moved to escape the rising tide while many houseboat occupants fled to shore as the ice crashed against their craft.

CELLARS IN WATER

Basements in the downtown triangle and in the lower Northside were flooded. The larger stores put flood fighting equipment to work to keep the water out of basements.

It was the first time the rivers have exceeded the flood mark since March 15, 1933 when a stage of 29.6 feet was recorded at the Point.

Brotzman said the fall would be rapid when it once set in as the flood was chiefly a wave in the

DR. WYNEKOOP AWAITS FATE

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP.)—With a plea for a "not guilty verdict quick," Attorney Milton Smith today concluded his argument before the jury in behalf of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, whose fate in the operating table murder trial was expected to be in the hands of the jury by nightfall. Smith spoke two hours.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Wynekoop was scored by the state as a "cold-blooded murderess."

She fainted twice when Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty went over the details of Rheta's death, and indirectly asked the jurors to send Dr. Alice to the electric chair.

As he seized the pistol with which Rheta was shot, spectators jumped from their seats as if expecting to see the prosecutor commit suicide before their very eyes.

COUNCIL RAISES LOW WAGES

City Council voted a 10 per cent pay increase today for low-waged city employes in a budget session rift with talk of the NRA, "captains of industry" and tax dodgers.

A motion was introduced by Councilman John J. Kane to cut Councilmen's $8,000 a year salaries to $7,000, but it wasn't acted on after Councilman Thomas J. Gallagher seconded it.

The pay increase would affect about 2,200 employes receiving $1,500 a year or less. Half of them are laborers. The increase would total about $250,000. It would restore to the affected employes a portion of the 16 2-3 per cent cut made on all city workers last year.

The vote on the proposal was 6 to 3, with Councilman William A. Magee, Robert Garland and P. J. McArdle voting against it.

Hungary Asks New Boundary

Editor's Note—Hungary looks at the map, says H. R. Knickerbocker, in the twentieth article of his series "Will War Come?" Hungary wants a correction of its borders which it is claimed would correct "The worst injustices the Hungarian nation has ever had to suffer."

War, Premier Gomboes tells Knickerbocker, is not feared. He believes the situation can be corrected by peace conferences.

WOMAN BALKED IN RIVER DEATH

A neatly-dressed woman about 40-yearsold tried to end her life today by jumping into the ice-filled Allegheny River at the foot of Center avenue, Blawnox, according to Blawnox police.

She is said by police to be Mrs. J. V. Calvin, of 6857 Penn avenue. On the river bank they found a note which she is said to have scribbled on the back of a calendar, reading:

"I can't live without you."

Ben Hughes, of Second street, Blawnox, said he saw the woman standing on the river edge writing the note and then jump into about 10 feet of water. He quickly dove into the freezing water and pulled her to safety.

Her husband is said to be a railroad clerk.

Neighbors said they saw the woman sitting in a sedan near the river for a long time watching the ice flowing by. After being rescued she refused to talk.

McNair as Police Judge Frees All, Bans Radio

This was a fairly entertaining day for Mayor McNair.

He strolled into East End Police Court, sat without warning as the police magistrate and discharged everybody. An hour later, at the request of the Allegheny County Bar Association, he cancelled the Traffic Court broadcasts which have been on the air over WCAE about six months. Today's broadcast was cancelled on less than an hour's notice.

A Bar Association committee, consisting of Attorneys Bruce Harrison, Edward Montgomery and Clarence B. Nixon, reported that even Magistrate Charles F. Papale himself had said that the broadcasts reduced respect for Traffic Court.

McNair didn't act on the committee's other requests: a chief social worker and a full time magistrate for Morals Court, and general improvement of the Morals Court quarters.

When Magistrate Papale showed up to conduct the daily hearings, he was no little surprised to learn that somebody else had sat in his place. That somebody else was His Honor.

The Mayor, who lives nearby, just happened to drop in. So he discharged eight drunks and a gentleman who had been arrested on complaint of his wife. The drunks, dumb like foxes, explained they had been drinking that cheap whisky, with which confession His Honor went into his cheap-whisky speech.

The traffic patrolmen were lined up for roll call when the Mayor strolled in, so he made his Single Tax speech to them.

The traffic patrolmen then went out to give tickets to violators of the parking laws.

MT. RUSHMORE JUDGES NAMED

Educational and historical leaders today formed the Pittsburgh district committee which will judge local entries in national quest for the best possible text in 600 words to depict the nation's history on the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

The Sun-Telegraph, with associated Hearst newspapers, offers cash prizes and scholarships for men, women and children. The winning Sun-Telegraph entries will be submitted by the newly-named committee to the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission. The entries will assist the commission in determining the inscription to be carved by the internationally famous sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, into nature's rocks.

Gangster's Widow Sentenced in Slaying

NEW YORK, March 6.—(INS.)—Lottie Coll, widow of the slain Vincent Coll, "mad dog of gangland," today was sentenced to six to 12 years in prison in connection with the slaying of Mollie Schwartz during an attempted holdup.

M'ELDOWNEY ILL IN N.Y.

H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust Company, is recuperating from an illness in New York, the Associated Press reported today.

The Mellon executive, who yesterday was named as one of the highest salaried bankers in the country by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, appears definitely on the road to recovery. He is 69.

McEldowney collapsed on a boat trip from New York to Honolulu some time ago.

Friends said his only complaint has been that his specialists have banned the 20 or more cigars he smoked daily.

2 Killed, MacNider Safe in Train Wreck

DUBUQUE, Ia., March 6.—(AP.)—An engineer and fireman were killed and six others seriously injured this morning when two Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad trains collided head-on 10 miles north of here.

Hanford MacNider, former Assistant Secretary of War, was thrown through a window of a private car, but escaped injury.

30-HOUR WORK WEEK VOTED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

NRA GETS BOOST IN DRIVE FOR MILLION JOBS

Action Taken Despite Code Authorities' Criticism

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP.)—In line with the administration goal for re-employment of at least a million more men in private industry, the House Labor Committee today voted unanimously for a flat 30-hour week for NRA industries—subject to modification by a governmental board in case of labor shortage of "other emergencies."

This was done while criticism—and some praise—of NRA was being received at five separate meetings of code authorities brought here in an effort to improve the recovery administration.

Before one of the meetings letters written by Representative Fulmer (Dem.), of South Carolina, were read, advising South Carolina saw mill operators to work on a "common sense basis" regardless of their NRA code. Fulmer told reporters he stood by the letters.

The House committee acted after President Roosevelt, in opening the NRA meeting yesterday, had called for shorter hours and higher pay in his plan to restore prosperity.

Although Secretary Perkins, NRA Administrator Hugh Johnson and CWA Administrator Harry Hopkins opposed an arbitrary 30-hour week in industry, the committee was hopeful the legislation as drafted was sufficiently broad to meet their objections.

Chairman Connery said he would seek immediate House consideration.

It was a bill by Representative Connery (Dem.), of Massachusetts, that the House committee approved.

Meanwhile, many industrial spokesmen at NRA's code authority hearings hammered away against a further reduction of work hours.

NRA ADVOCATES HAIL COURT'S RULING

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The momentous decision of the Supreme Court in the New York milk price-fixing case today caused congressional lawyers to ask:

"Is there any limit to the power of states or Congress to regulate business to affect economic conditions?"

While lawyers still differed, the overwhelming sentiment of congressional lawyers appeared to be that the Court, by its pronouncements, has indicated that it would uphold the NRA, the AAA and many other far-reaching acts of the Roosevelt administration.

The New York milk case, following the Minnesota mortgage moratorium case, marked two victories in the nation's high tribunal in two tests of the power of the state to invade private business.

One reservation was made by Justice Roberts. He said:

"Price control, like any other form of regulation, is unconstitutional only if arbitrary, discriminatory, or demonstrably irrelevant to the policy the legislature is free to adopt, and hence an unnecessary and unwarranted interference with private liberty."

Penna. Milk Board Set to Fix Prices

HARRISBURG, March 6.—(INS.)—On the heels of the United States Supreme Court's decision validating milk price-fixing by states, the Pennsylvania Milk Control Board today promised to make every effort to peg prices in the commonwealth within two weeks.

Chairman Edward A. Stanford revealed the board planned to draft a single blanket order and then mitigate it to meet varying situations in different sections of the state. Some of these exemptions, he said, probably would be included in the original announcement.

Weather Conditions.

Two disturbances, one over the lakes (Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 29.38), and the other over Wyoming (Lander, 29.74), are separated by a ridge of high pressure, extending from the Canadian Northwest (Prince Albert, Sask., 30.36), southeastward over the plains and the Lower Mississippi Valley to the South Atlantic coast (Jacksonville, Fla., 30.22). Light thundershowers occurred over West Virginia and Western and Central Pennsylvania yesterday afternoon, and light rains or snows over the Ohio Valley and region during the past 24 hours. Scattered light snows are continuing over the lake region this morning. It is colder over the Canadian Northwest, the northern plains, the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valley and eastward over the lakes and Ohio Valley to the Atlantic coast.

River Conditions.

The Monongahela River is falling slowly, and the Allegheny is falling from Parkers-Landing up. The ice is running out of the Allegheny pools on high stages. It will reach Pittsburgh about 4 p. m. today. The rivers will rise rapidly at Pittsburgh today, due to the Allegheny ice, reaching a crest of between 26 and 27 feet late this afternoon.

BILL LIMITING AIR PROFITS APPROVED

Senate Adopts Plan To Hold Margin To 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP.)—The Senate today adopted an amendment to the half-billion dollar naval construction bill limiting profits on all ship and airplane contracts involving $10,000 or more to note more than 10 per cent.

The amendment was proposed by Chairman Trammell, of the Naval Committee, in lieu of a House provision restricting profits on all contracts to 10 per cent.

The amendment was adopted without a record vote, the members apparently being unanimous against continuing present practices of allowing huge profits on war equipment.

Headed toward almost certain passage, the bill had run into "little navy" opposition a little earlier. Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, called it a "blustering and bullying bill" and a measure "for the relief of munitions makers."

The House-approved measure provides for about 100 new destroyers and submarines, one aircraft carrier and more than 1,000 new airplanes. All would be constructed in the next five years to bring the combined fleets up to the full strength allowed by the Washington and London treaties.

LINK DILLINGER IN BANK HOLDUP

"Get back there or I'll blow the daylights out of you."

A companion stood 100 feet away, ready to sweep the street in a cross fire.

Meanwhile four others were in the bank where they threatened 30 customers and employes with death if they failed to obey orders.

One of the men mounted a marble-topped railing in the bank to stand guard while a companion forced his way into the money cage and scooped up all available currency, disdaining silver.

Later reports said the gang stole a third machine and finally piled into a big sedan hidden south of Shindler to continue their flight.

Bank officials estimated the loot at between $10,000 and $20,000.

Belief that the gang was headed by Dillinger was expressed by C. R. Clarke, president of the institution, and R. J. Dargan, teller, after viewing pictures of the bandit who escaped from jail at Crown Point, Ind., last week.

The police were taken by surprise by the bank robbers. A patrolman stationed near the bank was disarmed, while Chief M. W. Parsons and a detective drove into a trap as they answered the alarm.

Lined up with a machine gun at their backs, the officers were forced to stand, hand upraised, during the robbery.

The bandits marched employes and customers outside, singled out Olson and the four women employes, ordered them on to the running board of a waiting machine and headed south. Olson was released near the city limits but the women were kept prisoners until later.

Overtaken by pursuers, the robbers stopped, arranged the hostages in front of them as a shield and drove back three pursuing cars with several bursts from machine guns. Spreading nails to hamper pursuit, the bandits seized a car from a motorist and abandoned their first machine.

Hale Keith, a motorcycle officer, was shot in the abdomen, the thigh and the wrist, and physicians said his condition was critical.

PIERPONT TRIAL BEGINS

LIMA, O., March 6.—(AP.)—Harry Pierpont, regarded as the most astute member of the John Dillinger gang next to Dillinger himself, came to court smiling today to watch the selection of a jury which will hear the charges that he murdered Sheriff Jess L. Sarber here last October in a raid which freed Dillinger.

County Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin indicated that he intended to ask the death penalty for Pierpont.

Brig. Gen. Harold M. Bush announced that he has ordered more men into the city as a precaution.

STRIKERS BEAT HOTEL WORKER

Three Negro women were committed to jail this afternoon on charges of beating up a Negro employe on her way to work at the William Penn Hotel in an early-morning skirmish at Fifth and Wylie avenues.

The morning fight was followed by a noon-hour demonstration by about 60 striking employes of the hotel, who were finally dispersed by police after parading around the building.

The three Negro women were held on charges of aggravated assault and battery by Alderman A. M. Maloney on information sworn out by Ruth Reese, 30, Negro, of 2502 Center avenue. The Reese woman was taken to Allegheny General Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises on the head. Later she was discharged from the hospital.

The women in jail described themselves as Naomi Green, 28, of 128 Fullerton street; Anna Covington, 810 Moore street, and Mary Tolien, 31, of 2913 Carson street.

CASH AND CARRY STOCKS URGED

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP.)—Outlawing of all marginal trading and placing stock exchanges on a cash basis was advocated today before the Senate Banking Committee by Federal Judge William Clark, of New Jersey, who contended that margins lead in "an unconscionable number of cases to either death, dishonor or distress."

Earlier, the committee said a member of J. P. Morgan & Co. would be called for questioning on the sale of 4,500 shares of United Aircraft stock shortly before cancellation of the air mail contracts by the government.

The House Interstate Commerce Committee heard John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, testify that only the federal government could regulate stock exchanges on account of their interstate character.

Dickinson added that the Fletcher-Rayburn exchange control bill, with its rigid margin requirements, would result in the liquidation of vast amounts of securities with the "most deflationary consequences."

old fogies in the Army and Navy.

Somebody representing the United States ought to read Montesquieu's book on the "Grandeur of the Romans and Their Decadence" and learn why Rome's victorious fighting power lasted so long.

"That which contributed most to make the Romans masters of the world is the fact that, having fought successively against all nations, they, the Romans, always gave up their own fighting methods as soon as they found something better opposed to them."

They believed that a god must have given them the idea of the all-conquering Roman legion.

"The sharp swords of the Gauls, the elephants of Pyrrhus took them by surprise only once. They strengthened their cavalry, even took bridles from the horses in battle that the timid soldier might not be able to 'check their impetuosity' and 'as soon as they became acquainted with the superior Spanish swords they abandoned their own.'"

We hang on to old notions, fail to develop the airplane, and hope vainly that anti-aircraft guns will protect us.

We actually continue spending millions on our coast defense pop-guns that will never shoot at anything, not even a bootlegger.

JOHN DILLINGER, the desperate outlaw-killer, who intimidated and held up thirty prison officials, with no other weapon than a toy pistol made from a broomhandle with a safety razor blade, and made his escape, is still at large, supposed, by the police, to be hiding in Chicago.

The achievement is remarkable, but other criminals, remembering Dillinger's boast, "No prison will hold me," should remember all these things:

"Killer" Burke said no prison would hold him and he is in Michigan State Prison under a life sentence.

"Machine Gun" Kelly, another killer, said he would be out of jail before last Christmas Day and he is still serving his life sentence for kidnaping.

And Verne Sankey, kidnaper, who said he would escape from prison, did so, but by the suicide road.

RESPITE SEEN FOR INSULL

ATHENS, March 6.—(AP.)—Indications that Samuel Insull, Sr., has again thwarted efforts to expel him from Greece were seen today when the government announced he would be examined by physicians at noon, Thursday—two hours after the expiration of the government's "48 hours to leave Greece" order.

At the hour fixed, the same physicians who examined Insull previously will again judge his health.

Earlier in the day the government had issued a formal order of expulsion, but shortly thereafter Insull called a heart specialist to make an examination.

ALUMINUM MEN TO HOLD PARLEY

A new wage parley between the Aluminum Company of America and its striking employes in the New Kensington district was arranged for 11 a. m. tomorrow in the company offices.

I. W. Wilson, vice president of the Aluminum Company, advised the strike committee the officials would confer with it in the offices in the Gulf Building. The company has not attempted to operate its plants since the strike began last Thursday.

no trace of emotion as sentence was pronounced.

Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh called attention to the evidence in the trial to the effect that Dolan had signed the name of M. M. Spandau, alleged fictitious clerk, to the returns.

Mrs. Daschbach broke down and wept as she heard her sentence. She was aided from the courtroom to the marshal's office by her husband.

Attorney Coll hald told the court in pleading for leniency:

"I don't believe a woman should serve on an election board."

Judge Schoonmaker replied:

"Women asked for that privilege and should know the responsibility."

The court commented on the fact that Mrs. Daschbach had served on the Election Board for many years.

TELLS OF DEATH FEAR

When Kennedy was arraigned, he presented a petition signed by 55 persons, including a clergyman, asking that he be paroled. Prosecutor Marsh declared Kennedy did not tell the truth on the stand after he had made a statement in the federal attorney's office. He had not stuck to his story, Marsh said.

Kennedy told the court:

"I feared something physical would happened to me after my visit to the office. I thought I would be taken for a ride if I told the same thing on the stand."

Forty-four more defendants remain to be sentenced. Ten more will be arraigned Thursday, Friday and Monday.

In the courtroom throng today were many of those who are to be sentenced.

DENIES WRITING HOOVER VETO

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 6.—(AP.)—Former Insurance Commissioner J. I. Reece was asked on cross-examination today at his grand larceny trial if he wrote the veto message of President Hoover on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill in 1930.

He said he did not.

"Didn't you swear before the grand jury that you did?" pursued Seth M. Walker, the special prosecutor counsel of Gov. Hill McAlister.

"No."

Reece has testified in 1930 he was employed by a group of power companies and stationed in Washington. A defense objection was sustained to Walker's question as to whether the defendant handled large sums of money for power companies "for the purpose of bribing men."

Reece denied he was employed as a power lobbyist, but did not state the nature of his employment.

'Silver Good as Gold,' Coughlin Tells House

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP.)—A plea for remonetization of silver to stop continued "decimation" of agriculture was made to a House Banking sub-committee today by Father Coughlin, outspoken Detroit priest. He said:

"Unless very speedily we do something to remonetize silver, we can socialize industry and regulate farming all we want, but it will all continue to be with the one effect of shortening hours, trying to keep wages up and reducing production.

"If I may use a reference with somewhat of a religious tinge, it is like begging God on bended knee to 'give us this day our daily bread' and then standing up erect in Congress and saying, 'take back your bread, we don't want it.

"We can't go on this way, decimating cotton, wheat and the like."

He added:

"Money, after all, is only a yardstick, and silver is as pretty and as durable as gold. But it does not have that one bad feature of gold, in that silver is 15 times more plentiful. And it is not printing press money."

Declaring America's day of exporting agricultural and manufactured products to European markets was virtually over, Coughlin insisted this country must turn to the Orient and other silver using countries for trade. He dismissed as "ridiculous" the contention opening up silver would flood the United States with the white metal.

GLASS CUTTERS DROP STRIKE

A threatened walkout of 1,200 employes at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at Creighton was averted when Glen W. McCabe, president of the Glass Cutters' League of America, prevailed upon the workers to settle their grievance by arbitration, it became known today.

McCabe said that the workers planned to walk out today in demand of Union recognition, a check-off system and the reinstatement of two discharged employes. McCabe denied rumors that the proposed walkout was in sympathy with workers at the New Kensington plant of the Aluminum Company of America.

Following assurance of glass company officials that they would abide by a previous agreement to recognize Union members in collective bargaining and other plant affairs, the workers voted to leave the entire matter in the hands of local and national committees, McCabe said.

The latter planned to meet with company officials this afternoon to work out further operating plans to be followed in the settlement of grievances.

Mrs. Roosevelt in Cuba After Flight Over Sea

International News Service.

NUEVITAS, Cuba, March 6.—The airplane American Clipper, carrying Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, arrived here from Miami at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt took off today aboard the American Clipper of the Pan-American Airways, bound for Port-au-Prince, Haiti, on her way to Porto Rico.

Settling herself comfortably in the V-motored Sikorsky, the First Lady looked across the expanse of blue water and smiled contentedly. She is an enthusiastic flier, and her first oceanic flight holds no terrors for her. She was only disappointed she could not make the whole passage from Washington by air.

Six other passengers and a crew of six were aboard the Clipper. Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, was among the passengers.

He is on his way to Porto Rico to study the island's agricultural problems.

When Mrs. Roosevelt stepped out of the train at 7:20 a. m. some 200 people were waiting on the station platform. Amid applause she acknowledged their greetings.

Then two bouquets and a book about Florida were pressed upon her as she made her way behind a police escort to the airport bus.

BANDIT SEARCH TAKES LIFE OF WRONG MAN

Beechview Holdup Witness Clears Victim

A 20-year-old youth was shot and killed by a policeman on the South Side early today.

Patrolman Charles J. Taylor, who fired the fatal shot, told a deputy coroner he had not intended to shoot the youth, but said he slipped as he pulled the trigger of his pistol.

The victim was Carl Kulesik, of 2603 McCord street. He died in South Side Hospital an hour after he was shot near South Twelfth and Muriel streets. He was one of 15 children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kulesik.

POLICEMAN RELEASED

Taylor was released on his own recognizance after Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall acompanied him to the Coroner's office and said Kulesik leaped out of an automobile similar to one which the police were hunting in connection with a holdup.

Taylor and Patrolman Patrick Coyne said they saw an automobile, parked without lights, that looked like one they were hunting in connection with a Beechview holdup. As they approached, they said, Kulesik leaped out and ran away.

Taylor said the youth did not halt when they commanded him and the officer fired. The policeman slipped, he said, and the shot intended to frighten Kulesik struck the youth in the head.

Police said they found two five-gallon cans of moonshine whisky in the automobile. It was revealed later the machine was the same make, but not the same model, as that reported used in the Beechview robbery.

CLEARED BY WITNESS

Several minutes after Kulesik died, police brought Sam Mazzari, 27, of 1720 Broadway, to the hospital to determine whether the dead youth was one of the two who held up and robbed P. J. Borland, 70, of 1661 Broadway, near his home, shortly before midnight. Mazzari, according to police, came to Borland's rescue and struck one of the bandits. The holdup pair then fled in an automobile, Mazzari said.

Mazzari stood at Kulesik's bedside, studied the victim, then said:

"No, that man's too long and his facial features are different."

Several hours later the police took for questioning Tony Spero, 35, of Crosby avenue, who they said employed Kulesik and owned the car. Arrest of a second person was expected.

Schedules filed with the petition yesterday in the United States District Court revealed a disputed claim of Naida L. Krasnova, an actress, for $250,000, alleging breach of promise to marry.

Samuel F. Gillman, member of the legal firm representing Livermore, said last night his client had "made three very large fortunes during his career, failed three times and on each occasion paid 100 cents on the dollar with interest, and hopes to do it again."

wake of the gorges as they swept toward the Ohio.

MERCURY DROPS

Warnings to those in flood districts were sent out by Mayor McNair's special committee. The Weather Bureau had sent out a warning this morning when a flood stage became certain.

A heavy snow flurry struck this district this afternoon with a sharp drop in temperature, bolstering the prediction that the high water would be of short duration. The mercury fell seven degrees—from 39 to 32, in 20 minutes.

Fearing lest the Highland Park Bridge over the Allegheny River, an old structure, might be threatened, County Commissioner C. M. Barr ordered county police to keep flood-curious passersby from congregating on the span.

VALLEY TOWNS SUFFER

Ice blocks as large as automobiles piled up on the river banks north of Pittsburgh. Parkers Landing and Brady's Bend suffered most in the valley towns.

Brady's Bend was without lights. The ice jam broke early today below Brady's Bend and the water receded rapidly. One house there and two at Sarah Furnace were swept away. Another below Brady's Bend was damaged.

The water backed up a half mile over the river bank at Brady's Bend, inundating about a score of homes. The residents moved to second floors, or abandoned their houses until the flood receded.

The home of Raymond Crissman was swept away and was deposited in an ice pack in the front yard of the home of Margaret Bernard, a quarter of a mile below Brady's Bend. The Bernard dwelling was damaged by the ice pressure.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED

With the East Brady Bridge gone and that at Parkers Landing closed to vehicular traffic, there was no means for automobiles to cross the river between Kittanning and Emlenton. Bradys Bend school children who attend school in East Brady were unable to go to their classes today.

Three to four feet of water swirled through Parkers Landing's business district last night until the ice gorge broke up below the town. The windows of business houses were boarded up to save them from the huge ice floes, but others were broken.

Employes of the Parkers Landing First National Bank stayed at work yesterday with three or four inches of water on the floor.

The gorge below Parkers Landing broke at 5:30 o'clock last night to abate the danger there, but four hours later the huge cakes had gorged a new at the sweeping river bend at East Brady.

The ice held there until 3:30 a. m., when it broke away, carrying two sections of the bridge on the East Brady side of the river away. The span sank after floating on the ice below Phillipston.

Water and ice swept over the lock walls at Dam No. 7 and the stream was rising a foot an hour at Kittanning.

POLICE ON DUTY

Pennsylvania highway patrolmen were on duty through the night halting traffic on the roads into Parkers Landing and Brady's Bend. Crews of workmen were busy in the affected towns today cleaning away the ice deposits.

The Weather Bureau here reported there was little ice in the Monongahela River, although the stream was rising slowly.

In the northern reaches of the Allegheny, floods were reported driving river front residents from their homes. Residents were forced out at Kinzua, and Cornplanter Indians, on the Gewango Reservation, were driven to higher ground. The ice was dynamited on the west branch of Tuna Creek at Bradford.

Wife Ends Life, Chides Mate in Suicide Note

Leaving a note chiding her husband for "taking her for granted, like a piece of furniture," Mrs. Minnie Hulsman, 42, ended her life with a bullet through her heart in her home, Northern pike, Monroeville, early today, the Coroner reported.

She was found dead, sitting in her bedroom, a revolver in her lap. Her nightgown had been burned by the flash.

Two notes, one to her son, "Bobbie," indicating she intended to end her life with gas, the other to her husband, Henry C. Hulsman, were left by the wife and mother. To her husband she wrote:

"Henry, I am going to give you a permanent separation and you can keep your $45 every two months to give me a decent burial . . . You never tried to make things pleasant for me and I could very rarely get you to talk and when I did talk to you it was merely a grunt I got.

"I am going on a long rest. I don't wish you any hard luck and am trusting you to take care of Bobby and I am sure you will."

YOUTH JAILED, RE-ENACTS SLAYING

Banksville Boy Shows How Patrolman Was Slain

A slight, delicate-looking 19-year-old high school boy was in the county jail today awaiting trial in Criminal Court on a charge of killing a state highway patrolman September 4.

He is Thomas A. Davis, Jr., who, state and county police say, reenacted for them yesterday how he shot Herbert Brantlinger and then sped away in a stolen Ford.

Brought to Pittsburgh yesterday from Carlyle, Ill., heavily guarded, he was taken to the scene of the crime—a roadside gasoline station near Bridgeville.

CALM AT SCENE

There, according to County Detective Frank Ritz, Davis, calmly, told how he shot down Brantlinger when he sighted him on his motorcycle.

Then, after describing the fatal holdup, Ritz said, the boy led the officers over the route he had taken to his home at 2956 Banksville road.

All this, the police contend, gives them evidence in addition to the written "confession" they said the youth made several days ago.

Shortly afterwards the grand jury indicted Davis in the murder and he was then taken to the jail.

QUICKLY RECAPTURED

Because he made a daring and short-lived escape from the Illinois jail Friday night, Warden John McNeil declared that he is "taking no chances" with him, then added:

"But I won't brag like Sheriff Mrs. Lillian Holley, from whom John Dillinger escaped. There was never a jail made that a man can't get out of, if he is given time and an opportunity."

Davis' return in the custody of State Police Lieut. Charles C. Keller was made in secrecy. Even his attorney, Robert B. Ivory, Sr., said he was unable to locate him.

HYMNS TO MARK SERVICES FOR NETTIE

Lies in State, Guarded From Prying Eyes, In North Side Home

Housed in velvet and bronze, Nettie Gordon lies in state today in her elaborately furnished apartment at 12 East North avenue. Resting with quiet dignity on the down-filled, chiffon velvet interior of her $4,000 silvered bronze casket, she is jealously guarded by a close circle of intimate friends and relatives from the prying eyes of the idly curious. Her friends in life are the only ones who are admitted to see her in death.

No jewelry bedecks the one-time famous "underworld queen" in her costly bier. Her diamond ring, rumored to be worth the price of her casket; her diamond earrings and her diamond brooch are safely tucked away in a safety deposit box.

Nettie's hand, nails flesh-tinted, clasp two white gardenias. Dressed in softly clinging flesh-colored chiffon velvet negligee, she is half-covered by a ruffled chamois colored velvet robe, made of the same material as the interior of the casket.

WROUGHT IN BRONZE

The casket itself is of massive design, with a rich silver-plated finish to the wrought bronze. Stately corner columns of classic Corinthian design are surmounted with acanthus leaves. Before the casket is closed tomorrow, an oval plate glass inner-sealing device will encase the body. The casket will be interred in a vault in the family lot in Uniondale Cemetery, where Nettie's father and mother are buried.

While the curious were forbidden to gaze on the last scene of the amazing drama which was Nettie's life, close in attendance were her brother, Harry Gordon, one-time policeman; a sister and three nephews. A thick Oriental rug stills the footfalls of those who are permitted to approach the bier.

'GENEROUS TO A FAULT'

A strange variety of friends had Nettie, from all walks of life. Many are the good words that are being said about her as she lies dead. George Quinn, who drove her car for her for a number of years, said:

"Generous to a fault, Nettie was. Many's the Christmas and New Year's when I delivered dozens of turkeys and baskets among the poor. If she heard of a death, she was the first to offer aid, send food, offer her car for the funeral. If you were her friend you never needed to worry about being broke or hungry."

Tales were told when news of Nettie's death in St. John's Hospital Saturday after an operation reached the haunts of her familiars. How Nettie had buried an old Negro servant, James Boston, in a $1,500 casket. How Nettie always went to market and did her own shopping. How she kept fresh and young looking with the aid of a steam cabinet in her bedroom.

Her full name, Nettie C. Gordon, along with her birth and death dates, August 7, 1874, and March 3, 1934, is hand engraved on the lid of her bronze casket. Inside is a silver plate, with the inscription, "Sister." Hymns will be sung at the private service at her home tt 2:30 p. m. tomorrow by a well-known professional singer.

RASPUTIN CASE APPEAL TAKEN

International News Service.

LONDON, March 6.—Sir William Jowitt, counsel for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Ltd., applied today to the Court of Appeals for a stay of execution of the judgment obtained against the film company by Princess Irina Youssoupoff.

The Princess, cousin of the late Czar of Russia, was awarded approximately $126,000 by a jury, which decided yesterday she had been defamed by the motion picture, "Rasputin, the Mad Monk." Scenes in the picture, the Princess charged, carried the implication she had been seduced by the ecclesiastic, who exercised a sinister influence in the court of the late Czar Nicholas.

The application was heard by Lords Justices Scrutton, Greer and Maughn. The court promised a decision March 12.

LONDON, March 6.—The romantic elopement of Prince Sigvard, of Sweden, and Miss Erika Patzek, pretty film actress and daughter of a German commoner, will culminate in marriage here March 8.

The Prince today filed a notice of his intention to marry Miss Patzek on Thursday. The wedding will take place at Caxton Hall here.

The romantic young Prince, grandson of King Gustaf of Sweden and of the Duke of Connaught, will renounce his rights of succession to the Swedish throne to follow the dictates of his heart.

Miss Patzek, blonde, petite, will win the Prince that rumor twice had linked in reports of marriage with royal princesses and once with a famous film actress, Greta Garbo.

Although at first joining in the family opposition, the 84-year-old Duke of Connaugh, whose daughter, the late Princess Margaret of Connaugh, was Sigvard's mother, was the first to capitulate.

The Duke is spending the winter in Southern France, at Nice. Nearby the other grandfather, King Gustaf, also is wintering.

The two grandfathers, it is reported, got together. The Duke persuaded the King he should let young love have its way. The King capitulated and announced the marriage of the Prince and Erika would have his blessing.

COUNCIL FIGHTS CIVIL SERVICE REBUFF

Refusal of the Civil Service Commission to amend its rules brought criticism from City Council today as Councilmen sought other methods to make possible staggering work among city employes in lieu of numerous dismissals.

City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully was announced before Council in budget session and asked if there was a legal reason why the Commission could not suspend its rules. Scully said he thought the Commission was the final judge of its own rules. The Solicitor was directed to negotiate further with the Commission.

The commission's rebuff to Council came after a conference with Mayor McNair, who has taken a stand against changing the rules. He apparently regarded Council's action as trespassing on the executive branch of the city. He said:

"I'll tell my department heads to fire anyone they want to."

Councilman William A. Magee declared last night that the arrangement can be made in Council by regulating the appropriations in the salary ordinance. Magee is the author of the resolution asking for the amendment of the Commission's rule.

COMMISSION'S LETTER

The letter, in which the Civil Service Commission declined to suspend their rule, stated:

"Should this amendment be passed, in our opinion, it would completely abrogate the provisions of the Civil Service Act of 1907."

The Civil Service Commssioners, including Miss Julia Marie Doyle, president, Fred W. Miner and Walter O. Bever, were unanimous in their decision.

The section of the rule which the Magee resolution sought to have amended reads:

"In making discharges or granting leaves of absence because of lack of work or funds, or the abolition of positions, the heads of departments shall consider the capability, efficiency and length and quality of service of the employes, and shall first discharge or grant leaves of absence to those whose records are least meritorious."

STAGGERING PLAN

The proposed amendment, according to Magee, provided that where a less sum was appropriated than what would pay the full salaries of employes for 12 months, the work could be staggered through furloughs and the workers paid only for actual time.

Approximately 90 per cent of the city payroll is under the protection of the Civil Service Act.

EXEMPT CLASS

Those who have no protection from civil service are the unclassified group consisting of officers elected by the people, heads of departments whose confirmation rests in Council, members of the Civil Service Commission itself and all persons appointed by name in any statute.

There is also the "exempt" class of positions, which includes the superintendent of police, the chief of the fire department, the chief of detectives, one secretary and one confidential clerk to the Mayor, and one confidential clerk to the director of each department.

In the same class are positions of a special nature for the filling of which competitive examinations have been found impractical by the commission.

The bulk of the payroll is in the competitive, non-competitive or labor class, selected from those making the highest grades in examinations.

ORDERS ARE BINDING

In the competitive and non-competitive classes, no employe can be discharged or reduced in pay except for just cause, which shall not be religious or political. The employe must be furnished with a written statement of the reasons for his removal, and allowed to give the removing officer a written answer, which goes to the Civil Service Commission for consideration.

If the discharged employe takes an appeal with the commission, he must be given a hearing and if the commission sustains his appeal, the department head who fired him is directed to reinstate him. The commission's orders are binding on the removing and appointing officers.

The act provides that an officer may suspend a subordinate for a period not exceeding 30 days, but successive suspensions are not allowed except in special cases where reasons of public importance make it necessary and where the permission of the commission has been obtained.

PROTECTION FOR PAYROLL

The chief protection for the payroll is found in the section of the rules which Council asked the commission to suspend.

It provides that where suspensions are necessary the least meritorious go first.

In filling a vacancy in the protected classes, the appointing official is required to select from the three men having the highest marks in the civil service examinations in their group.

Civil service lists are at present filled with applicants that few examinations have been given since the beginning of the new administration. The lists expire after one year.

Socialist Leader Will Speak Here

As part of the Socialist party's 1934 political campaign, August Claessens, executive secretary of the party, will begin a state-wide tour with two addresses here this week.

He will speak at Taylor Allerdice High School Friday at 8 p. m. and at Malta Hall, 100 West North avenue, North Side, at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. Claessens is an instructor of public speaking at the Rand School for Social Science, New York.

Rockefeller Name On Party Rolls Of Socialists

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP.)—Socialists were quite pleased and startled to find on their party rolls today the name of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III.

Mrs. Rockefeller and her husband, the son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are regularly enrolled in the Republican party. The new allegiance of Mrs. Rockefeller was held to be entirely synthetic and attributable to a clerical error.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, was skeptical over the conversion, but said she was quite welcome, "for she may be intelligent enough to know that even the Rockefeller fortune is none too secure in the present world."

RACKET RAIDS SNARE 19

Magistrate Howard B. McNutt in Central Police Court today continued to crack down on rackets as he held 10 men for court and fined nine others.

Dave Rubin, of 2042 Center avenue, who conducts a newsstand at Seventh avenue and Smithfield street, was held, charged with operating a lottery.

Five white men and four Negroes, arrested in a police raid yesterday at 36 Chatham street, were held on charges of accessory to operating a lottery. Lieut. Dennis Hennessey, who led the raids, reported seizing adding machines and numbers books.

Admitting that he operated the Chatham street headquarters, Rubin pleaded that "it was only a small business, grossing from $50 to $100 take a day, with a profit of only $5 to $10." The nine other defendants denied that they were numbers writers.

Charged with violation of the liquor laws, Mike Steanena, of 40 Clay way, was fined $25 or 10 days in jail. The eight visitors were fined $5 or five days in jail.

RANSOM NOTES READ AT TRIAL

ALBANY, N. Y., March 6.—(AP.)—The kidnapers of John J. O'Connell threatened him with death if his politically prominent family did not raise $250,000, it was revealed at the trial of Manny Strewl today. O'Connell, abducted last July, named Strewl as one of his kidnapers.

The state today completed introduction of the ransom notes. Daniel H. Prior, defense counsel, strenuously resisted the reading of the letters to the jury. Strewl, go-between in the kidnaping, is accused of writing the letters.

One letter, received by the O'Connells on July 18, said:

"Heard from Manny. What you offered is an insult. We want action. If you want John alive get 250 G's. If you want him the other way we can accommodate you. We don't like your kind. If you're going to bargain we'll end it. When we asked for 250 G's we knew you could get it, Roma.

'Manny, if you get the money tomorrow, have all shades in your house drawn. Roma."

Daniel P. O'Connell, uncle of the kidnaping victim, testified yesterday the family could only pay $40,000, which the gang finally accepted.

Woman Hurt in Leap During Police Raid

Mrs. Katherine Kennedy, 28, of 1040 Fifth avenue, was in the Mercy Hospital today with a fractured leg and lacerations of the head and face, suffered when, policemen say, she jumped from a second-story window at her home during a police raid last night.

Felix Dechmerwski, 20, of 139 South Seventeenth street, an alleged companion, was held on a disorderly conduct charge, police said.

EVANS NAMED INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

Solving one of the puzzles of the city administration, George E. Evans today was sworn in as superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection by Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith.

Evans, a personal friend of Mayor McNair, retired from the Democratic campaign slate in the fall campaign to leave a place for Councilman William A. Magee, expected to strengthen the ticket.

After he took office McNair said he would not give Evans a job to avoid suspicion of a "deal" in his retirement from the ticket—a retirement which the Mayor vigorously protested.

'EYEING POST HIMSELF'

Evans' next appearance on the public scene was when he mysteriously asked Council President Robert Garland to hold up the appointment of Attorney William E. Schoyer to the Traction Conference Board. He said he was acting for City Solicitor C. D. Scully, but when Scully denied this, Evans claimed he "represented other parties."

Reports about City Hall have it that Evans was eyeing a Traction Board appointment for himself.

BUSY OVER HOUSING

Evans has also busied himself about the Mayor's office with housing and slum clearance plans, some of which were submitted for PWA funds. The Mayor was so interested in his propositions that he sent his secretary, Theodore L. Moritz, to Washington in an effort to have them approved.

Announcement of Evans' coming appointment was made by Smith after a conference with the Mayor.

Evans, a contractor, will replace H. L. Ley, who has served more than six years as building inspection superintendent. A Kline appointee, Ley was recommended by the Builders' Exchange. The salary is $3,750.

M'DEVITT OUT FOR GOVERNOR

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—(AP.)—Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, announced yesterday that he is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The jurist's entrance into the governorship race, and his assertion that no one can "kick my hat out of the ring unless I do so myself," marked a day of Republican developments. Others included:

A plea for harmony by another gubernatorial candidate, Edward Lowber Stokes, a representative in Congress, and a decision by the city committee's new advisory "war board" to invite civic groups and business organizations to suggest candidates to be supported by the Philadelphia Republican organization at the primary election in May.

The decision to cast aside the "slate making" power, which has governed the organization for several years, was believed unprecedented in local political history.

Nazi Pastor Made Bishop of Hamburg

HAMBURG, Germany, March 6.—(AP.)—A Nazi pastor, the Rev. Franz Tuegel, was appointed today by the local synod of the German Protestant Church as Bishop of Hamburg, succeeding the Rev. Simon Schoeffel who resigned March 1 because of differences with radical Nazi Christians.

Pittsburgh Auto Kills Boy on Road

CANONSBURG, Pa., March 6.—(AP.)—Struck by an automobile as he was walking along the highway, William Ballentine, 17, of McGovern, was killed last night.

Albert A. Munsch, of 1154 Wightman street, Pittsburgh, driver of the car, took the youth to a hospital where he was pronounced dead. Police held Munsch pending an investigation.

SECRET BUDGET CONFERENCES DEFENDED

City Council's secret conferences have been held in order to obtain free expression of opinion from department heads and advisors on the budget, according to Councilmen.

The city budget, it is believed, will be closed within the next few days and the conferences will cease. However, should further need for the closed meetings arise, Council members say they will not hesitate to hold them.

Mayor McNair vigorously objects to the closed meetings. He has threatened to prop the doors of his conference room open and allow the entire press gallery to listen in on the Council conferences.

In regard to the closed conferences, Council President Robert Garland said:

"We talked over general matters, but put no motions nor resolutions. We conferred with the bankers about revenue. We feel we can make better progress in that manner."

Councilman William A. Magee said:

"We held closed conferences in order to get a more free expression of opinion from directors on qualifications of employes and the amount of service that would be cut down by budget reductions."

CHIEF DEFEATS BURGESS CRITIC

Despite the opposition of Burgess Richard H. Lawry, David Lindberg is still police chief of West Homestead.

Lawry complained at last night's Council meeting that Lindberg had not been reporting for duty. The chief was given the floor by Council and defended himself. As Council seemed to favor Lindberg, the Burgess abandoned the subject. Lawry has twice dismissed Lindberg, whom the Council reinstated both times.

Council promised Dr. John Sullivan, at the meeting, that should there be a vacancy in Council he would be selected to fill it. Dr. Sullivan was a Council candidate at the last election. He received the largest vote, but it was split under different versions of his name. The court awarded the post to his nearest competitor, Dr. W. J. McGill.

New York Sleuths Face Test on Intelligence

NEW YORK, March 6.—(Universal.)—Are detectives really dumb?

Police Commissioner O'Ryan announced today that he intends to find out by means of intelligence tests. He will confer with Prof. Ben Wood, of the psychology department of Columbia University, on the details of the examinations, which will be wholly experimental at first.

The Commissioner declared it to be his belief that fully half of the city's 275 first grade detectives hold their jobs through political influence.

THREE IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY

Ronald D. Negley, Crafton, has announced as a candidate for Legislature in the Twelfth District. Negley promised support of progressive legislation. Mrs. Nell Rose Reiter is organizing a woman's committee to back him.

In the Sixth District Leo J. Kaylor has a platform indorsing state unemployment insurance, adequate hospitalization for charity patients, a 60-year age limit for old-age pensions and measures which will increase employment.

Albert F. Steinmetz, Democratic chairman of the Thirteenth Ward, running for the Legislature in the Thirteenth District, says he expects support from the Democratic organization. Steinmetz, a federal employe, announced his ward organization is backing Congressman Henry Ellenbogen for re-election.

Tighe Won't Run For Assembly Seat

William R. Tighe, of 314 Augusta street, connected with the traffic promotion department, Pittsburgh Railways Company, today said he was not a candidate for the Legislature in the Sixth Legislative District.

Tighe stated that overzealous friends apparently had taken out nomination papers to have his name placed on the ballot of four party tickets. He had authorized no such step, he asserted.

Ask Ward Divided To Help Political Organizing

Because "it is hard to develop a strong political organization with so wide an area," the Beechview Women's Democratic Club has asked Council to divide the Nineteenth Ward.

The proposition, requesting that division be made so that Brookline and Beechview would be embraced in a single ward, was referred to finance committee.

Mrs. Annette Thackwell Johnson, candidate for the State Senate in the Forty-second District, the North Side Pittsburgh wards, in a campaign announcement today said she would work for a heavy tax on chain stores to "keep Pennsylvania money in Pennsylvania."

Senator Morris Einstein in the same district will be a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket, and B. B. McGinnis will seek the Democratic nomination. Mrs. Johnson is running in both primaries. In her announcement she said:

"I shall do all I can towards keeping Pennsylvania money in Pennsylvania by taxing chain organizations which take it out of the state. I shall stand for the city manager plan, old age pensions, the abolition of sweatshops and the safeguarding of human life above corporate dividends."

FOUR OFFICERS EXONERATED IN SLAYING

Two state policemen and two constables today stood exonerated in the death of John Cotton, 19, of Curtisville, shot to death in a "framed" barbecue holdup in KDKA boulevard, Indiana Township, February 14.

The officers were freed late yesterday by a Coroner's jury, which returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. Milton Eckler, 19, repudiated the statement which county detectives said he made in St. Francis Hospital after he had been shot in the holdup. Detectives said Eckler told them that he had lured Cotton into the holdup at a request of the policemen and constables.

At the inquest, Eckler testified he was sick when he made the statement and couldn't remember just what he said.

After hearing the testimony, the jury ordered the four officers freed. Those released were Privates H. A. Stinnett and Charles E. Mullen and Constables Irvey Asay, of East Deer Township, and William Brozek, of Indiana Township. It was admitted among the defendants that they provided Eckler with an automobile and a revolver, but they denied they had meant to lead him into a crime or to bring about the shooting.

The barbecue in which the fatal gunplay occurred was operated by Martin A. Sallade.

The detectives theorized Eckler had been induced to lead Cotton into a holdup because the officers suspected him of participating in other holdups, but were unable to connect him directly.

Eckler, also exonerated, was held for further questioning and if there are no new developments, will be released today.

DRIVER INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Driving an automobile which crashed head-on into a street car in Squirrel Hill last night, Lucien Gregg, 24, of 6582 Beacon street, son of a prominent automobile dealer, was dragged from the wreckage of his car and taken to Columbia Hospital in a serious condition.

Gregg, according to police, was driving west on Forbes street when his car swerved to the left and struck an eastbound Swissvale trolley operated by James McDonough. At the hospital it was said he suffered a possible skull fracture and fracture of both arms. Reckless driving charges were made against both parties, according to police.

Police said he is the son of F. B. Gregg, of McKinley-Gregg Auto Company, 447 North Craig street.

Dog Owners Told To Get Licenses

Dog owners in the city have been warned to procure 1934 licenses for their pets from the City Treasurer's Office. According to an announcement from Louis Weil, unlicensed dogs will be impounded and their owners fined.

Woman Injured As Autos Collide

Mrs. Esther Friedman, 50, of 323 Dinwiddie street, was injured when an automobile in which she was riding and another car collided at Wood street and Sixth avenue, last night, according to a police report. She was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Victor Abelson, 31, of 2825 Shady avenue, driver of the car in which Mrs. Friedman was a passenger, and Guiseppi Scuilli, 36, of 333 Boquet street, operator of the other, escaped injury, police said.

PORTER ESTATE LEFT IN TRUST

James M. Porter, of Stanton avenue, left an estate valued at $20,000 in trust for Laura Robb Porter in his will filed for probate today. Upon her death, two thirds of the estate will go to a daughter, Fanny Porter Langfitt, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and the other third to a grandson, Louis J. Robb.

Casper P. Mayer, Collier Township, left personal property valued at $5,000 and real estate of undetermined value to his wife, Philomena Mayer, after setting aside $3,500 for a cemetery lot and mausoleum. On the death of the wife, the estate will go to their children.

RUSH TO WRITE TEXT FOR PEAK ALREADY ON

By a Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 5.—It has not taken America long to begin thinking about its immemorial epic—600 words of inspiring judgment—a telegram in granite to posterity!

From California and from New York two competitors have already sent in their texts. They want the honor of serving the Mount Rushmore Memorial Commission by submitting texts through the Hearst newspapers for the consideration of the commission in selecting what Gutzon Borglum shall carve on the backbone of the Rockies.

They stress these ideas:

That in the Declaration of Independence was set forth the political doctrine of the common brotherhood of mankind.

That in the making of the Constitution of the United States there was built around that doctrine a bulwark of law to preserve our inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

That in the purchase of Louisiana there was secured for a people committed to those ideals, the fertile valley of the Mississippi and a home for the nation's growing population.

That in the entry of Texas, another rich and glorious territory became a source of material and spiritual growth.

That in the cession of the Floridas, the growing coastline increased our power of self-protection and added new resources.

That in the acquisition of California, America achieved the material completion of her transcontinental destiny and the assurance of a haven for her independent spirit and aspiring hopes.

That by the settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute there was continued the necessitous definition of jurisdiction and established the basis for permanent peaceful relation with the motherland.

That with the purchase of Alaska these broadened areas were assured of physical protection, and there was opened up a store of natural resources giving life and vitality to the industrially growing nation.

That the opening of the Panama Canal under the aegis of the United States not only gave the final protective advantage to our people but assured for ages, a growth and expansion of the world's trade, promoting thereby our national prosperity.

That is how the first two competitors view the nine episodes of history embodied in the commission's quest for a 600-word text that will adequately inform and inspire the nation's descendants a few thousand years from now.

HASTE NOT ESSENTIAL

Those two contestants sat right down and created their texts in the heat of immediate inspiration. They were, as it happens, informed as to just what each of the episodes meant. But no competitor should feel that haste is essential. It is not the first that always wins—it is the best!

Perhaps one of those first two texts will win. But there are many hundreds of thousands yet to be written—and to help you to form an adequate judgment, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is planning a series of special articles on each of the nine subjects, each article to be written by a famous authority on the material it embodies.

POETRY OR PROSE?

Already there are hints of a stirring and fascinating controversy.

Should the inscription be in prose or poetry?

The poets declare that poetry is the highest form of human expression in speech—and that therefore the poet is naturally best suited to express, with brevity, the meaning of the nation's greatness.

The prose writers declare that the dignity of prose is better fitted to express the significance of our growth than the flights of poetic style.

Judges of local committees remain non-commital.

Dr. George J. Ryan, chairman of the New York committee, says:

"What we seek is the most complete expression in the briefest possible terms. Why should not both forms have equal consideration? After all, much poetry reads like prose—and some prose reads like poetry."

DAILY READING HELPFUL

At any rate, by reading the Sun-Telegraph every day, you are sure to find the help and guidance you need to enable you to visualize clearly just what each episode has meant to the nation.

The rules and the list of prize awards, which are many and valuable, will be reprinted from time to time in the Sun-Telegraph. The great number of requests make it impossible to supply them separately, and the necessity of limited space make it impossible to print them every day.

But by clipping them when they appear, and saving them, you will have constantly at hand all the information you will need on that score. Both rules and prizes were published last Sunday.

With patriotic and civic organizations throughout the country organizing their own competitions, from which the winning entries will be submitted to the local committees on the closing dates, the commission is more than enthusiastic over the reception which the nation-wide movement has already brought forth.

DR. CHARLES E. DICKEY

Ex-Jurist, Veteran Leader Also On Committee

Carnegie Institute of Technology; the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University; Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools; Dr. Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of Allegheny County schools; former Judge Robert M. Ewing, president of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, and Capt. J. Clark Mansfield, president of Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of American Revolution, and past state commander of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Dr. Baker and Dr. Callahan lauded the historical enterprise when first announced. Dr. Baker said that this serious effort to recall great figures in our history should be encouraged. The time is opportune, Dr. Callahan commented, for such an educational movement to "refresh our minds on great traditions."

Contending that the competition should appeal to both historian and student, former Judge Ewing said:

"It deserves a splendid response and should procure the best thought in the land as the result of the method in which the Hearst newspapers are aiding the National Commission. My connection with the Historical Society and history in general makes this appeal to me, because it is becoming recognized that not sufficient emphasis has been placed on these matters for the benefit of the younger generation."

Comparing the Mount Rushmore Memorial as more permanent to America than the pyramids are to Egypt, Capt. Mansfield described the monument in stone by saying:

"Here will be a permanent message to all America for thousands of years. The Memorial Commission is to be commended for permitting the Hearst newspapers to search throughout the country for that patriotic spirit that in humble words from the country's own citizens will inspire the text."

BANDITS ROB 2 MOTORMEN

Two street car motormen were held up and robbed by a pair of bandits in the North Side and Woods Run sections shortly before midnight. The bandits escaped with $12, police said.

The first holdup occurred at California avenue and Wynhurst street, when two young men, one wearing a red bandana over his face, flashed a gun at Patrick Morgan, operator of a Brighton Road trolley, and took $12 from him. Y. S. Phillips, of 287 Enger street, Ross Township, was the only passenger in the car, which was making the loop.

Less than a half hour later, two bandits, believed to be the same pair, held up Motorman Charles Stafford of a Woods Run street car. They took an empty cash box, according to police. Mrs. Rose Irwin, 1621 Sedgewick street, was the only passenger in the trolley.

WILLIAMS PITT DRIVE LEADER

Homer D. Williams, who marshalled the 1925 drive which raised more than $8,000,000 for the Cathedral of Learning, will lead the present movement to raise $1,650,000 and to finish the building now, officials said today.

Joseph C. Trees, who also had a prominent part in that campaign, will be one of the vice chairman, Chancellor John G. Bowman announced. Appointment of others who will assist Williams is expected this week. Present plans call for the help of the same business and industrial leaders who aided personally the first campaign.

Plans for the Cathedral's completion now call for finishing the first 20 floors and the rough finishing of the top 20. Subscribed funds will supplement CWA grants of $745,000, which will only permit the university to continue limited construction until May 1. At the present time, the only floors occupied in the high building are those from the sixth to the thirteenth.

NESBIT FAMILY LOSES FIGHT FOR TRUST

The widow and three children of Harrison Nesbit, former president of the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., today had lost their fight to keep the entire amount of life insurance left by him at the time of his death in an automobile crash, October 21, 1931.

The United States Supreme Court denied their petition for a review of the opinion of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which awarded the family only $267,878 of an insurance trust fund of $755,655.

The difference, amounting to $478,000, goes to creditor banks who had brought suit against the estate on the ground that Nesbit was insolvent at the time he set up the insurance trust and did so with the intent to defraud his creditors.

Judge James H. Gray in the Allegheny County Court had awarded $550,000 to the Nesbit heirs and had ordered the remainder of the insurance money paid to his creditors. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, in modifying this decree, ordered proceeds of all policies which had been changed by Nesbit in setting up the insurance trust to be paid to his creditors. Those not changed went to his family.

Attorney H. Fred Mercer fought to have the entire proceeds turned over to the Nesbit family, pleading sanctity of the insurance fund.

Nesbit's children are Scott H. Nesbit, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Jerome P. Bowers, Chicago, and Nancy Elizabeth Nesbit, of Warrenton, Va., who was with her father when he was killed.

TRUCK HITS CAR, 1 DEAD, 6 HURT

A boy was dead today and six other persons, including his two brothers, were in hospitals, victims of a collision of a fruit truck and a street car in Liberty avenue at Thirty-sixth street last night.

Regis Merlina, 7, of 3343 Ligonier street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merlina, died in St. Francis Hospital an hour after the crash. His brother, William Merlina, 11, suffered severe lacerations and bruises. His condition was regarded as fair at the hospital. The other brother, Patrick Merlina, 12, is in West Penn Hospital with lacerations on the head.

The boys' companion, Henry Beasley, 12, a Negro, of 3352 Penn avenue; James Agona, 30, of 613 Pennsylvania avenue, Jeannette, driver of the truck, and Gus Gennille, 23, of Jeannette, a passenger on the truck, are in St. Francis Hospital. Michael Milich, 47, of 306 Thirty-fourth street, street car passenger, suffered a bruised hand and was treated at West Penn Hospital.

The boys were riding on the truck. Patrick Merlina told Homicide Detective Thomas Mulvihill they were thrown to the street when the truck and the inbound East Liberty-Wilkinsburg car collided.

Agona was arrested on a reckless driving charge. Police said he will be turned over to the Coroner upon his release from the hospital.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages toward the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula, which is used extensively, is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises, or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

Gains 5 Pounds in 1 Week-Feels Fine

Read How Amazing Mineral Concentrate Richest in Newer Form of "FOOD IODINE" Is Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Folks Where All Else Fails.

"It will be a week this noon since I began using Kelp-a-Malt and I have gained 5 pounds and feel much better."—T. W. H. . . . "Gained 6 pounds the first package. Am very much pleased."—D. E. G. . . . "Had stomach trouble for years. When I take Kelp-a-Malt I have a hearty appetite for everything and suffer no distress. Kelp-a-Malt has banished constipation, which I have had all my life."—W. D. C. . . . "Gained 8 pounds with one package of Kelp-a-Malt and feel 100% better."—Mrs. W. J. S.

Just a few the thousands of actual testimonials that are flooding in from all over the country telling us how this newer form of food iodine is building firm flesh, strengthening the nerves, enriching the blood—nourishing vital glands and making weak, pale, careworn, underweight men and women look and feel years younger.

Scientists have recently discovered that the blood, liver and vital glands of the body contain definite quantities of iodine which heretofore has been difficult to obtain.

Modern foodstuffs, even fresh vegetables and similarly so-called "good" foods have recently been discovered to be lacking not only in food iodine but in all the other essential organic minerals without which strength and health are impossible.

Supplies Newer Form of Food Iodine

Kelp-a-Malt, only recently discovered, contains practically every mineral essential to normal well-being. But most important of all, it is the richest known source of the newer form of food iodine—natural iodine not made from iodides or other chemicals which, oftentimes, proves toxic, but the same iodine that is present in spinach and lettuce. It is the lack of this iodine which experts in nutrition say is our foremost national food problem.

Kelp-a-Malt is a sea vegetable concentrate taken from the Pacific Ocean and made available in palatable, pleasant-to-take tablet form. Six Kelp-a-Malt tablets provide more food iodine than 486 pounds of spinach, 1,600 pounds of beef, 1,387 pounds of lettuce. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper for rich blood vitality and strength than a pound of spinach, 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes—more calcium than 6 eggs, more phosphorus than a pound and a half of carrots—sulphur, sodium, potassium and other essential minerals.

Only when you get an adequate amount of these minerals can your food do you any good—you can nourish glands, add weight, strengthen your nerves, increase your vigor, vitality and endurance. Contains no yeast—doesn't cause bloating.

Try Kelp-a-Malt today. Two weeks are required to effect a change in the mineralization of the body. At the end of that time, if you have not gained at least 8 pounds, feel 100% better, look better and have more endurance than ever before, the trial is free. 200 jumbo size tablets which are 4 to 5 times larger than ordinary tablets cost but little.

EVANS PICTURES IMPRESSIVE IN EXHIBIT

By PENELOPE REDD

On view at Elliott's "Little Gallery" through March 17, is an exhibition of about 25 pictures by Virginia B. Evans, whom we only know through the paintings she has exhibited in Pittsburgh, remains through the years as one of the few artists who combine sensitivity, the requisite perception, and the ability to express the subject observed.

Miss Redd

The majority of her pictures in the Elliott show are done on a black paper basis with opaque water color as the medium. She manipulates her medium so drily and richly that it seems but an adept version of pastel chalk.

For those who were concerned with recent events in Belgium and who perhaps have pleasant or patriotic recollections of that land, Virginia Evans' series of studies of Bruges and Brussels will be a source of unalloyed delight.

"A Bridge," "A Canal," "The Belfry Stairs," and "The Milk Maid," have an Old World charm that is rarely found today regardless of the art in which it is expressed. Of the series done in Brussels, her version of "A Square in Old Brussels" with the colorful flower market is an experience conveyed with directness and with pure poetry.

Miss Evans shows also four compelling studies of the small security of a freighter against the world's horizons.

Nantucket, an oft-painted subject, is seen in its unique pioneer strength. "The Quohaug Fisherman's Hut" is probably the best version of the independence, the sea and the blue sky of that land, pictured without ostentation, that we ever expect to experience.

Her "White Sulphur Springs" showing a little temple of love as it must have existed in the remotely romantic days of Robert E. Lee, is enchanting.

In the study of her own landscape, "The Mountaineer's Home, West Virginia," with the independent cabin pitted against nature, one finds a field which Virginia Evans could explore with profit.

Miss Evans is certainly one of the best trained and the most gifted painters in this community. One cannot discover a more interesting artist in a far greater radius than that described within the Pittsburgh district.

SWEDISH KING O.K.'S ROMANCE

International News Service.

NICE, France, March 6.—A couple of aged but spritely grandfathers, one a king and the other a duke, are going to make everything all right for the Prince and Erika.

The Prince is Prince Sigvard, second son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, of Sweden. Erika is pretty, blonde Erika Patzek, German movie actress and daughter of a Berlin market owner. They are going to get married.

The kingly grandfather is King Gustaf, of Sweden. The ducal grandfather is the British Duke of Connaught.

When news of Prince Sigvard's intention to wed Miss Patzek, a commoner, and thereby forfeit his right of inheritance of the Swedish throne, first reached King Gustaf he tried to halt the romance. But Prince Sigvard stoutly stood by his determination to wed the German actress. Then the ducal grandfather, it was learned today, took a hand. Both grandparents are wintering on the Riviera.

MISS RALSTON WINS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—(AP.)—Divorce has ended the eight-year-old marriage of Esther Ralston and George Webb.

Amid a storm of tears the blonde actress testified in Superior Court yesterday that Webb, publicity writer and her manager, had resorted to calling her harsh names.

Webb, who but a week ago expressed shock and grief over the action and said he was much in love with the actress, appeared in court but offered no contest.

A two-year-old daughter will remain with the mother.

ASTOUNDING ADVANCE in treatment of Coughs, Colds

Primary VITAMIN A has now been added to Smith Bros. Cough Syrup

DRIVE OUT that cough and cold faster! Avoid re-infections—"one cold after another"!

Those are not empty promises. It can be done NOW. Not with pills or gargles or external rubs! But with Nature's own "Anti-Infective" Agent . . . Primary VITAMIN A.

A revolutionary medical discovery now makes it possible to include Primary Vitamin A in Smith Brothers Cough Syrup. This vitamin is the same precious substance that Nature gives you in carrots, butter, whole milk . . . but in Smith Brothers Cough Syrup you get concentrated quantities of it.

What Vitamin A in Smith Brothers' does

Vitamin A in Smith Brothers Cough Syrup does two wonderful things:

It aids Nature in DRIVING the cough and cold out of the system faster. And it raises your resistance against re-infection with new coughs and colds.

That's completely different from merely drugging or "doping" a cough or cold! Nature herself leads you back to bounding, vigorous, "million-dollar" health.

The Vitamin A benefits are in addition to the fast cough relief that Smith Brothers Cough Syrup gives . . . It soothes the throat . . . loosens phlegm . . . clears air passages.

Please remember that the only cough syrup containing Primary Vitamin A is SMITH BROTHERS! Yet it costs you only 35¢. Today get a bottle. Fight coughs, colds with Nature's own weapon. New health will be yours! . . . (Smith Brothers Cough Drops also contain Primary Vitamin A.)

Note to Doctors: 10,000 A. D. M. A. units of Vitamin A (Biologically tested Carotene) have been added to every bottle of Smith Bros. Cough Syrup. For literature please write Smith Bros., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"Two things I wanted—

"I found out my trouble—

"... more strength and a clear skin."

It is well to remember that a probable reason why you do not have red lips, rosy cheeks, a clear skin, good health, energy and cheerfulness is that your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red-coloring of the blood, may also cause a weakened condition of the body ... loss of strength ... poor appetite.

Neglect of diet, worry, overwork, colds or sickness, frequently break down and retard the natural development of the red-blood-cells and their oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin.

Why not set in motion the rebuilding of these precious blood-cells instead of procrastinating and sacrificing your appearance and the feeling of being well and fit?

If your condition suggests a tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. It is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite ... your color and skin should improve with increased strength and energy.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body tonic. Its value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal.

You will find S.S.S. at all drug stores in two sizes ... the larger is more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

"... and it was all so simple ... my physician said I had no organic disease, but I did have what is so commonly and truthfully called a low percentage of hemo-glo-bin in the blood. It didn't take S.S.S. very long to get my blood back up to normal ... and as my strength and energy returned my skin cleared up."

HUNGARY DEMANDS MAP REVISION FOR SAFETY

NATION ROBBED OF DEFENSES, SAYS CHIEF

TRACES BOUNDARIES

This is one neighbor of Austria that will definitely gain from Austro-German union. Some Hungarians object to the Third Reich as a neighbor and fear little Hungary will be swallowed whole by Hitler; shrewder Hungarians believe that whatever Germany gains by threat of her laxing power will be paralleled by Hungary.

Julius de Gomboes, premier of Hungary, like every other Hungarian, asks his visitor to look at a map. It is an impressive map. He exclaimed:

"Here it is—without political tendency, merely showing the boundaries of the old and new Hungary."

His Excellency is a fit companion to the bluff admiral on the regent's seat. A soldier, war minister, general, he is as plain spoken as his chief. No ceremony surrounds him. He received me later in a smoking jacket. He said:

"First of all the peace cut off three and a half million Hungarians from their fatherland. As you see further, Hungary was a natural unit, almost completely surrounded by mountains where the watershed made the natural, God-given boundary.

OPEN TO INVASION

"Now if you look at the present frontiers you see that in a complete circle, all the way around the country, territory was taken from us to such an extent that only a kernel was left. But most extraordinary was the way the frontiers were drawn, as you see, all the way around, the line was drawn down on the flat plain inside of the circle of mountains. Thus in the second place we were robbed of our most valuable natural resources of raw materials, here in the north our iron ore, to the east our salt, here our gold and here our petroleum was all taken.

"But the real purpose of the new frontier can only be understood when you consider its military meaning. Every one of our natural defenses was taken from us. Our military frontier today is open to attack on every side as though we lived in a house with all the doors taken off their hinges. Everywhere along the whole line they took advantage of every big and little mountain or river to place the new Hungary in a position where it could be invaded with the least trouble.

"The new Hungary is a flat plain inside of a circle of mountains whence troops descend with the greatest ease on the defenseless center. It is like a city that had built a circle of fortresses around itself, but the fortresses were taken and are now occupied by the enemy. Nobody could have drawn that frontier but general-staff officers. This, too, is a reason why I think we have a right to improve our present defenseless position."

SEES REVISION

The premier seldom paused. He spoke with a disarming friendliness of manner, but at great speed. I cut in:

"What hopes, your excellency, have you for revision?"

"I understand two things

under revision. The first is the attainment of equality of rights. This is bound to come. It is a right of ours that is indorsed by the covenant of the League. It will have to be carried out, and doubtless very soon. It is absolutely unthinkable that great nations should be compelled permanently to accept a position of inferiority. We are now limited to an army of 35,000 while around us are countries with troops in peace time numbering 10 times that many. The second category is territorial revision.

"Now what is it we want? We demand a correction of our borders which would remedy the worst injustices the Hungarian nation has had to suffer and allows us once more to live economically and feel a reasonable degree of security. This also implies a full guarantee for the minority rights of all Magyars living under foreign rule. I hope the powers will soon call a conference to discuss this question so important for the peace of Europe."

"Your excellency, you speak of peaceful revision, but can you cite a case in history where territorial revision has taken place without war?"

The premier laughed. He said:

"Yes, I know of several instances in history. For instance, when Rumania acquired Bessarabia from Russia."

BACKS DEMAND

It may be recalled that Rumania took Bessarabia at a moment when Russia was too torn by revolution and civil war to resist.

"But," went on the premier, "I am compelled to believe in the possibility of peaceful revision and I shall continue to work for it. Nobody supposes it can come in a year or two, but come sometime it must. The Little Entente exclaims 'Revision Means War.' Why then—was paragraph nineteen written into the League covenant? Our demand for revision is not illegal. It is expressly authorized by the League.

"You may be sure of one thing—that Hungary does not intend to try force. What nation does? If we learned anything from the war we learned that the next war will utterly destroy civilization in Europe, and maybe in the whole western world.

"The next war is all that is required to prove Spengler absolutely correct in his 'Decline of the West.' We all know that. I don't know anyone that doesn't realize it.

"Hitler I am convinced is well aware of it. I do not believe that Hitler desires war. Not even when Germany is rearmed. I have met Hitler and the impression I received from him was that he does not desire war either now at at any time in the future. He has much too much to do to carry out the program he has set himself inside of Germany. I felt he had an instinct for politics, a natural feeling. You can learn about politics from books, but without that instinct you cannot practise politics. Hitler has it."

WORKS FOR PEACE

"But what will be the situation," I suggested, when Germany once more stands there as the strongest military power on the continent, stronger perhaps than all the others put together?"

"Hitler has not asked for that. He has only asked for 300,000 men. The forces of France and Poland alone make a total of more than 700,000, not counting the Little Entente. Also Hitler has not asked for more than a few airplanes, and for none of the so-called offensive weapons. Remember, too, that he has asked to get all that in the course of the coming 10 years. Remember also that in the matter of reserves the Allies have an advantage of 15 years over Germany. No, the chances are all against Germany attaining within a short time such a degree of military superiority as would make war a temptation for her."

"So you feel convinced that war of European origin may not be expected for at least 10 years?"

"I did not say that, but I fervently hope so. Nothing, however, could be more daring than to try to make predictions in the present circumstances. Prophets are bad politicians. The world can be certain that Hungary, with all her just demands, will work to preserve the peace with all the means at her command."

Hungary's neighbors are Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Jugoslavia. They call themselves the Little Entente. Hungary is the glue that holds them together. Will the glue hold when the Third Reich joins forces with the Magyar State?

(Tomorrow—Should war come in Europe, where would Rumania stand?

SPEAK UP, SISTERS!

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

Women Are Being Treated As Equals These Days

Anne Lindbergh is given a medal no other woman ever has received. Why? Because she did a man's work. And better than he might have done it. That's the answer.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth admits her age, says she is 50. And doesn't fleck an eyelash. Why? Age no longer counts. It is WHAT WE DO with that age which is important.

Some sister writes down exactly what she knows exists, and the neighbors clamor that she must have lived such a life or she wouldn't know it so well.

Does she mind? No . . . It is her public that counts, and on she scribbles.

Maybe we have all gone goofy. Perhaps we have lost the old-time yardstick which measured our morals for us. Who knows, but what Mrs. Grundy has bought a ticket for Reno?

Yet, why not, if that is the way of the world? We must be in marching line somehow. You and I, sisters, aren't losing anything on the square side of thinking, by being able also to look clearly at the bias. You and I, sisters, aren't getting any worse in that we are able to glimpse the wheels going around.

GIRL WORRIED

Dear Miss Brunot:

I read your column daily and find much interest in it. I never thought I should need help, though. I am 18, and am going with a boy of 23. We've gone together to dances, theaters, etc. But something queer has happened.

It was two weeks ago today that he and I went to a dance, and he promised to call me several days later. Now, he always seemed crazy about me, and I never said or did anything to offend him, as I always attended strictly to his wishes. He doesn't have a telephone, or I would have called him up before this. So that is the story, Miss Brunot, and I hope you will help me.

IN LOVE.

My dear young reader, two weeks is not such a very long time. Although I presume it appears ages when one is anxious. It may not seem long to the young man, either. For various happenings may be keeping him away. Perhaps he is worried over something he does not care to share with you, as yet. Or he may be away on a trip which came to him suddenly, and since you say he had not a telephone, he could not inform you of it. All men are not great letter writers, you know. I feel sure everything will clear itself for you, for as you say you have done or said nothing to offend him, so he can only think kindly of you.

LIKES ACTIVITY

In the meanwhile, though, try to get him away from your thoughts. The young man of today likes activity. He likes cleverness and interest in the girl he goes with. And one who "moons" too much is not so likely to hold him.

To H. A. W.:

I cannot furnish addresses of my correspondents to those who ask for them. Doing such would betray a trust that has been placed in me. Those who write expect to be treated confidentially.

The one in particular you ask for only signed the name "Agnes." She did not inclose her last name, nor her address. Hers was an interesting case. One that many women in various stations of life experience. It told us plainly . . . as Rudyard Kiplings says so well, that all of us are sisters under the skin.

FAY KING

By FAY KING

The most interesting affair I ever attended was a banquet, to which my paper sent me, tendered to a man who had risen from a humble place to a position of importance.

At the long table sat many men of distinction, who like the honored guest, had struggled up the ladder of success.

Each in turn made a short, impromptu speech. There was great laughter, and good-natured fun as they interrupted each little talk to supply forgotten names, and add to the remembering.

As the only woman present I could not help thinking it would be difficult to have such a gathering of women.

Women are not like that. They had been wise not to include wives in this festival of humble reminiscence!

Madge Regrets Her Decision Not to Join Riders

Why had I been so foolish as to say I would stay at home from the proposed moonlight drive to the ocean?

This was the frantic question that first came to me, when I heard Lee Chow say that he would like to remain at the farm house, because he had some things he would like to say to me.

"You are sure you are not too fatigued to talk to me?" Lee Chow queried, and managed subtly to convey in the query the expectation that I would give him an assurance that I was not fatigued.

"No, indeed," I assured him earnestly, "I do feel too fatigued for a drive; but I am not in the least sleepy, and I shall be so glad to have you keep me company. Otherwise, I am afraid I should be lonely."

An inscrutable smile played around Lee Chow's lips.

"I shall try my poor best to keep you from being either lonely or bored," he said, and an involuntary shiver traveled down my spine.

I think Hugh Grantland was the only one of them all who noticed that tiny shudder. Quite by chance I glanced at him as Lee Chow finished his little speech, and saw that his keen eyes were watching me closely. His heavy eyebrows knitted into a frown and, stepping a pace nearer to Lee Chow, he spoke with apparent earnestness to the Chinese, but in tones so low that only Lee Chow could hear him.

MADGE AFRAID

It was in the same inaudible fashion that the Oriental replied, and if Hugh's words had been a protest, they apparently had had no effect, for Hugh went back to his place with impassive face and eyebrows still contracted, while Lee Chow looked after him with that enigmatic smile still curving his lips.

By a mighty effort I kept from shivering again, and hoped that my face registered no inkling of what I was feeling. But seldom have I been the victim of such stark, unreasoning fear as I suffered at the prospect of this coming interview alone with Lee Chow.

Not that I feared any actual physical danger for myself; but terrifyingly fresh in my memory was the look on the face of the wounded henchman of Lee Chow when he spoke of me as "woman belonging to Lee Chow boss man."

There had been since then other indications — slight as wind-blown straws, to be sure, but having terror for me—that this high-born friend of Hugh's secretly held that same bizarre idea concerning me. I knew that, for all his Occidental education and his years of association with Hugh, he still had all the inhibitions of the Oriental concerning the comparative status of men and women in the universe.

WATCHED BY LEE CHOW

Another turn of my memory-kaleidoscope showed me Lee Chow's face covertly watching me through the draperies at the back of the little sitting room at The Larches. I had not known how long he had been standing there, for my eyes had no sooner seen him standing behind the curtains than he was gone; but the idea of his watching me had obsessed me with the fantastic fear that he was planning some Oriental deviltry which would further whatever insane theory he had as to my place in Hugh's Life.

"Poll complete and list's closed!" Harry Underwood announced in stentorian voice. "Now, who's going with who, whom, who, whom, and in which, what, which, what cars?"

My nerves relaxed a bit at his nonsense, and I came back to comparative sanity. But the next instant they were taut once more as I saw Hugh Grantland step from his place again and come directly toward me.

Surely, I thought, he would not risk Dicky's anger, with its unpleasant aftermath for me, by proposing that I rescind my decision not to go to the ocean, and accompany him in his car! Yet I could think of no other reason for this sudden movement.

But Hugh passed me without pausing, and I heard him addressing Edith Fairfax, just behind me.

"How about my runabout, Edith?" he asked easily. "Will you share it with me for this moonlight drive if I promise not to get sentimental?"

Correct Manners

Bride's Initials?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wish to give a silver coffee set as a wedding gift to a girl friend. Is it proper to have her husband's initials engraved, or should I have her first initial, then her maiden name initial and then the initial of her husband's last name? F.

This monogramming is so important that I suggest that you ask the bride-to-be just what initials she would like to have used on the pieces of the coffee service. Some brides-to-be are faithful to the fine tradition and convention of using the initials of their maiden name. Others rebel against this tradition and use the initials that will be theirs when they have married. So you'd better find out definitely to which group this bride-to-be belongs.

One important thing, to answer another part of your question; on silver and linens it is never the husband's initials that are used. If the initials of the married name are to be used, you use the initial of her first name, the initial of the surname of her maiden name, and the initial of the surname of her husband-to-be.

Taking Orders

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When a young lady and gentleman dine out does the gentleman take the initiative and order for both, or is it compulsory for the lady to request that he order

2—May the gentleman with perfect propriety request his companion to choose for herself? One often is at a loss to estimate the degree of appetite the other enjoys.

SUBSCRIBER.

1—The lady decides for herself what she wishes to order and then she gives her order to the gentleman who is her host. He then gives both orders . . . the lady's first, to the waiter.

2—The gentleman would take for granted that the lady would choose what she wishes. If she doesn't know what she wants to eat, she gives the impression of being spineless. The gentleman may suggest, of course, and the used-to-being-a-host will suggest various items that he thinks are attractive. But the woman should know what food she wants.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'Pink Eye' a Contagious Disease

"Pink eye," or acute conjunctivitis as it is known medically, is a common and highly contagious disease. It is an inflammation of the eye caused by a particular kind of infection.

Dr. Copeland

In the beginning the eye becomes greatly congested. That is the reason the affliction is commonly called "pink eye."

At first the eyes itch, and almost immediately they get red. These symptoms are followed by a discharge of mucus. Smarting, burning and pain may be experienced on exposure to bright lights. Fortunately, the sight is rarely affected.

Ordinarily the infection runs its course within three to seven days. The catarrhal discharge may persist and the eyes remain red and itchy for several weeks.

I am glad to say that the disease, bad as the eye looks, is not a serious one and requires little treatment. A good plan is to wash the eyes with a 3 per cent solution of boric acid or a very much weaker solution of zinc chloride. Use an eye cup frequently and keep the eyelids free from the crusty deposits that may form.

The visible symptoms of pink eye resemble another contagious disease of the eye. This is trachoma, a much more serious infection of the eye. In the latter disease the redness of the eye is followed by a roughness of the inner parts of the lids. When trachoma is neglected, scars form. These scars deform the eyelids, sometimes causing the eyelashes to turn in and scratch the eye ball.

It is a painful affliction and if untreated, may lead to permanent blindness. Fortunately, the disease is not a common one. Indeed, in recent years very few cases are met outside of a few localities.

Trachoma, like pink eye, is extremely contagious. It is easily transmitted from one person to another. It may run through families and schools. The infection is spread by the common use of towels, wash cloths, improperly sterilized swimming pools, or by rubbing the eyes with dirty fingers.

The family towel is an abomination and should never be used. Every individual should have his own towel. This should be the rule in the home, office or school. Instruct your children never to rub their eyes with dirty fingers. If it is necessary to wipe the eyes, it should be with one's own clean handkerchief.

Bear in mind, there are diseases of the eye which, if neglected, produce blindness. Do not overlook the fact that the longer you neglect any ailment of the eye, the longer it takes to cure it. Your eyes are most precious. Never neglect them.

Contract Bridge :-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Brilliant Defense

On today's hand East and West reached a most unnatural and distinctly bad contract.

West, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
East and West, part-score 60.

North: ♠ K Q 4 3 ♡ 6 4 3 ◇ 9 8 3 2 ♣ A 7
West: ♠ A 7 ♡ Q 9 5 ◇ A K J 7 ♣ K 10 8 6
East: ♠ 10 8 6 5 ♡ A 7 ◇ 10 5 4 ♣ J 9 4 3
South: ♠ J 9 2 ♡ K J 10 6 2 ◇ 9 6 ♣ Q 5 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 N T (1)	Double (2)	Pass	2 ♡
Pass	Pass	2 ♠ (3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Due to the part-score West would like to keep North and South out of the bidding, and he bids one notrump purely and simply because that call will make it necessary for the opponents, if they wish to enter the bidding, to do so at the level of two.

2—A very doubtful Double, particularly when vulnerable, but North was the type of player who did not give up easily when the opponents threatened to go out.

3—A bad bid. East knows, however, that his partner, despite the part-score, must have a fairly good hand to bid notrump, vulnerable, and he does not wish the opponents to keep him from making a game when only two-odd will put him out. He guesses, albeit incorrectly, that his partner has good spade support, and he accordingly bids two spades on four to the Ten-spot.

South's Opening lead was the heart Knave. He knew that this lead might cost a trick, but had no other good lead and expected to find his partner with a heart honor on the Double. The Queen won the trick in Dummy, and a low heart was led to Declarer's Ace. Declarer followed with a low club, finessing the Ten, which was won by North's Ace. North led back another club, which was won in Dummy with the King. Declarer now naturally could not afford to draw trumps and led a third round of clubs, hoping thereby to shorten the long trump hand. North trumped this trick and returned his last heart, which Declarer ruffed in his own hand. East, knowing that the diamond finesse was surely wrong, played a low spade to the Ace in Dummy, and at this point North made the only play which could defeat the contract. He played the spade Queen, and thereby prevented an end-play on himself. Declarer at this point decided to abandon trumps and led another club, which North permitted his partner to ruff. South now made his natural return, the nine of diamonds, and the Ace in Dummy won the trick. A low spade was now led from Dummy, the Declarer being hopeful of throwing North in for a diamond end-play. However, North's previous very fine unblocking play now bore fruit. He was able to play low on this spade lead, and South won with his Knave, returning another diamond.

Although North's chances of defeating the contract at the time he unblocked in spades seemed quite remote, he made the play as his only hope. He knew that if Declarer had the spade Knave he could not defeat the contract anyway.

As a reward, North and South were able to save the game and subsequently win the rubber, although it is quite possible that East and West could still have made the contract, despite North's fine defense, on a different line of play.

JUNIOR PATROL

They are cleaning the jail and the courthouse here in Pittsburgh, fellows!

They were built many years ago of beautiful white granite, but the dirt in the air has made the stones black and dirty through the years until now they are almost as black as coal.

Both the jail and the courthouse are buildings designed by Richardson, one of the greatest American architects who ever lived, and they are beautiful buildings. But the dirt on their stonework made them look gloomy and ugly.

About half the jail is cleaned now. The stone is shining white again. Soon we hope both the jail and the courthouse will be clean and beautiful again, as they were when Richardson built them.

It's hard to see beauty when it is hidden by dirt, fellows.

That's one of the best reasons why it is so important to try to keep things clean.

We have a note from a new captain today, Joseph Giannangeli, of 548 Larimer avenue, Turtle Creek. He sends in 10 pledges, and he likes cherry pie, too.

And we have heard from still another captain — George Franks, of 26 Mulberry street, Belle Vernon, Pa. He has 13 members. They have a password, but they don't have any dues. And what money they get they put to good use.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Do You Know As Much As Your Cat?

She's a knowing cat.

She asks for little—just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What is the result? Such vitality and resistance that we say, "Cats have nine lives."

What does your cat do when she is not well? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She eats grass and certain green plants to which her instinct leads her.

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic.

Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to your cat's health, has also provided the herbs necessary to your own well-being?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are skillfully blended and compounded in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old fashioned tonic that will help to restore your strength and energy.

1,200 Die in Week In India Plague

LONDON, March 6.—(AP.)—Twelve hundred persons have died within a week in a plague sweeping 20 cities of the United Provinces of India, said a dispatch from Lucknow to the Daily Mail today.

The inhabitants of the stricken region were said to be deserting their homes and fleeing the country in terror.

Fewer Mosquitoes Result of Cold Snap

Opera Star

ALBERT DEATH SCENE SHRINE

BRUSSELS, March 6.—(AP.)—Disabled war veterans from all parts of Belgium gathered today to pay their tribute to the late King Albert at the Marche Les Dames rocks where he plunged to death while climbing a cliff, February 17.

A parade of veterans, principal feature of today's program, will be repeated, according to the plans, on March 11.

The "hignway of sights," which passes the scene, resounds almost daily to the tread of various regiments of ex-servicemen making pilgrimages.

The site has been inclosed and is guarded constantly to forestall depredations by souvenir seekers. It is near Namur, a city about 35 miles southeast of Brussels.

Parents Hear Son's Wedding on Radio

DENVER, March 6.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. William Goldstein sat in their home here last night and listened to the wedding ceremony as their son, Milton S. Goldstein, was married to Miss Burnice Bayuk, of Philadelphia, at Wyncote, Pa.

The words of the marriage service were carried over telephone wires to the parents' home and broadcast through an amplifier. Mr. and Mrs. Goldstein made the arrangements when they found it would be impossible for them to go East for the wedding.

McIntyre Planning Series

By AIRCASTER

Radio again has gone to the stage for talent.

Its newest borrow will bring Frank McIntyre, of the famous McIntyre and Heath team, to the kilocycles in the role of a bantering comic, whose stanzas will occur between operetta numbers on a full-hour show at WJZ starting April 3 at 10 p. m.

The remainder of the new program's set-up will include Gladys Swarthout, Helen Oliheim, John Barclay and Theodore Webb, with Gus Haenchen's Orchestra.

Aside from the facetious moments provided by the eminent McIntyre, vocal renditions of gems from light opera and musical comedy will prevail.

A new problem has risen to confront commercial patrons of radio broadcast. It develops from the newest figures concerning short wave listeners.

Recently, the listeners to foreign programs, airplane conversations, police calls and other occurrences audible on short-wave and all-wave sets, were officially numbered at 500,000.

When program sponsors stop to think that in ratio to population, a similar number in metropolitan and even rural areas is diverted from regular broadcast listening, they begin to understand why headache tablets were invented.

Lennie Hayton, troubadours' batoneer, visited his doctor the other day to complain of spots before his eyes.

The medical gent, who should have been a radio comedian, pointed out that a musician should never complain of that ailment.

"But," insisted Lennie, "I don't really mind the spots. The trouble is, lately, I've been playing 'em."

Will Osborne's commercial show at WOR is to be taken also by WLW, Cincinnati, and WGN, Chicago, which may or may not be significant of a new station tieup.

That trip to Florida I had looked forward to, to be Phil Lord's guest on the schooner Seth Parker, is off for the present.

"A million apologies," Phil wired on Sunday, heading me off, "hope to make it another week."

Woodman Thompson Seibel's Guest

Pittsburghers in general, and Carnegie Tech alumni in particular, will be interested in Woodman Thompson's broadcast over WCAE with George Seibel tonight at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Thompson, an instructor in Scenic Design at Tech for many years, is back in Pittsburgh for a visit.

He has been in the East designing scenes for some of the most successful stage productions, and ranks in the theatrical world with Lee Simonson and Norman Bel Geddes.

Globe Trotter

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

There is an unknown hero among the globe trotters and this request is for him to disclose his identity.

Last Tuesday at about 5:30 he was passing the house at 4147 Bigelow boulevard when he noticed smoke issuing from one of the first floor windows.

He sounded the alarm and aided in carrying from the burning dwelling an aged woman who had been very sick.

Mrs. Cordelia Orr, formerly of the above address, but now residing at the Hotel Schenley, would like this young man to get in touch with her soon.

It would make her very happy to be able to thank him personally.

The veterans at the hospital are delighted with the generous response of the globe trotters who have sent or brought their discarded silk for soldiers' use in making hooked rugs.

Those of you who have sent your addresses will be called on in short order for your bundles.

Mrs. Nellie Price—There is no agency handling tickets for that affair. Inquiring around is the only way you will be able to find out.

John E. Nelson—To the best of my information you will be entitled to the old age pension. The law creating the pension will not go into effect until December.

Crippled Children On Air Tomorrow

Quin Hall's Junior Patrollers, heard over WCAE each Wednesday afternoon from 4:45 until 5:15, have thought up a grand idea.

Beginning tomorrow, they are turning the program over to the different Junior Patrol Clubs in and around Pittsburgh, and giving other children an opportunity to go on the air.

Tomorrow, the Patrol program is presented by the Industrial Home for Crippled Children, and will be under the directon of Sara Marie Herbert, supervisor of music; Lois Vinton, music teacher, and Ruth Davies and Elanor Graham, English teachers at the home.

The background of the program will be an original poem by Miss Graham, with bright and pleasant interludes of songs and recitations by the crippled children.

It has all the makings of a delightful entertainment. Be sure to tune it in—WCAE at 4:45 Wednesday afternoon.

One of the most attractive week-end dinners at fashionable Palm Beach was that given by Mrs. Peyton J. Van Rensselaer for her house guests at Casa Rosada del Lago

Debs House Guests At Palm Beach Casa

And among her house guests are her niece, Sherley Tunnell, and Margery Hillman, both Pittsburgh debs of the past autumn. Sherley, Margery and sister-deb Margaret Taylor all motored South together.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer's house guests also included Lord and Lady Ashburton, the Hon. Caryl Baring, of London, Lilian Van Rensselaer and Schuyler Smith.

Joining the Pittsburgh colony at Desert Inn, Palm Springs, Cal., have been the J. Frank Drakes and their daughters, Virginia and Constance, and the William B. Trainers, who arrived in California by boat—sailing through Panama Canal, of course. They attended a moonlight picnic given for Desert Inn guests Thursday.

Stage and Play Society's Next Production April 10

Added to the rapidly growing list of post-Easter events is the next Stage and Play Society production. On Tuesday, April 10, the society will give Douglas Jerrold's "Black-Ey'd Susan," first produced in 1829. The play of Mr. Jerrold, an Englishman, will be given in authentic costumes of the period—early nineteenth century.

Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby has resigned as assistant secretary and treasurer of the Stage and Play after a long period of service. And Eleanor Grier will take over her secretaryship, and C. F. C. Arensberg, her duties as treasurer. Of course Mrs. Jacoby will still be on the board of Stage and Play.

Sailing Friday on the same boat, the Vulcania, bound for a Mediterranean cruise, will be Mrs. Jacoby and Mrs. Gordon C. King. Mrs. Jacoby also plans to visit Cairo and Luxor, and to stay possibly for a while in Rome.

Before sailing Friday, Mrs. King will visit her son, Gordon C. King, Jr., at Andover, and will board the boat at Boston.

CURRENT, ELABORATE STYLES IN MOURNING COSTUMES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE DEPARTMENTS in shops which supply women with mourning garments and all the accessories properly worn with such clothes—and it amounts to ritual—display a growing tendency toward the revival of more elaborate ensembles. The afternoon custom of avoiding all dense black toilettes is not as strong as it was, although it is probably true that we will never be smothered in opaque black again.

Today's choice in mourning clothes follows the styles that are current in gayer apparel. It is the material, and care in such design details as having the neck and arms covered which is their main difference. A shiny fabric is never used for mourning costumes; satins, high lighted velvets and brocaded stuffs are taboo. Dull crepes, sheer woolens, china silk and the many novelty weaves which are dull surfaced are the chosen fabrics.

NO JEWELRY of any sort, and not a touch of white relief is the order of first and deepest mourning, but pearls and diamonds, the ruche of white at throat, wrist and the facing of one's hat, and dinner gowns of dull black which are short sleeved and low necked as are other dinner gowns, is correct for second mourning.

It is interesting to learn that the court mourning ordered after the death of King Albert of Belgium followed just this plan, setting three months for each period, and ending the formal mourning for the court with a last three-month period in which all-white, with which pearls and diamonds are permissable. Royal mourning not so long ago had made no compromise whatever with common sense and the sensibilities of the living.

SUEDE LEATHER for shoes and bags, for belts and such gadgets as cigaret cases and brief cases, is a natural mourning material. Very dark gunmetal hosiery is the most acceptable, and a fine mesh net bordered with a deep fold of itself, an applique of georgette crepe, or a narrow band of mourning crepe is usual for veils. The very heavy veils are seldom worn except for funeral services when they are used to cover the hat and face protectively.

Black chiffon, made over a black foundation and cut to avoid the coquettish possibilities of a dark, diaphonous material, is almost uniform for evening wear among women of all ages who are in mourning.

The circular veil on this tight fitting turban is fine net banded with conventional crepe. The pique band matches the detailing of the suit.

Heavy black flat crepe makes the frock; the coat is a fine black wool. As this is a half-mourning, or secod mourning costume, white touches are correct, and pique has been used for the belt buckle, the tie facing, and the gloves. Note the loose pagoda coat sleeve over the long frock cuff, and the open swing of the coat.

Although this bonnet is designed for the deep mourning costume, it follows the off-the-face line. The net and crepe veil cascades to the waistline in back, falling from beneath the hat brim.

The tulip neckline is correct with the veil, and more becoming than a high throat band.

The all-wool ensemble above comprises a frock, a coat and a short cape, and it is intended for first mourning apparel. There is no relief from dull black in its entire design, though it conforms with the current trend of smart fashions. The gloves and bag are black suede.

Below, a second mourning hat which follows the new French scooped line, and which has a half veil without a crepe border. The white band on the hat brim is of crepe.

Left, above, a halo hat version of the widow's bonnet, made of flat silk with a facing of crepe medallions.

America Country Of Mythmaker, Club Told

Speaking yesterday before the Twentieth Century Club on "Old American Theatricals" Miss Constance Rourke, formerly of Vassar, said America is a land of mythmakers and probably no group has had more myths formed about them than the Puritans. Almost all of the ills of the nation have been laid at the door of the Puritans, particularly the charge that they blighted American art.

The Puritans did not need the theater; they were in themselves a dramatic group with an exceedingly dramatic religion and even their drab costume made them conspicuous by its contrast with the attire worn by the Cavaliers. The Quakers, too, had a theatrical costume and in spite of their efforts to repress the theater, it grew and flourished and it was in Philadelphia in 1749 that the first theatrical performance in America was given. At the end of the Revolution Boston had a very beautiful theater and the first American play was written in Puritan New England with a Yankee hero.

Miss Rourke, showing in her talk the results of a tremendous amount of research, told how the small traveling companies floated down the river, using skiffs and flat boats. She spoke of the Chapmans, the Drakes, the Jeffersons and the Booths, early "royal families" of the theater, who as Miss Rourke put it, were really extraordinary characters, whose women had beauty as well as talent and who brought the best of the theater to the frontiers.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Through the Spyglass & VIEWING THE NEW

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

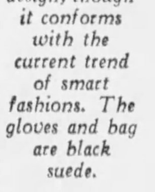
Today we're doing a triplet act . . . or to be slightly trite, are "divided into three parts" (apologies for dragging Gaul into the question again!)



Anyway . . . the first song and dance number will be entitled Gloves, and HOW! Because after casting an eye over the glove situation for Spring we find that . . .

One of the country's best known manufacturers (whose first name is Van) has some new ones made of a weave of rayon and cotton—making a very practical, smooth-fitting fist-covering. Not like silk . . . not like cotton . . . just a law unto themselves. They're white, with tricky flared cuffs in red, green, or blue checks (just enough highwayman atmosphere to lend you a swagger when you wear them). And they wash like . . . well, like nobody's business! $1.00.

Nextly we warble joyously from our bough about the Viennese hand-crocheted charmers which are going to be worn to red letter events. In ecru or white . . . beautifully fitted (that's where the handmade end of it comes into its own!) . . . and wearing large lacy flares for cuffs. They wash, and a bit of starch is all that's needed to keep the cuffs in their pristine state. $2.50 for these, and they're unbeatable at this price. Make you feel very Vere de Vere when wearing them . . . a grand feeling!

Last you forget . . . the men!

(Who could!) We have found new arrivals for our lords of creation also. Capeskin gloves in brown, fawn, and grey . . . English in type—squarishly cut and fitted . . . and handstitched at the wrist in a half-inch-wide hem. The stitching is in black, affording a nice contrast. $3.50.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face — dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

And it's absolutely free. There's a ticket awaiting you at your nearby Kroger Store.

Have you ever seen talking Marionettes in the movies? You will! And have you ever been to a cooking school where you could sit in the last row and still see and hear everything that took place on the stage? Of course not . . . not until you come to this one.

And you'll want to see and hear Helen Watts Schreiber, nationally known cooking expert and lecturer, demonstrate those new menu hints and helps right in her own kitchen set up on the stage.

Some one who comes is going to have a new handsome Westinghouse Electric Refrigerator in her home. And just because she spent three fascinating afternoons at The Kroger Cooking School. Yes . . . it may be you.

Things I Never Knew 'Til Now

(But which you knew all along, dearie)

That among certain tribes in Africa, if you kill a married man, the widow can compel you to take his place—even if it means giving up your present wife! (How pleasant, if you really want her!)

That in Connecticut at one time, one of the bluer laws prohibited a mother from kissing her baby. (On Sundays!)

That in Montreal it is a law that you must be sixteen and over to get into a theater. Yet you may be married there if you're 15.

That the Bible still remains the all-time best seller. In 1930 more than twelve million copies were sold.

That one of the wealthiest men has given $12,000,000 to a smal Southern town—so the money may be used to transform the place into what it looked like 300 years ago—or something like that. (What swell stuff for the communists to use in their arguments!)

That the entire Canadian population could be accommodated in N. Y. C. (But they're too smart to "live" here—where elbow room is a thing you can find only in theaters offering flop shows.)

That the cleanest place in the world, they say, is Bilbao, Spain.

That in Lyons, France, during the Revolution—it was a crime to look sad or fretful. (Oh, I read it in a book, you phooof!)

That baseball originated in the U. S. But the first team to win a world series was Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. (In 1865.)

That everybody knows Robert Fulton invented the steamboat, but few know that one of the first steamers, the New Orleans, was financed by Nicholas J. Roosevelt, an early member of the President's tribe.

That one reader says he spent two hours recently in Moscow trying to find a place where they served tea. (Russia drinks coffee!)

That in 1915 the volume of Mary Pickford's fan mail astonished the country. It topped all records—80 letters a day!

That in all decks of cards two jacks have only one eye. Which one? One of the kings, ditto. (Ah, but the Queens!)

That in the pre-Christian era in the various Scandinavian countries the conception of hell was a bitterly cold, snowbound place for 12 months of the year. The reason for this deduction (I read it in a book!) was that in their respective countries they suffered from intense cold and snow for eight months each year—therefore for the evil to spend the hereafter in a warm place—didn't make much sense!

That Scotland Yard, which is said to be hotter than our own police, has nothing on our Division of Investigation for the State Department of Justice. Scotland Yard has only 500,000 fingerprints in its files. Our United States has a collection of over 4,000,000 in its.

That in Rumania if you light you sigret from another sigret, you are subjek to a fine. Sigret liters are also tabu. (I told you he was iggerant. Look he can't spell, either!)

That Yankee means horse thief. (An old Indian word.)

That there is said to be a Christmas Day at 395 South Ohio avenue in Columbus, O. And a Walter Winchell at 1218 Ann street. (Poor chap.)

That 100 years ago Washington's Birthday was celebrated by Colonial affairs and dances to which invites were sent on small American flags. The message was written in the white spaces.

That the house, which naturally would lose plenty of trade otherwise, is suspected of being responsible for the Monte Carlo superstition—that it is unlucky to play the wheel right after a suicide.

That the natives of Dutch Guinea put a shovel, instead of a stone, on their graves. So that the corpse, in case it comes back to life—may dig itself out. (We always like to insert a paragraph like that—just to make people who read before sleeping—comfortable.)

That a "sponger" was originally the 14th person invited to a dinner, at the last moment. Just so's there wouldn't be thirteen.

That iodine, which is also a stain—is bleach for teeth.

That tea is supposed to have been introduced in England in 1660, but it was a flop until the word spread around that it contained drugs.

That when Duke Philip of Burgundy fell ill in 1461 and all his hair was cut off—more than 500 noblemen of the court did the same. Cut off their hair—so he wouldn't feel conspicuous. (Pals!)

That Beau Brummell (George Bryan) the first Dandy—usually dressed in black or dark blue. He never wore flashy or gaudy clothes. Nor did he sport jewelry. (What a joy to explode such myths!)

Suit for Two Millions Helps 'Rasputin' Film

By GWYNN

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—Some fun—for M-G-M in London these days! Princess Alexdrovina, alleging that the part of the Mad Monk's mistress, played by Diana Wynward in M-G-M's production of "Rasputin," damaged her character, sued the movie company for two million dollars libel!

The Princess is a niece of the one-time Czar, and when the case reached the courts, she denied ever knowing Rasputin, which is regarded as a point in her favor. But lookit! The papers in England have taken to the sensational suit like ducks to water—with the result that the M-G-M picture, which is still playing there, is getting a "million dollars' worth" of publicity all over the front pages—and the company is cashing in on it in a big way!

What's more, as a result of the libel suit, the entire Romanoff history is going to be rehashed in the Sunday feature pages, and M-G-M is chuckling—despite a $126,800 verdict in favor of the Princess.

Hard luck is dogging William Collier, Sr., and because he is ill again, B. P. Schulberg had to postpone the starting of "Thirty Day Princess." Sylvia Sidney and Cary Grant have the leading roles. Incidentally, Cary and his bride, Virginia Cherrill, just returned from Europe, are still living in the same house that Cary shared with his pal, Randy Scott, before he became a benedict. Yeah, Randy is still in the house, too.

Extra! Thin man keeps two girls at home! Isabel Jewell was all set for a trip to New York—and Maureen O'Sullivan was all set for a trip to Ireland—but both actresses called off their traveling plans to take parts in Dashiell Hammett's best selling mystery story, "The Thin Man." William Powell, as we hinted long ago, has since been signed up for the leading role, which is a juicy assignment, and Myrna Loy plays opposite him. Although the "thin man" never makes an appearance in the book, he will be in the picture version, and M. G. M. is now looking for a very skinny feller, six feet two inches high, 50 years old, with a white moustache and white hair. P. S.—One of this character's requirements is that he must be a finger-nail biter!

Russ Colombo, crooner de luxe, has resumed his battle with the Universal Studio and is putting all he has into his fight to get a release from his contract with this outfit. Colombo has been sitting around for five months without being assigned to a picture. During this time Paramount and Twentieth Century have both wanted him for films. Universal, however, is determined to keep him on their lot. Well, we hope, if they do, they also give him a break. He was right good in "Broadway Through a Keyhole," but hasn't had a good crack at the cameras since then.

Pat Patterson, cute young English actress who scored a hit when Buddy De Sylva's "Bottoms Up" was previewed here the other night, has just "turned down" a swell dressing room bungalow on the Fox lot, and you can't blame her. She sloped to Yuma a coupla weeks ago and married Charles (Watch Him!) Boyer, and the dressing room they offered her has been plenty bad luck to the various femmes who have occupied. It is the one in which Marion Nixon, who divorced Eddie Hillman; Sally Eilers, who divorced Hoot Gibson, and Miriam Jordan, who just un-married herself, formerly primped. And Pat isn't taking any chances!

Somebody just told us that at the wrestling matches over in Pasadena the other night, Bert Wheeler, who was just close enough to do it, reached forward and BIT one of the wrestlers when the two were in just the right position for a nip from the sidelines! The audience roared so at Wheeler's antic that it almost disrupted the sporting event. In fact, we hear that the wrestler stopped wrassling and roaringly demanded to know "who done that?"

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Eddie Cantor and his stage unit, including David Rubinoff and his violin, will be the flesh attraction in the Stanley for the week opening Friday, March 16. This will be Cantor's second appearance as a Stanley stage feature. Cantor, by the way, is reported harboring intentions to hit the legitimate stage next fall in a comedy drama based on his own life. He must feel sure that "We Want Cantor!"

* * *

We note in The Era, London theatrical publication, that Cab Calloway, so recently in the Penn, was to open in the Londo Palladium last night, and that Frances Williams has been playing the same stage.

It is the report on Broadway that Twentieth Century, M-G-M and Columbia are contemplating going into play production, and are now considering plays to be staged.

Madeleine Carroll, star in the English-made film, "I Was a Spy," is returning to England after completing one picture in Hollywood, which is all she was loaned for.

Arthur Anderson, Metropolitan Opera bass-baritone, is soloist will sing numbers by Mozart and Berlioz, and Wotan's Abschied, from "Die Walkuere," by Wagner. Mr. Anderson formerly sang in the Bellefield Presbyterian Church.

First $2 Film Anniversary Passes

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—(AP.)—The motion picture as a theatrical attraction that could command a $2 admission fee was 19 years old on March 3, the anniversary of "The Birth of a Nation," Hollywood's first pretentious effort to reach 12 reels in length.

"The Birth of a Nation," still rated the biggest boxoffice smash in film history, opened on this date in 1915 in the Liberty Theater, New York, beginning a career that carried it through political strife, lawsuits, riots and general turbulence to an ultimate gross between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000.

David Wark Griffith, its director, was regarded as something of a madman by the natives when he came to Hollywood and hired armies of extras, a huge cast of principals, and set to work on a screen version of Thomas Dixon's novel, "The Clansman," a romance of the South, the war between the states, and reconstruction. He spent all of $110,000—huge sum at that time.

On the strength of this picture Griffith became the foremost film figure, a position he maintained until recently, when he departed for New York. He returned to the period of his greatest triumph for a masterly talking film, "Abraham Lincoln," but his last production, "The Struggle," with a John Barleycorn theme, attracted little attention.

"The Clansman" had been shown before March 3 in Los Angeles, and it had had special pre-showings in Washington and in New York. But its real opening—at $2 top—was in New York.

Before that New York opening the title was changed to "The Birth of a Nation" on the suggestion of Dixon, the author, who said "Clansman" was "too tame."

Dealing with the Ku Klux Klan, in the South under reconstruction, the film became a storm center. Pamphlets were issued against it. In the ensuing wave of publicity, its fame and fortune mounted, and "The Birth of a Nation," playing the theaters of the country as a road show with a symphony orchestra, became one of the first, if not the first, authentic film epics.

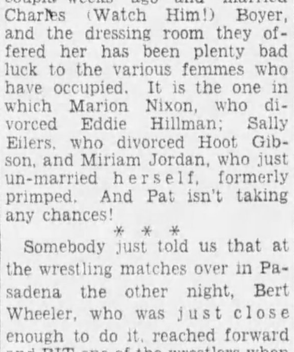
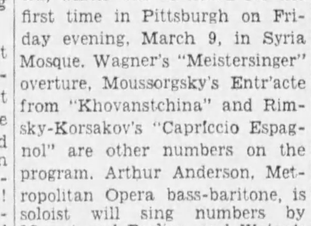
TEN CENTS A WEEK
is that a big price to be SURE of your Hair?



A simple way to keep your hair as you've arranged it—without using any sticky dressing.



That's all it costs—a dime a week at the most—to be sure of your hair every day, and all day long. To know it's clean, and looks clean. To know it will stay as you arranged it. And to know no dandruff will sift to the surface.

That's what moistening your comb with a few drops of Danderine will do. And no amount of dry-combing will ever do. Nearly all hair needs the help that Danderine gives it. A dash of Danderine morning and night makes an amazing difference in the way any hair looks all the time! And the smallest size bottle will last over a month.

After you have washed your hair, a little Danderine will keep it from going helter-skelter. When you pay a dollar for a wave, Danderine will help you keep it. It isn't a sticky dressing, or an oily tonic, and it doesn't leave any telltale odor. Its fresh fragrance is gone quickly after it's applied—but not that marvelous effect of freshness and cleanliness!

It's a pity not to know this little secret that means so much in the way any hair will look. It's no trouble. Yet you can hardly believe anything so mild and pleasant as Danderine could bring such a change in the condition and appearance of your hair and scalp. Just try it. You can buy Danderine at any drugstore for thirty-five cents; larger sizes 60c and $1.00.

Trip to Bermuda.

(PART THREE)

BERMUDA (Castle Harbour Hotel)—When I awakened this morning my wife was already dressed.

"Good morning, darling," she said. "Shall I order some orange juice for you?"

I sat up with a jerk. Such sweetness in the early morning—it wasn't even noon yet—could spell nothing but trouble. I looked at her and I groaned heavily. I was right. There was trouble. In her eyes was the shopping gleam!

Any true, or untrue, husband will know exactly what I mean by the shopping gleam. All women have certain expressions for certain reactions. For an "I - was-detained-at-the-office" excuse you get the narrowed eye. For an unexpected present you get the soft eye. For telling the same story too often you get the cold eye. And for staying out all night you sometimes get the black eye.

But the gleam that is chilling, and the gleam that is killing—is the one that tells you the wife is about to go shopping. When I see it I run as rapidly as possible. But where can a guy run to down here?

"I think I'll do that, dear," the charming lady went on. "I think I'll order your coffee and orange juice. Then you can get dressed and we——"

"And we," I broke in, "will go to town so that you can do some shopping."

She nodded.

"That's right," she cried. "How did you know?"

"I'm a gleam reader," I replied, gloomily. "What did you expect to buy?"

"Oh, I dunno." She shrugged. "I'll just look around and see what bargains I can pick up."

I shivered. This was the cruelest blow of all. Let a woman roam a foreign port in search of "bargains" and there's no telling what will happen. She will buy old broomhandles, worn collar buttons, perfume that is never used, wooden cigars, rusty chains and heaven knows what else. And why? Just because the articles are two cents cheaper than they are in your own home town, where you'd never dream of buying them.

"Listen," I said, "this shopping thing is a lot of hooey. I'm not going to stand around while you bargain for a lot of junk that you'll toss off the boat on the way home. You must realize that there's a depression——"

That was as far as I reached.

"Before you go any further," scowled my spouse, "permit me to remind you of the fact that you still owe me this year's Christmas present. A Christmas present is still a Christmas present and——"

"And I," I murmured, wearily, "know when I'm beaten. All right, I'll get dressed and we'll go shopping. But do me one favor, will you, dear? Lay off that Christmas present thing. It's beginning to get on my nerves. Will you promise to stop mentioning it?"

The dear girl nodded slowly.

"All right," she agreed. "I will never bring up the subject again. It's finished, once and for all. But just the same, you do owe me a Christmas present." . . .

The ride from this hotel to Hamilton, the shopping center of Bermuda, is a carriage ride of about an hour. As you know, there are no automobiles down here—and the ride is a grand one if the sun is out and the day is warm. But it was my luck to meet a cold day with plenty of rain. And not only that, but my horse had the hiccoughs, or vice versa, which made everything perfect.

Well, the wife began to shop. And in that sentence, my friends, is contained the saddest sob story I ever turned out. She wanted to buy some perfume, so I went across the street, bought a copy of Variety and had a drink. I came back to the perfume store but she was still on her first argument. So I bought another copy of Variety and had another drink.

About an hour later, having purchased the last Variety in Bermuda and almost all the drinks, I returend to the perfume shop. There stood Mrs. Hellinger, her arms full of packages and a smile on her kisser.

"You look happy," I observed. "I suppose now you're glad your shopping is over."

"Over?" she repeated. "Why I'm just starting. I saw the loveliest coat and the prettiest sweaters and——"

"I know," I groaned. "I know all about it. But what am I going to do while you're picking out things you'll never wear?"

"Why don't you have a drink," she suggested, "and buy yourself a copy of Variety?" . . .

My memory of subsequent events is a trifle hazy at the moment, but I do remember getting back to the hotel long after dark. And I do remember Mrs. Hellinger unpacking everything she had bought and showing me the various articles. As I recall it, she had purchased everything in Bermuda but an old-fashioned hack. And the only reason she didn't have that, I suspect, is because it would have been a little difficult to carry.

The wife plucked a white raincoat, with black gadgets, out of a bundle and waved it before my eyes.

"You see that?" she asked happily. "That is what is known as a bargain. You're telling me that I can't buy things cheaply here! Why, that's nonsense! Just look at this raincoat. Why, I couldn't but it in the United States at any price—and here I get it for next to nothing!"

I looked at the coat. To me, it looked just like any other raincoat. I made the mistake of saying so.

"What!" was the answering shriek. "Just like any other raincoat! Are you daffy, or something? Look at the workmanship in that coat. Look at the way it's finished. And then consider the price. Why, you couldn't find a coat like that in the United States at any price!"

I examined the coat again. I turned it over in my hands. And I let out a whoop of glee. For there, on a tiny label on the bottom, were the words:

"Made in the U. S. A." . . .

PENNIES CLUES IN 2 MURDERS

WILMINGTON, Del., March 6.—(AP.)—Clutched one in the hand of each dead man, two one-cent pieces give police a clue to the motive behind the slaying of two reputed Philadelphia racketeers whose bodies were found wrapped together in a creek.

Police say the coins are gangdom's way of telling that William H. Schwalbe, 33 and Gus Masino, 30, died the deaths of "chiselers."

Two other men are marked for death, Philadelphia investigators say they have learned.

Stabbed, shot and strangled, the bodies were found yesterday. They were wrapped in a blanket and tied together, lying in a little ice-choked stream north of Wilmington. Police assume the men were killed Sunday night in Philadelphia or Chester and their bodies thrown from a bridge.

PRIZE RECIPES ARE SUGGESTED AS GIFTS

Something new to do with the daily prize recipes is suggested by one of Prudence Penny's most enthusiastic contestants. The latest idea is to write the preferred recipes on file cards, pack them neatly into attractive kitchen filing boxes, and use them for gifts whenever the need arises.

In this way you have not only an unusual gift, but one which is sure to be appreciated for its usefulness. At the same time it bears that personal touch which is so dear to the receiver.

Send in your recipes so that these thoughtful women who plan to make their friends happy in this way, can add still further to the worth of their files. Address them to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. She may repay you with either a $5 prize or one of 10 $1 prizes distributed daily. Since she receives so many, Miss Penny returns none of the recipes.

One-half onion, chopped fine.
One-fourth teaspoon sugar.

To one-half tablespoon butter and one tablespoon flour, add one-half onion, finely chopped. Add to this the juice of the mushrooms, plus chili sauce and worcestershire sauce. This makes a delicious sauce for over meat, poached eggs, etc., and this amount from a 4-ounce can of mushrooms will serve 4 portions.

PERFECTLY WONDERFUL! THAT MARVELOUS BAYER ASPIRIN ACTUALLY STOPPED MY HEADACHE IN A FEW MINUTES!

Don't Forget Real BAYER Aspirin Starts "Taking Hold" in Few Minutes

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate or dissolve—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.
What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

ARE YOUR INCOME AND PROPERTY PROTECTED?

I USED TO LET AN AGENT SELL ME AUTO INSURANCE

Then I bought it direct from American Mutual and saved about $38

"I guess I was just plain lazy, Pete—letting that agent place my insurance. But an American Mutual ad opened my eyes! I took the trouble to clip the coupon—and insured my Cadillac for 20% less than standard rates last year!"

MOST people don't realize the difference between insuring through an agent and insuring direct with American Mutual. Let's look at the facts. . . .

First difference: An agent usually insures you in a stock company — which pays him a commission. American Mutual insures you through its own employees. This (plus careful selection of risks) cuts American Mutual's cost of doing business.

Second difference: The stock company pays profits to stockholders. American Mutual shares profits with policyholders. All responsible insurance companies charge the same initial rates. BUT — every American Mutual policyholder has always received at least 20% of his premium back in dividends. An unbroken, unbeaten record for almost 50 years!

Think of these savings — in a safe and sound company! American Mutual is the oldest mutual casualty concern. One of the largest and strongest in the world.

Think of these savings — in a company organized for service! American Mutual has offices in principal cities everywhere. And a reputation for quick claim settlements, most of them out of court.

Think of these savings — and act! Don't wait for your present policy to expire, or it might be renewed before you know it. Get an estimate of the savings on your car now — by mailing the coupon below or telephoning. No obligation at all.

POLITICS

McNair Fails to Disrupt Party Committees

By MARK SHIELDS

The manner in which Mayor McNair ordered city employes to resign party posts might have wrecked any other organization but the Democratic in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Mr. Shields

So far he has brought about the resignations of John Murray, Democratic city chairman, who is an assessor; Harry Lutz, secretary of the County Committee, another assessor, and James P. Kirk, treasurer of the county organization, and City Treasurer.

Ordinarily the removal of a city chairman might be important in politics. With the Democrats, it isn't, for Mr. Murray has not functioned heavily in party affairs, so far as organization and management are concerned.

The County Committee officials can be replaced in their official capacities, yet remain free to be as politically active as they ever were.

Both the city and county committees are dominated by County Chairman David L. Lawrence, who will select the new secretary and treasurer.

It is improbable a new city chairman will be named before the primary. John Duggan, secretary of the City Committee, probably will be appointed to the same post with the more important County Committee. For Mr. Duggan this will be much like a ball player being promoted from the Cincinnati Reds to the New York Giants.

The Democrats, with the exception of one or two ward chairmen who will resign those positions, have generally obeyed the Mayor's proclamation on the subject.

Lou Conley, deputy fire chief and Republican chairman of the Ninth Ward, has not, remaining an officer of his party. This is somewhat unique, as the Mayor's statement was aimed really at Mr. Conley, whose retention has been objected to by some McNair supporters in the last general election.

See Republican Race Turned Into Dog Fight

If Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Philadelphia, really carries out his ultimatum of yesterday, that his petitions for nomination as a Republican gubernatorial candidate will be filed, and that he will "appeal directly to the people and not to any self-appointed committee of politicians," there will be a dog fight in the Republican primary.

Judge McDevitt's shot at a "self-appointed committee" can be interpreted only as aimed at State Chairman Edward Martin, former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, James M. Hazlett, Republican city chairman in Philadelphia, and a few others who met in Philadelphia last Friday to discuss candidates.

While McDevitt was somewhat forceful, there was nevertheless something of a reservation in his statement that "my hat is in the ring and no one can kick it out unless I do so myself."

That carries an inference that the Judge himself might apply the foot.

The presence of McDevitt in the campaign would make the going somewhat more difficult for Senator Frank J. Harris and State Treasurer Charles A. Waters.

When reading the present pronouncements of gentlemen who are being mentioned for this or that office at the moment, remember that this is a country not only of free speech, but of forceful speech—and sometimes of empty and bombastic speech, which in time is forgotten.

Senator David A. Reed's announcement that Attorney Raymond D. Evans will manage his campaign in Allegheny County insures at least two headquarters directing the appeal to regular Republicans.

The eventual regular Republican candidate for Governor will have headquarters, and in that outpost will be found many of the same men who have handled regular Republican affairs in the past.

Pinchot to Blast Reed As Proof of Vigor

The desire on the part of Senator Reed not to have his campaign attached to the supervision of these old faces about headquarters is reported to be one of his reasons for insisting that he will go it alone, and make alliances with no candidate for Governor.

However, there probably will be some underground connection between the headquarters, just as there was between Gov. Pinchot and Senator Grundy in 1930. Physically there was no connection. But there were meetings of minds and money.

Gov. Pinchot, according to tentative plans, will not go to Florida until he has demonstrated presumptive physical capacity to make the campaign for the Senate in something approximating his old manner.

A gesture of that nature is imperative if the Governor is to hush still-lingering suspicions that he is in no condition for a fight.

If he should just start off to Florida his followers would not be comforted even by his return to Harrisburg this week. For that reason, if for no other, he will, before he leaves, probably deliver a blast at Senator Reed, make some important appointments and be as rugged as his physical state permits.

Then he will be able to say that the Florida trip is merely a tuning up for the struggle ahead. The circle within which Mr. Pinchot moves may not realize how much of an enigma his health is to the general public, and how necessary a forceful illustration that he can campaign.

Pippin Agrees to Let Naval Man Be Her 'Second Choice'

CHAPTER X.

"I love you, Pippin. Don't say I haven't known you long enough and I can't be sure. I am sure. Time doesn't matter. I think of you day and night. You seem to care for me a little. You seem glad when you're with me."

"I am glad. I do love you. It's been glorious going around with you. I'd be crushed if anything ever hurt you, but, Bill, I'm not quite 17. I'm not ready to take life seriously."

"Pippin, I've a strange feeling you love someone else. You're keeping yourself for him. There's not another girl in the whole world that wouldn't have kissed me. Only one—all this time. And I had to take it. You're not angry, are you?"

"It was lovely."

He caught her. With tears in his eyes, kissed her again.

"There is someone else, Pippin?"

Romantic Sadness

"I don't know, Bill. Yes, I think I'm in love—terribly in love, but he doesn't know anything about it. He's much older and looks on me as a child. I've known him a long, long time. He's far away now. He meets hundreds of girls. He's the type women go crazy about. You can see, Bill, what chance I'd have with a man like that. Please don't tell a living soul."

The boy gave a short, unhappy laugh.

"Wouldn't it be odd, Pippin, if I lose you and you lose him and the two of us go lonely and cheated all through life?"

Pippin swept about and im-

EAST END WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

A $35,000 inheritance, lost through a bad business venture and gambling, today figured in a divorce suit before Judge Elder W. Marshall.

Merilyn U. Herd, of 226 Stratford avenue, East End, testifying in her suit against Gordon Orland Herd, told the court that she financed a garage business for her husband in Connellsville, and that when the business failed he gambled away the remainder of the estate.

She also told of an attempted reconciliation following their first separation, which ended in her husband's removal of the furniture in the house during her absence. She was represented by Attorney Benjamin R. Rothman.

The couple was married November 25, 1922. They separated August 8, 1926, Mrs. Herd said. She charges desertion.

MAYVIEW FOOD SURVEY BEGUN

Director of Welfare Southard Hay has announced formation of a committee to make a survey of food conditions at Mayview.

Members are Maj. Philip Mathews, chairman of the Bureau of Governmental Research; Charles L. Jones, food consultant; Florence Unash, Children's Hospital dietician; Evaline Gardner, home economics consultant, and Harriet F. Glendon, of the department of household economics at Tech.

The survey, inaugurated by a trip to Mayview yesterday, will cover the purchasing, storing, preparing and serving of food.

FARMER LOANS AVAILABLE

Federal loans for farm production in the Pittsburgh district are now available at the Production Credit Association office, according to L. D. Haag, secretary. Headquarters are at 159 North Main street, Butler.

Loans are for purchases of work stock, seed, fertilizers, machinery, equipment and dairy and poultry farming needs.

All loans are to be secured by liens on livestock, crops and other personal property. Borrowers must buy $5 worth of voting stock in the association for every $100 loan.

LOST IN STORM, GIRL AIDED

Overtaken by the storm while en route home from a visit to her grandmother, a nine-year-old North Braddock girl stumbled to the door of the home of Mrs. Julia Vasco, near Rodi, in Penn Township, last night.

She informed Mrs. Vasco:

"I'm lost. I can't find my way home."

She said her name was Mary Virginia Snyder and that she lived in Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Vasco called East Pittsburgh police who said there was no such family living in Electric avenue.

When the child failed to return home, her parents notified North Braddock police. She was located at the Vasco home after a search of several hours, police said.

MAID'S SUICIDE TRY FAILS

Elizabeth Bobik, 19, domestic who police say shot herself, was reported improved today.

A bullet wound through the shoulder, the girl was found shot yesterday in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Talenfeld, at 600 North St. Clair street, where she was employed. A minute earlier she had telephoned Julia Yhelka, a domestic in the same apartment building, and threatened to kill herself, police were told.

In earlier reports Miss Bobik's address was listed in Poplar avenue, Greentree. This was where she once worked.

SHORT-LOOPING PROTEST SET

In protest against short-looping of street cars at Ninth street, a committee of citizens headed by Alderman Frank T. Halloran will appear before City Council tomorrow and present petitions beering 10,000 signatures.

The petitions, Halloran said, have been signed by practically every business house downtown which is affected by the short-looping.

Business and professional people and car riders in East Liberty, Wilkinsburg, Homewood, Brushton, Frankstown, Lawrenceville and Morningside have signed the protests, he declared.

THUNDERSTORM HITS DISTRICT; BOY DIES

Gale Roars Over City; River Houseboat Blown Apart

A roaring March electrical storm had left a trail of one dead and considerable property damage in the district today.

Coming up suddenly late yesterday, the skies darkened, followed by thunder and lightning as a 45-mile an hour gale swept the city.

FATHER TELLS OF DEATH

Hand in hand with his father as the storm broke, Rudolph Wintergreen, 12, third grade pupil of Morningside School, fell dead near his home, 6350 Butler street, last evening.

As first reported a victim of a lightning bolt, the lad was later thought to have succumbed to a heart attack caused by excitement and the strain of hastening home to get out of the storm.

The father, Joseph Wintergreen, said:

"Every night after supper Rudy and I would walk down for the evening newspaper. We were about two blocks from our house when the storm broke. I held on to Rudy's hand because of the strong wind. He asked me not to walk so fast.

"As we continued on he collapsed. I picked him up and carried him into the house. When the doctor came my son was dead. I can't believe he was killed by lightning."

HOUSEBOAT DAMAGED

The upper deck of the Manchester Aquatic Club houseboat in the Ohio River, at the foot of Franklin street, was torn off by the wind.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmucker and Gladys Sherman, 28, hurried from the upper deck as the storm began and escaped injury.

Wilkinsburg Tax Boost Proposed

A bill proposing that the Wilkinsburg tax levy be increased from 9½ to 11 mills passed two readings at last night's meeting of borough council.

Interest due on bonds was given as the reason for the proposed increase. The bill will come before council again next week.

Brakeman Dies In Train Caboose

In the caboose of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train en route from Punxsutawney to Pittsburgh, George Hardie, 55, a brakeman, was found dead. A heart attack was blamed. He was married and lived in Punxsutawney.

THE WRECKAGE OF THE MANCHESTER AQUATIC CLUB'S HOUSEBOAT, IN THE OHIO RIVER.

The scattered pieces of the houseboat, at the foot of Franklin street, from which the entire upper deck was swept by the 45-mile-an-hour wind that lashed the city last night.

PROBERS PUSH WRECK QUIZ

The commission of inquiry investigating the North Side train wreck, in which 11 persons were killed, was to call several additional witnesses today to add to the testimony of last week's hearing.

The investigating group, composed of representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Public Service Commission, viewed the scene of the wreck yesterday, checking the theory that the engineer, W. M. Shaw, was stricken or unconscious before the crash.

Bankers' Pay Big But We All Had As Long a Year

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

There's no objection to a banker grabbing a big salary a year if he waits a year to collect it.

"Gents," said a big boy yesterday, "I'll tell you my salary, but don't ask me for the combination of the safe."

Only twelve living men know that. They're all on the board of directors. So the secret is practically locked in the tomb.

The investigation if proceedingly rapidly on all fours. It seems that we are beginning to suspect things we knew before.

And why should a bank president reduce his salary during a bad year? We have the same chances he has. We are all using the same calendar.

SUSPICION LAW REPEAL URGED

Repeal of the old suspicious persons ordinance, a sort of catch-all charge, freely used by police in making arrests and recently under fire by citizens groups, has been proposed by Councilman Walter R. Demmler.

It is understood that Mayor McNair strongly favors repeal of the old law. Council will take it up in Public Safety Committee today.

The suspicious persons ordinance, enacted in 1869, provides for the arrest of a long list of offending individuals, including habitual disturbers of the public peace, pickpockets, burglars, thieves, "watch-stuffers," persons who practice any trick, game or device with intent to swindle, and suspicious persons who can give no reasonable account of themselves.

Imprisonment on first offense shall not exceed 30 days, the ordinance stated.

VICTIM FORCED TO DRIVE GANG

Four bandits who forced Colbert W. Charters, a collector for a Cincinnati heater company, to accompany them on two holdups early Sunday morning, were sought by police today.

Charters, who rooms at 18 East General Robinson street, reported the robberies to police late yesterday. He said he stepped out of his car and was walking to the rooming house when the bandits held him up, took $1 and his automobile cards, then forced him to drive out Babcock boulevard, where they held up a restaurant.

Revolvers held against his ribs, Charters was forced to accompany the men to Larimer avenue, where, according to his story to police, the four held up another restaurant.

Later they drove Charters to his rooming house and then sped away in his machine.

Charters' home is in London, O.

Mill Gas Damage Wins Farmer $9,215

A verdict of $9,215 was awarded in Common Pleas Court today to John A. Thompson, a farmer near Donora, for damages he alleged were caused by sulphur gases and zinc dust from the plant of the American Steel and Wire Company at Donora.

Thompson said his farm was worth $16,000 until vegetation was damaged by the gases and dust. It was testified that 20 tons of sulphur dioxide and eight tons of zinc dust escaped into the air daily from the plant.

'Too Weak' for War, Doctor Reaches 100

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 6.—(AP.)—Rejected for service in the Civil War 70 years ago because of poor health, Dr. Wilson A. Allen, of Rochester, one of America's oldest active practicing physicians, rounded out 100 years of life today.

Observing his "first 100 years have not been the hardest," Dr. Allen, who was Rochester's Mayor in the '90s, said his immediate problem is how to conserve his strength.

Inspecting Army Job

BRIG. GEN. OSCAR WESTOVER . . . INSPECTING MAIL ROUTES

Gen. Westover, second in command of the U. S. Army Air Corps, pictured in McKeesport last night during his visit to Pittsburgh as his final stop on a two-week inspection of the Army in its new task of flying the air mail. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Air Chief Here Lauds Army Mail Fliers

Flying the mail is giving the Army experience of "infinite value" without retarding the progress of aviation in the United States, Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, assistant chief of the Air Corps, declared today.

Halting in Allegheny County as the final step of a two weeks' inspection tour of the new Army air mail lines, Gen. Westover refused to discuss the results of his tour.

He also declined to say what recommendations for changes in equipment would be made in his report, and declared he did not know whether the Army intended to add new planes to replace some of the older equipment.

He highly praised the work of Army airmen, and the functioning of the new system. He said:

"From coast to coast the system is functioning despite several bad breaks in weather. Then men are doing a wonderful job under the circumstances.

PROVIDE ROOMS FOR HOLDING 'SPELL-DOWNS'

Contests to Be Held In All City High School Buildings

Pittsburgh schools joined Allegheny County schools today in the old-fashioned spelling bee being sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of city schools, announced that "spell-downs" will be held in each of the 12 Pittsburgh high schools.

The spelling bee was inaugurated in 118 school districts in the county Friday when Dr. C. E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, announced the contest.

BARS TEACHERS, STUDENTS

Any person living in Allegheny County not now in school or college as a student or teacher can enter the contest. To join the bee go to your nearest school principal and give him your name.

Representatives will be chosen for each district and high school before Saturday, April 17. They will compete in the final county contest in Pittsburgh some time between March 19 and 24.

The Sun-Telegraph will pay the expenses of the county's best speller and also an alternate to the state finals in Harrisburg on April 4.

Dr. R. M. Sherrard, associate superintendent of city schools, and C. W. Peters, assistant superintendent of county schools, will have charge of the various contests.

PRNCIPALS IN CHARGE

School principals in the various districts and high schools will conduct the bees in their section.

The spelling in all contests must be oral. The words will be repeated or defined at the request of contestants, while Webster's new International Dictionary will be considered authority.

Throughout the entire state the spelling bees are being held by the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg. They are to be a part of the centennial celebration of the Public School Act.

Some of the words to be used in the preliminary and final county contests will be published in this paper.

LAWYER'S SON ON WAY HOME

Archibald Weaver Powell, Jr., 13-year-old son of Attorney Powell, of 30 Hoodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon, who disappeared last Sunday when he left home ostensibly to make collections on his paper route, was en route to Pittsburgh today from Philadelphia, where he was found by police late yesterday, according to Mt. Lebanon officials.

A terse telegram informing his parents that "All's well and I'm coming back home," was sent by the youth last night, police said they were informed.

Two other Mt. Lebanon boys, who disappeared from their homes Saturday, were reported located at the home of an aunt at Coshocton, O., where they had gone for a visit, police said.

Jewelry Hidden In Corset Stolen

A butler discovered the theft after Mrs. Bell had left on a vacation trip.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 6. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Missed President Roosevelt's speech (it was at 8 o'clock here). Yes, I was up in time, but here is the joke on me, I hadn't read about it in the papers.

Will Rogers

Now I will have to read it, but there is a great difference between him talking, and then you just reading it. He is the king of the air. Course he has the advantage of the rest of us. He don't come on the air till he has something to say, and the rest of us, we have to come on when he have nothing to say.

Not changing the subject too soon, but I feel kinder sorry for that woman sheriff in Indiana. She thought she was surrounded by men. Yours, WILL.

EXPERT SHOWS BENEFITS OF SALES TAX

If our government desires sincerely to balance its budget, to place the burden of taxation upon those most able to bear it and to hurry the process of national recovery, it has but to replace an obsolete, obnoxious income tax with a modern, equitable and practical general sales tax.

Thus John A. Beattie, president of John A. Beattie & Co., investment counselors, summarizes an interesting analysis of the American system of taxation.

Declariig our system of taxation unscientific, Mr. Beattie said it provides the maximum revenue at the time the government needs money least, and conversely, it is woefully inadequate when governmental expenditures are greatest. Illustrating this statement he cited receipts from individual income taxes which dropped from $1,164,000,000 in 1928 to $353,000,000 in 1933.

TAX-FREE BONDS

He said about 60 billions of wealth invested in tax free securities is tax exempt.

Corporations during the past 10 years paid into the federal treasury alone an average of $940,000,000 a year, he said. During this same period individuals paid 42.6 per cent and corporations 57.4 per cent of all income taxes paid.

He wrote:

"Corporations, as well as individuals, pay property taxes. Real estate owners, bondholders, corporations, individuals, cannot, on the average, stand much more income or property tax. What is the answer? How can we get more revenue without bankrupting corporations or taking homes or other personal property?"

Mr. Beattie asserted the solution of our problem is a manufacturers' sales tax declaring its advantages are as follows:

"It is painless, generally never noticed.

"It is on a 'cash and carry' basis. It does not pile up and descend on us once a year in a huge sum.

"It is not new and untried. Sales taxes constitutes 14.31 per cent of our present federal revenues.

ENDS BORROWING

"It allows the government to stop borrowing—in fact to pay off outstanding debt and to reduce national expenditure thereby. Interest on the existing public debt is more than our outlay for the Army and Navy combined. It is our largest recurring public expense.

"It allows money to flow to productive industrial channels and keeps it from tax exempt hibernation.

"It removes tax evasions resulting from so-called 'sales for tax losses.'

"It would eliminate expensive income tax bureaus.

"The government does not speculate on the life of corporations or individuals during the year. It collects its money every month.

"Canada has successfully operated a sales tax for 12 years.

"Part of the chaos of 1929 was brought about by individuals who refused to take profits because too great a proportion would have gone into income taxes."

Presbytery Elects Fundamentalist

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. J. Gresham Machen, professor at the Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia and militant Presbyterian fundamentalist, was elected a member of the Philadelphia Presbytery yesterday after a spirited contest.

Dr. Machen was elected to membership by a vote of 78 to 48. His opponents, members of a liberal group, declared their intention of carrying their fight to the Presbyterian Synod meeting in Washington, Pa., next June.

Income Tax as It Applies to Salary Classes

This is the eighth of a series of articles explaining the proper procedure in making out income tax returns.

Of the millions of income tax returns filed annually, the vast majority are from salaried persons and wage earners whose income is derived from personal services.

All the various types of compensation, unless specifically exempt by law should be included in the taxpayer's return. These include salaries, wages, fees, commissions, bonuses, tips, honorariums, prizes, awards, pensions in recognition of past services, and similar types of income. Where services are paid for in whole or part with something other than money, the fair market value should be included in income. Other items subject to tax are fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, baptisms, masses and similar services. Prizes received in contests also must be considered as taxable income.

The salaries of federal officers and employes are subject to tax. The compensations of officers and employes of a state or any subdivision of a state such as a city or county are exempt from tax if these salaries are for discharging essential governmental functions, but not if they are for carrying out purely proprietary functions.

For example, the salaries of Governors, Mayors, Councilmen, public school teachers, policemen and firemen are exempt from federal income tax, but the employes of a municipally owned waterworks enjoy no such exemption. Fees for special services to a state or a subdivision of it are taxable. For instance, architects and builders employed in the construction of a municipal building would be subject to tax. For tax purposes, employment must be continuous, not for a special or temporary job, in order for exemption to be allowed.

Nine-Year Chart Shows Rise in Outlay

A complete survey of governmental operation in each of the 67 counties of Pennsylvania has been launched by the Pennsylvania Economic Council, a newly formed organization with headquarters in Philadelphia. The council will complete its survey before making any recommendations as to governmental reforms.

Some interesting tables and charts on the fiscal affairs of Pennsylvania and its sub-divisions were presented by Robert D. Dripps, executive secretary of the council, at a meeting Saturday in Philadelphia. In his address, Dripps pointed out there was a great need for changes in the governmental operation of the more than 5,600 political sub-divisions of the state and explained the work of the council as far as it has progressed.

The council, Dripps explained, will do nothing until a firm groundwork has been laid. The work of the last several months, he said, has been primiarily preparing forms on the basis of which the information and data will be collected. He declared the lack of up to date figures on governmental costs in the state is the greatest handicap in the work.

One of the charts presented by Mr. Dripps, and which is printed with this story, is a comparative summary of local taxes levied in Pennsylvania for the years 1923-1931 inclusive. It is interesting to note how the taxes rose steadily during the years of prosperity and then dropped suddenly. It is also interesting to note that the only form of taxation which has continued increasing steadily without any downward change is the poor taxes.

During the first eight years of the nine year period the total tax bill of the state went from $250,000,000 to nearly $378,000,000. However in 1931 there was a drop in total taxes of approximately five million dollars.

From time to time in the future the Pennsylvania Economic Council plans to publish their findings which will be available to all civic and taxpaying groups. Feeling that the country today is more tax conscious than ever the Council is driving ahead steadily to assemble the necessary data that will enable the property owners throughout the state to keep well informed as to where their tax money is going.

Need for Change In System Stressed

House Tax Bill Gets Approval of Treasury

Measure to Tighten Loopholes on Income Tax Returns

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau told the Senate Finance Committee today the Treasury had approved the $258,000,000 House tax bill "with the exception of some minor matters."

The first Senate witness on the measure which tightens income tax loopholes, Morganthau testified it was "the best judgment of the Treasury that the bill finally adopted should provide for at least as much revenue as it is estimated the pending bill will yield." The secretary said:

"No taxpayer can legitimately complain of these changes, since they result in a more equitable distribution of the tax burden over those persons who are best able to sustain it."

Later the committee approved the provision in the House tax bill permitting legal gambling losses to be deducted for income tax purposes only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

It eliminated a clause which would have prohibited banks from deducting interest paid on deposits used for the purpose of tax-exempt government bonds.

The committee also approved a clause prohibiting deductions from gross income of estate, inheritance, legacy, succession and gift taxes.

The Best GRAY HAIR REMEDY IS MADE AT HOME

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. Do not be handicapped by gray hair now when it is so economical and easy to get rid of it in your own home.

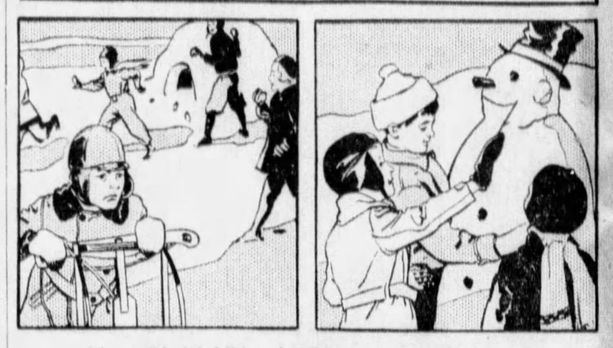
Whose Fault?



If a Child Won't Play with Others?

Parents who understand children know where to place the blame when a youngster mopes, keeps to himself, or is "ugly" toward others. Sluggishness ruins any disposition, and that's what is usually wrong. But it's just as wrong to dose that child with sickening cathartics. Until 15—or older—a child's bowels need but little aid—a very mild form of help. Stronger things often upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. For the happy solution of this problem see what to do, in the next column:

There are happy, healthy boys and girls who have never known the bitter taste and violent action of castor oil—or similar cathartics. The only "medicine" they ever get—or ever need—to help the bowels is plain California Syrup of Figs. The senna in this fruity syrup has the natural laxative action that assists Nature as it should. Next day, the child feels and acts himself, and has a normal appetite. But use the real California Syrup of Figs, with the word "California" on the label and on the bottle.

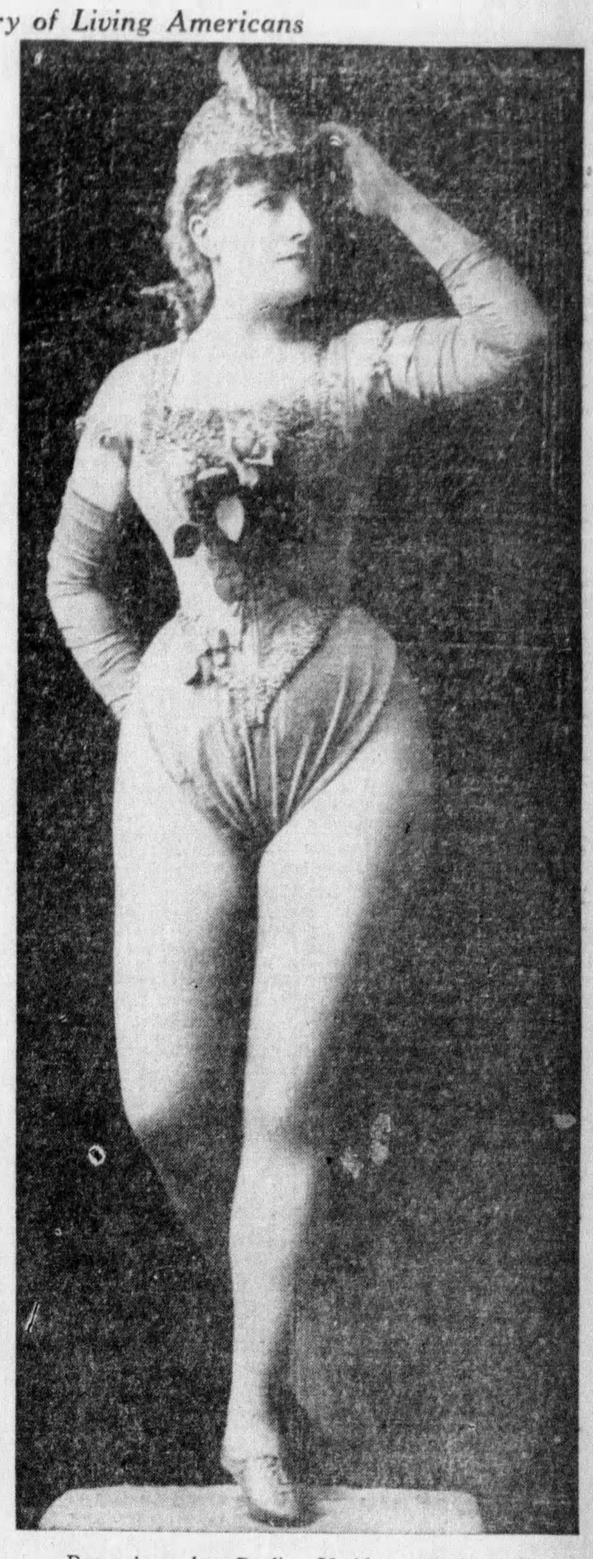
REMEMBER WHEN GEORGE WAS ONE OF 'FOUR COHANS'?

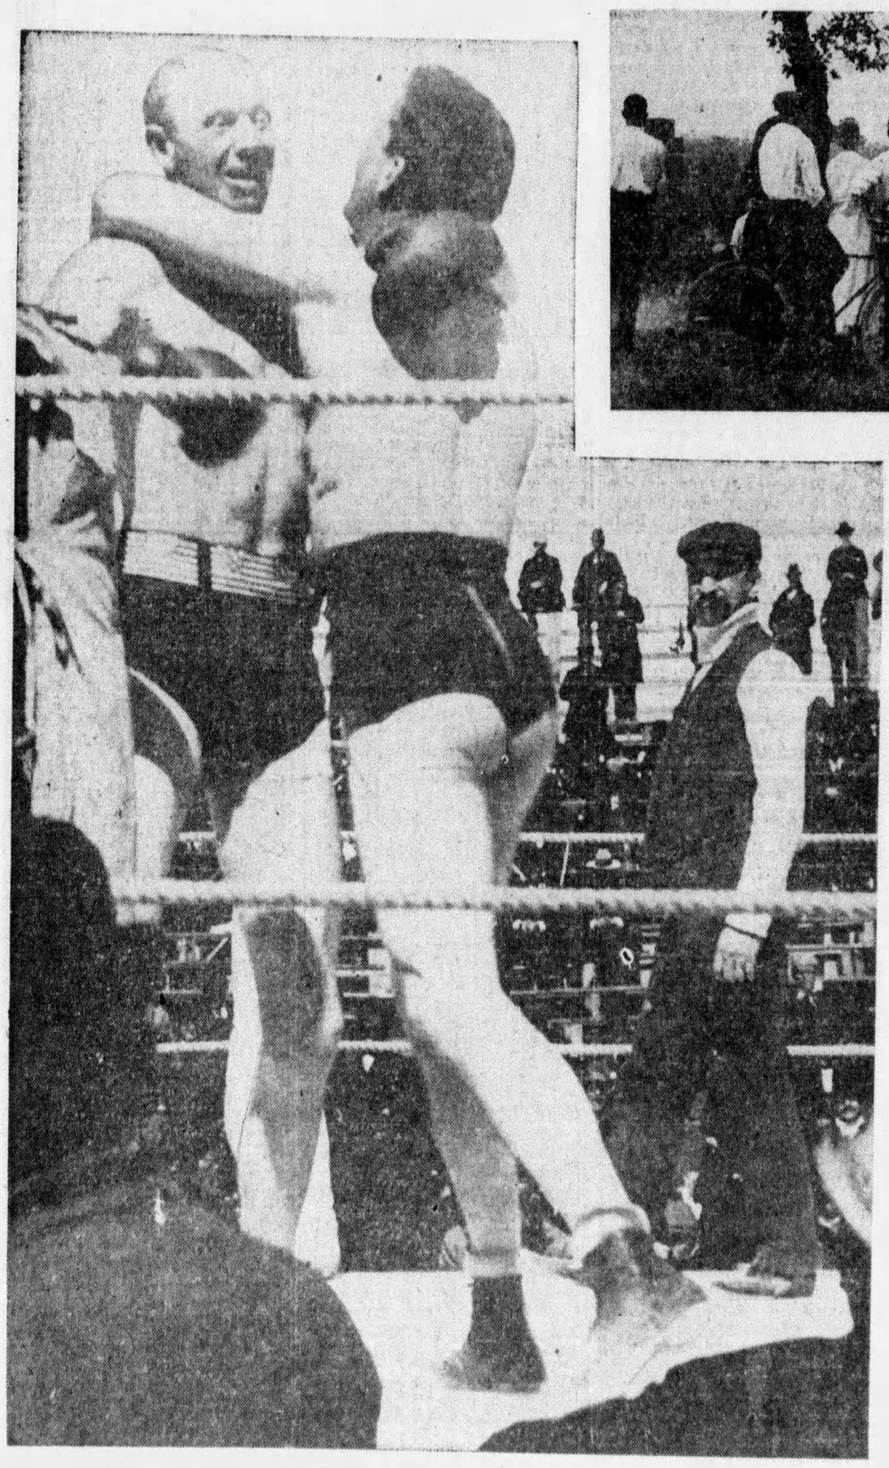
This is a Picture-Story of Dramatic Events, Personalities, Beauties, Customs and Fashions Within the Memory of Living Americans

Remember when "The Four Cohans" were popular astag e at the turn of the century? Here they are: Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Cohan (right) and George M. Cohan and Sister Josephine. Today Young George, looking greatly as his father looked her e, is still a star—as well as a playwright and composer. It was George M. Cohan who wrote the war hit song: "Over There."



Remember when Pauline Markham, actress, came to the U. S., from 1869 made $250,000 in salary, $100,000 in gifts, disturbed the pulpit to countless sermons on morality?

Remember when the great British dirigible R-34 in July, 1919, flew the Atlantic Ocean to the United States in 108 hours 12 minutes? She was the first such craft to do so, brought photos of the Versailles peace conference.



Remember when Bob Fitzsimmons (left) first fought and beat Jim Corbett at Carson City, March 17, 1897? He laughed at him, then knocked him out in the fourteenth round.

Remember when this was the type of warfa e? Grandpa would. It's the Union Army's "Fort Sedgwick" before Petersburg, Va., in the Civil War. Federal infantrymen hid in these shelters, called it all "Fort Hell." The Confederate firing line was some 1,500 feet distant. There was constant sniping.

Remember when Benito Mussolini, now the dictator of Italy, was just another Italian citizen, sometimes an undesirable one so far as the police were concerned? Here he's being arrested in Italy after an anarchistic demonstration in 1915.

Remember when Baltimore was swept by fire? Here are the ruins after two days of flame, three days of cooling. It was in February, 1907, and New York, Washington, Richmond, Wilmington sent special trainloads of fire engines.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

lein Shows Rare Spirit. • Prize Kids Evade Chisox.
huck Not Picking Spots. First Kick Against Shea.
odgers to Copy Grove. Negro Athletes to Fore.

Chuck Klein is proving an asset to the Cubs and is helping them even before the season starts. There is more than ability to be reckoned in estimating the value of a ball player. Spirit is a very important item, and the Chicago management has learned already that it has nothing to worry about on that score in Klein's case. Baseball has its prima donnas. There is a temperamental side to many players less able than the slugging former Phil. They insist on being given a particular place in the field and a particular place in the batting order, regardless of the possibility that a different arrangement might be better for the interest of the club. And if they don't get what they want they pout and sulk in a way to make them more of a hindrance than a help.

Chuck Klein

There's none of that about Klein. As the most important member of the Cubs this year, and meaning so much to the team, Chuck was in a swell spot to do some temperamental dictating, but he isn't of that type. He's a natural right fielder, but when Manager Grimm told him it might be necessary to move him to center to let Babe Herman or George Stainback play in right, it was O. K. with Chuck. When it was further suggested that it might be better to put him over in left field and let Kiki Cuyler remain in center, that was all right, too. The same with the batting order—wherever they want to put him. Chuck made it clear that he doesn't care where he plays or where he hits. Anywhere he happens to be needed will suit him. All that he wants to do, he said, is to win ball games. You don't often find that spirit in the super-stars.

STENGEL MAY ADOPT GROVE PLAN

On a Florida bound train, Casey Stengel found among his traveling companions Lefty Grove, of the Red Sox, and the Brooklyn manager says that in spite of the stiff penalties now provided for kidnaping he felt like grabbing the former Mackian star and carrying him to the Dodger camp. At that, Stengel got something out of his shop talk with Grove during the railroad ride. He picked up some training ideas for pitchers.

In describing his method of getting in shape for a season, Grove said that every day in training camp he makes it a point to do three things—pitch to batters for 10 minutes, spend 15 minutes in a bunting game, and another 10 minutes in making 100-yard sprints, always running on his toes. He sprints hard over the hundred yards, walks back to the starting point and repeats the process. No matter how good a pitcher's arm may be, he will not be a successful flinger if his legs are not strong, and Grove says the 100-yard sprints help his underpinning more than anything else he ever tried. Stengel says the idea sounded so well to him that he may order daily sprints as part of the training program for the Brooklyn slabmen.

NO SLAB STAR FOUND IN ELEVEN YEARS

One persistent jinx that trails the White Sox is inability to find a real prize in the annual crop of rookie pitchers. It may challenge belief, but here is a major league club that hasn't picked up a lasting slab star among its recruits in the last 11 years. Other outfits in the meantime have come up with their Hubbells, Schumachers, Frenches, Ferrells, Pearsons, Hildebrands, Deans, Warnekes and the like, but the Chisox haven't found anything in the line of a permanent pitching sensation since Ray Schalk walked to a corner of the Baylor University field in 1923 to catch some stuff thrown by a kid hurler named Ted Lyons and came back with his eyes popping in astonishment.

Ted Lyons

Not since the discovery of Lyons has the Chicago American League club dug up an enduring topliner in the hurling department. It has found many youngsters who flashed brilliantly for a time, but none who could stand the pace very long. Manager Lew Fonseca thinks he is due for a break this year. He will have in training camp six recruits of considerable promise in John Pomorski, Lee Stine, Les Tietje, John Huck, Otho Nitcholas and Dale Mills, and thinks that by all the laws of average, the rules of Hoyle and every other system of figuring chances, the fates owe him at least one winner out of the bunch.

SHEA RING REFEREE OF LONG EXPERIENCE

The oversights on the part of Referee Leo Shea, of which Tommy Loughran continues to complain, in failing to do more than repeatedly warn Primo Carnera for frequent violations of the rules in last week's title fight at Miami, certainly cannot be attributed to any lack of experience. Shea has refereed more than 5,000 fights, and has held a referee's license in Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado, California and Florida. He is past 50 and has been serving as third man in the ring for more than 30 years.

REMARKABLE GROUP OF NEGRO ATHLETES

The past saw some great Negro track and field stars, such as Howard Drew, Dewitt Hubbard, Binga Dismond and more, but for numbers and quality the group now contributed to athletics by that race is the most remarkable ever known. Brilliant Negro athletes are in a fair way to grab off the lion's share of honors in the country's big meets during the next few years, and in all probability a string of national and world records will stand to their credit before they finish their careers.

Ralph Metcalfe

Already the sensational Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette University, is a world standout, the present-day fastest human, and if there are any indoor or outdoor sprint records which he hasn't broken or equaled it's probably only because he hasn't got around to them yet. Jesse Owens, Ohio State freshman, a budding all-around marvel, recently startled the athletic realm with a new broad jump record of 25 feet 3¼ inches, indoors, and he has not yet reached his full possibilities either as a jumper or a sprinter. Jimmy Lu Valle, of U. C. L. A., can run the quarter mile in very close to 46 seconds, though not yet fully developed and still learning, and is rated the best Negro middle-distance prospect since Dismond. Jimmy Johnson, of Kansas, is coming along in the sprints, while at Brown, Fritz Pollard, Jr., promises to rival the fame earned by his all-America father on gridiron and track. Not only is young Pollard a great football prospect, but in a 45-yard hurdle race at Providence recently, though he never had competed before, he made the experts sit up by displaying form and speed that indicate he will go far.

ORIOLES NEED VICTORY TO KEEP TITLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

A determined Perry High School quintet, fighting with its back to the wall for the second time in two years, stakes its hopes for the City League basketball championship on the outcome of its battle with South High School, defending titleholder, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion this afternoon.

Defeated, but not disgraced, in the first battle of the series, 33 to 26, the North Siders must score a victory this afternoon to stay in the running for the crown, otherwise South will carry off the laurels for the second time in two years.

FACE REAL BATTLE

While admitting his team faces a herculean task in scoring a triumph over the Orioles, who are undefeated in 27 successive City League games, Chester Smith, coach of the North Siders, believes his five is capable of taking the measure of the South Siders. While South enters the contest a top-heavy favorite to end the series this afternoon, the Perryites are in no way conceding victory to the Orioles.

If Perry should upset the dope and defeat South this afternoon, the two teams will clash Friday in the third and deciding game in the Pitt Stadium pavilion. If South wins the decision, it will mark the twenty-eighth successive City League victory for the Orioles and also the second straight year in which they have qualified to represent District VIII in the P. I. A. A. playoffs. South has not suffered a local setback in two years.

LINEUP INTACT

South likely will take the floor with Eddie Milkovich and Joe Galiszewski at forwards, Eddie Spotovich at center, and Eddie Czlapinski and Charley Miskevics at the guards. The Perry lineup, unless a last-minute change is made, will find Bob Kornick and Bill Fleming at forwards, Bob Keene at center, and Joe Di Matteo and Homer Seifert at the guards.

The field of contenders for the W. P. I. A. L. title and the right to represent District VII in the P. I. A. A. competition for the state championship, will be reduced to eight tonight following the playing of the last second-round engagement between New Kensington, champion of Section I, and Ford City, champion of Section VI, in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion.

UNIONTOWN NEXT

The winner in this battle between perennial W. P. I. A. L. sectional champions earns the right to clash with Uniontown, champion of Section XI, in a quarter-final contest in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Saturday night.

The first playoff game to determine the championship of the Junior W. P. I. A. L. also is listed for disposal tonight. The contest, scheduled at Scott High School, North Braddock, brings together North Braddock Junior High School, champion of Section II, and East McKeesport Junior High School, champion of Section III. The winner will meet the survivor of the Charleroi-Ellsworth game, scheduled at Charleroi tomorrow afternoon. Charleroi is champion of Section I and Ellsworth is champion of Section IV.

The second playoff game to decide the winner of the Pittsburgh grade school championship is scheduled at Schenley High this afternoon when Frick meets Friendship.

BENTLEYVILLE WINS

The Bentleyville and Centerville High School teams are in the semi-final round in Class 3, and Canonsburg and Monongahela are a step closer to the Class 1 title in the Washington County basketball tournament today.

Bentleyville defeated East Washington last night, 21 to 19, and Centerville downed McDonald, 23 to 19. Canonsburg put out East Pike Run, 25 to 17, and Monongahela eliminated Donora, 41 to 24. Canonsburg meets Monongahela tomorrow.

Sharon is the favorite to win the Mercer County tournament which opens tonight in the Grove City College gymnasium. Grove City, Greenville, Sharpsville and Farrell are expected to give the Sharonites plenty of opposition.

LINDY, P. WANER BOTH SIGNED FOR 1934

Reports from the Paso Robles training camp to the effect that Outfielders Freddie Lindstrom and Paul Waner are Pirate holdous and have not signed their 1934 contracts today were emphatically denied by S. E. Watters, vice president and secretary of the club. Watters said:

"There is absolutely no truth to the reports from California that Lindstrom and Paul Waner are unsigned over differences in the salaries we have offered them for the 1934 season. Both players have signed their contracts and reported themselves well pleased with the terms we offered them. I do not know just where these rumors originated, but you can say for me there isn't a word of truth in them."

Both Waner and Lindstrom are scheduled to report with the second squad, now on its way to Paso Robles. They were scheduled to join the squad en route, but Paul, as well as Lloyd Waner, will be delayed due to the illness of their mother in Harrah, Okla. Lindstrom, however, is expected to report on time. The second squad is due in Paso Robles Thursday afternoon.

JACKETS MEET DETROIT; DEAL BREWING LACROSSE ASSOCIATION

By CARL W. SHATTO

GAME TONIGHT

Pittsburgh vs. Detroit, Motor Square Garden, 8:30 p. m.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

	W.	L.	G.	OG.	Pts.
Pittsburgh	3	2	66	54	6
Chicago Sox	2	1	34	26	4
Chicago Ribbons	2	3	57	63	4
Detroit	0	1	8	22	0

The Yellow Jackets, who qualified as animal trainers when they handed the Detroit Tigers a 22-8 setback here on February 23, will be out to tie another knot in the jungle cats' tails when they meet the Detroiters in an American and International Lacrosse Association game tonight at Motor Square Garden.

The February 23 game marked the Tigers' first start as an association entry. They held their own and ran the locals ragged during the first two periods of the battle, but folded up completely in the late chukkers. Since that time they have put in many long practice sessions in an effort to attain better condition, and they are confident that they now are able to hold up from the start to the finish of a skirmish.

The Chicago White Sox, who have won two of their three starts in the second half campaign and who now shape up as the locals' most dangerous title rivals, are to appear here Thursday.

A deal involving the shifting of players by all four member clubs is brewing today. Pittsburgh is to get Roddy Clarke, big defense man, and Chuck Davidson, forward, from the Chicago White Sox; the Chicago Blue Ribbons are to get Cecil (Tecumseh) Van Avery and Harry (Silver Heels) Smith, former Buffalo Indians, from Detroit; Detroit is to get Kelly DeGray from the White Sox and Sanderson and either Plummer or Bain from the Blue Ribbons, and the White Sox will get a few players, yet to be named, from Pittsburgh. Indications are that the deal will be closed tonight. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh—		Detroit—
Cordick	G	Hall
P. Langevin	D	Day
N. Langevin	D	Stevens
LaFrance	C	Shannon
Vincent	F	Thomas
Boullane	F	Griffith

Pittsburgh spares—McLean, Jennings, Core, Silk, L'Heureux.
Detroit spares—Cleghorne, Nixon, Smith, Martin, Starling, Lounsbury.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: CIGAR STORE INDIAN OFFICIAL—In the year 1883, in Allentown, N. J., a few humorous citizens conceived the idea of running "Abner Robbins"—fictious name for a cigar store indian—against the man who had held the office of justice of the peace for a number of years. Only a few people knew who "Abner" was until after the election, and then it was found he had beaten the incumbent by seven votes. Upon learning that he had been beaten by the cigar store advertisement, the justice resigned in chagrin.

PIRATE BATTERYMEN EAGER FOR MORE INTENSIVE ACTION

BUCS TO GIVE COAST RECRUIT A TRYOUT

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 6.—Awaiting the arrival of the infielders and outfielders and the start of intensive spring drill here, the batterymen and Manager George Gibson, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, are just about ready to do some big time bearing down.

To date, the hurlers and catchers, especially the former, have been taking things somewhat slow and easy. Manager Gibby is making sure that no cases of sore arm develop with his pitchers, and he is not anxious to have any of the receivers put any strain on their throwing wings, either. The workouts to date have been designed to bring the men around and into condition by easy stages, but both players and pilot are fretting for more intensive action.

The usual two sessions were planned for today, with practice on fielding bunts, throwing to the bases, catching flies and hitting on the schedule. Two drills were staged yesterday.

Elmer Trapp, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., who is desirous of gaining a berth as a reserve infielder, joined the squad Sunday evening and worked out yesterday. Elmer tossed some from the box while the pitchers and catchers were getting their hitting practice.

There'll be another Scoops Carey on the Pirate club, for a time at least. President Benswanger announced today that Edward Carey, of Antioch, Cal., a sandlot infield star, had been signed for a tryout. He is due to report tomorrow or Thursday. His real name is Edward, but he's adopted the nickname of Scoops.

Pirate officials yesterday were notified that the Waner boys, Paul and Lloyd, would be a day or so late in joining the camp, due to the illness of their mother. They were to have joined the second squad of Buccaneers at Omaha, Neb., today. The second contingent consists of Scout Bill Hinchman, Larry Collier, of the business staff; Floyd Young, Fred Lindstrom and Etten, a recruit outfielder.

COCHRAN, OBER WITH SEALS

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

Bowling and billiards will be the subjects discussed by the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6 o'clock tomorrow night, when Harry Keck, sports editor, will interview Welker Cochran, former balk line and three cushions billiards champion, and Art Ober, secretary of the Pittsburgh Bowling Association and manager of the twenty-seventh annual Tri-State tenpin tournament, which opens next Tuesday on the Auditorium alleys, East End. The event originally was scheduled to get under way on Monday.

Welker Cochran

Cochran will speak on the big league billiards play. He is playing an all-week 18.2 balk line match with Johnny Clinton, famous local star, at the William Penn Parlors of Joe Tobin, in Smithfield street, this week. It is only two weeks since he was dethroned as the world champion three-cushion player in a tournament in New York.

Ober will talk on the Tri-State tournament history and other bowling angles.

It was announced today by Ober that the Tri-State tournament schedule calls for 49 team matches, 112 doubles contests and 222 singles events.

Walter E. Bisler, Val Meyer and A. L. Vecchiola were elected as the prize committee last night. The association is sponsoring the tourney.

STRIKES AND SPARES

The Casino No. 1 team still dominates the Central Pittsburgh Duckpin League. Center No. 1 is four games behind the leader and Arcade No. 1 holds third place. Berhar, of Casino No. 2, has the season's high mark for a single game, 261, and Weimer, of Arcade No. 1, for three games, 665. Lachendro has toppled 9,710 pins in 55 games for an average of 176.30. Courage, with an average of 173.62 for 75 contests, has spilled the most pins in league competition, 13,037. The league rolls every Tuesday night.

By taking two out of three games from the Hof Brau team, the Jones team went into a tie for second place with the Schiessers, who lost two out of three games to the Teds in the Mt. Oliver, Knoxville and Carrick Businessmen's Duckpin League. The league-leading St. Clair crew won two out of three games from the Andy team to increase its lead.

Rivals Can't Beat Buckeyes' New Coach, Lose Jobs

By FLEM R. HALL

(Concluded From Yesterday)

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 6.—During his five years at Texas Christian University, the football teams of Coach Francis Albert Schmidt, just named the new mentor at Ohio State University, played 55 games; won 45 of them, tied four and lost six, for a percentage of .882—more than 200 points better than his nearest rival. In 1932, when he won his second championship, his team was undefeated. Southern Methodist (S. M. U.) whose mighty Mustangs have romped over the nation to play successfully against such teams as Notre Dame, Army, Navy and St. Mary's of California, never has won a game from Schmidt's T. C. U. teams. Neither has Texas A. & M. or Rice Institute. No member of the Southwest Conference has been able to break even with the Purple.

FOES LOSE JOBS

The consistant defeats Schmidt-coached teams plastered on opponents caused a coaching upheval in the Southwest after the '33 season that caused three head coaches to lose their jobs—Clyde Littlefield at Texas University, Madison Bell at Texas A. & M., and Jack Meagher at Rice—and resulted in a shakeup at S. M. U.

Schmidt beat Texas, 30 to 0, Rice, 26 to 3, and S. M. U., 26 to 6, last fall.

Over the same five year period, T. C. U. won two basketball championships under Schmidt's coaching and was second the other three fears. The Frogs never lost a game on their home court.

Schmidt is no character biulder. He's a winner. He drives hard, but is no harder on his players than on himself. He is a "killer." He sends teams out to score all the points they can against any opponent that's supposed to be in the same class.

He is strictly an offensive coach. He teaches his teams to go out and get his opponent. His theory is that the best defense is a smashing offense. He spends at least 80 per cent of his time building an attack.

FITS HIS MATERIAL

Although he leans toward the Warner system, he doesn't stick to it. He fits his system to his material instead of trying to make his material fit a system.

Deception, with spinners and reverse plays from wing back formation, is his favorite cunning, but he also relishes forward passing and power.

Schmidt doesn't know what it is to play favorites. A young man in uniform on the field is a player and nothing more. The ones who best suit his purpose of winning get the call. Personal feelings don't mean a thing. If he had a boy on his squad who he knew would shoot him in the back if he had the chance, Schmidt wouldn't hesitate to make him a regular and a star if that boy could help him gain a yard more than anyone else.

THOROUGH WORKMAN

There's no mystery about Schmidt's wizardry. He doesn't just wave a wand and chant weird words to produce winning teams. He gets results by hard work; by unrelenting attention to details. Details! That's the thing. He works for hours on little things on which other coaches won't spend a minute. With his keen brain, remarkable understanding of teamwork, and tremendous mental and physical energy he accepts every new undertaking as a challenge; attacks it with a zeal and determination that never wavers. He beats bad breaks of the game—breaks that beat other coaches—by hammering everlastingly at perfecting little things. He begins by minutely inspecting the qualifications of prospective material and goes down to a thumb wiggle or eyebrow lift of a senior tackle to deceive an opponent on the last play of the season's final game. He through—as Ohio State's opponents will find out.

The Red Ravens, of Sewickley, have completed their schedule in the City Amateur Hockey League, winding up with two victories against eight defeats, but they made their final appearance in league warfare one to be remembered.

Battling the H. J. Webers on the Duquesne Garden ice last night, the Ravens went down under a 2-to-0 defeat, but they went down fighting, in more ways than one. It took overtime exertion on the part of the well-known cooler heads to keep the boys from engaging in real man-to-man battles, as the players, battling as though they were playing for the Stanley Cup itself, fought from start to finish.

The Webers scored in the first and second periods. Briggs tallied in the first on a pass from Adams, and in the second Bob Hoel, Pitt football star, goal tender for the Ravens, accidentally knocked the puck into the net in a scrimmage in front of same.

McLennon, former Yale star, was in the Ravens' lineup. The lineup:

Webers—2.		Red Ravens—0.
Curl	G	Bughman
Schumm	D	Chalfant
Campbell	D	Hoel
Briggs	C	McLennon
Adams	W	Longnecker
D. Battle	W	D. Thompson

Weber spares—Kelly, McNeil, Burke, Cohen, J. Battle. Raven spares—Livingston, Culbertson, Lloyd, J. Haverty, G. Haverty, Montgomery.

Referee—Herb Drury.

The summaries:

First period, scoring — Briggs from Adams, 2:45. No penalties.

Second period, scoring — Cooper, 3:49. Penalty, Schumm.

HORSE DOPING ON WAY OUT IN FLORIDA

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—The player, a purely technical term, meaning sap, has never got such a run for his money as he has down here at what the racing writers like to refer to as beautiful Hialeah during the last few weeks of horse racing. There have been times, all too numerous, when Hialeah was beautiful to the eye and not to the budget. There also have been times when the player has wondered vaguely what it was that caused the racing writers to use words like beautiful when the only possible word was something that Webster forgot.

NEEDLE UNFASHIONABLE

But that was the time immediately before the needle or popgun became unfashionable. It also was the time before the federal agents began sidling up to race track men in the midst of a crowd of friends and insinuating, in a still, small voice, that the chief would like to see them down at headquarters.

Not to be too vulgar about it, a couple of the boys were pinched for several reasons, including the possession of "heat" or narcotics, and after a few cases of this kind, the boys kind of got together and decided that the government men, while thoughtless and unreasonable, were at the very least consistent. In other words, they came to feel that the government men really ought to know better, but for some reason simply did not.

SPORT ON LEVEL

Anyhow, the boys aren't "needling" the horses any more. There isn't a hop-head in all the stables out at Hialeah and, while the government is strictly wrong, as usual, not understanding in its bungling way that a horse is the man's best friend, even when stimulated or needled, that man in the stag line is getting his first break in years.

It even has gone so far that a man can pick a winner without taking the pre-medical course at Johns Hopkins University. In other words, the government men just haven't any idea of the disorder and misunderstanding they are causing. They've even forced horse racing to be on the level.

CLINTON HOLDS CUE LEAD

Welker Cochran, former three-cushion billiard champion of the world, is 81 points down to Johnny Clinton, of Pittsburgh, holder of the world amateur balkline title, in their six-block 18.2 match, which got under way in the William Penn parlors last night.

At the completion of the first block, Clinton held a lead of 300 to 219. Clinton had a high run of 43, Cochran having one of 38. The match was finished in 30 innings. The players will resume action tonight at 8 o'clock.

Young clicked off 56 billiards on his first trip to the table to shatter John Young's former mark of 50.

The district's most inconsistent collegiate basketball team, the team that looks like a million bucks one night and like the interest on a nickel the next, makes its third and final invasion of Pittsburgh this evening. Said team, the Mountaineers of West Virginia, tackles Carnegie Tech's bloody but unbowed Tartans in the Tech gymnasium.

In two previous appearances here, the Mountaineers have not played enough basketball to warrant their entry into the W. P. I. A. L. tournament. First they were soundly trounced by Pitt, and then they took an even worse shellacking from the Dukes. In the meantime, however, they went East and knocked off Temple and Georgetown on the latters' own courts, no easy trick, and gave the Dukes a busy evening in the Mountaineer Field House in Morgantown. How they'll react to the opposition that will be provided by the Skibos remains to be seen.

LAST FOR TECH

The contest is the home finale for the Plaid, the only other game on the Tech schedule being the Intercollegiate Conference fray with Georgetown at Washington Sat'day night. Tonight's tussle also is a conference tilt. In the preliminary, the Tech Plebes take on Dormont High School's passers.

The varsity and freshmen quintets of Duquesne go out of town for the first tussles of their weekly programs. The Dukes invade Washington, Pa., to take on the varsity and yearling teams of Wash-Jeff. Unless John Q. Upset steps in, and in a big way, too, it looks like a couple more victories for the Dukes.

Just two more games remain on the Duquesne card after tonight's fray, one with Geneva at Beaver Falls Thursday and the grand final with Wash-Jeff here March 14. Coach Chick Davies plans to start his seniors against the Prexies.

PITT FOE SELECTED

Champions of the Little Nineteen Conference, the DeKalb Teachers, of DeKalb, Ill., have been selected to meet Pitt's Panthers in a series of three games before the annual national convention of the National Association of Basketball Coaches at Atlanta, Ga., March 29, 30 and 31.

En route to Atlanta, the Panthers will stop off at Columbia, S. C., for a battle with South Carolina University, and returning, may take on Duke University.

VIOLETS REFUSE BID

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP.)—New York University's undefeated basketball team, which concluded its regular season with a 24-18 victory over City College Saturday night, will not compete in a post season game with Notre Dame or Pitt.

Al Nixon, graduate manager of athletics, announced that the board of control felt the team had had a long and strenuous season and that no offers would be entertained for such a contest.

I. C. 4-A. TITLE TO MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP.)—For the first time in history, little Manhattan College has won the team title of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor track and field championships.

The little school that belies its name by being located, not in Manhattan, but in The Bronx, scored 28½ points in 6 of the 11 varsity events in Madison Square Garden last night and defeated New York University by 4 points.

Yale, the defending champion, was third with 20, Cornell fourth with 14, Columbia fifth at 11, and Harvard sixth at 8½. Nineteen schools figured in the scoring.

The stress was strictly on the team championship, but Bill Bonthron, Princeton's mightly middle-distance ace, gave the capacity crowd its biggest thrill of the evening when he came from far behind to nip Gene Venzke, of Penn, by 2 meters in the 1,500-meter run. The time of 3:57 5 was comparatively slow.

The 1934 champions and their performances follow:

50-meter hurdles—Walter Merwin, Cornell, :07.
1,500-meter run—Bill Bonthron, Princeton, 3:57.4.
3,000-meter run—Frank McKenna, Manhattan, 8:54.8.
16-pound shot—William Niblock, Bowdoin, 49 feet 10 inches. New meet record.
High jump—George Spitz, New York University, 6 feet 5⅞ inches. New meet record.
Pole vault—Keith Brown, Yale, 14 feet ¾ inch. New meet record.
Broad jump—Henry Little, William and Mary, 23 feet 9 inches.
35-pound weight throw—Henry Brewer, Rhode Island State, 55 feet 2¾ inches. New meet and collegiate record.
3,200-meter relay—Columbia, 7:46.1.

Arvill Fleming of Pitt, won his preliminary and quarter-final heats in the 60-meter dash, but was eliminated in the semi-finals when he finished third in the slowest heat. He won his quarter-final in 6.8.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Eddie Donaghy, former local soccer player and referee, who has been officiating in games in and around New York since 1928, is handling the three-game series between Cuba and Mexico in Mexico . . . They say he's one of the best soccer officials in the game—and the folks around here knew him when . . . Another former local boxer who is going to run for the Legislature (Jack Zivic is one of them) is Arnold Thornburg, who was a star amateur lightweight some years ago and also was famous as a quarterback at Allegheny High School.

Pete Reilly, manager of Freddie Miller, the N. B. A. featherweight champion, refused to close for a match between his man and Mose Butch at Motor Square Garden one week from next Monday night because George Blake, the California referee and manager of Fidel LaBarba, told him Mose gave the Fiddler a tough fight here and was bad news . . . So Miller took the match on his own responsibility . . . He's a southpaw and so is Mose, and matches between southpaws are supposed to be something to steer clear of, but one of the best battles between two wrongsiders this town ever saw was that between Butch and Ross Fields at the Arena on the North Side last season, after Mose, who had switched around at the start and tried to fight orthodox fashion and took a pasting for his pains, turned around and matched Fields' southpaw stance during the last five rounds.

Speaking of the Miller-Butch match, Matchmaker Lew Raymond insists he is going to hold a featherweight elimination tournament here which he believes will attract entries from all over this country and from other lands as well . . . Maybe he's wrong, but he has a plan well worked out . . . He will start off with five eight-round pairings, and, after the field is eliminated down a bit, will jump the bouts to 10 rounds, and then to 12 for the semi-finals and then put on a 15-round finale . . . He's even willing to let some of the other clubs stage some of the early bouts and have them count in the tournament . . . Figures it will take about two or three months to complete the job . . . The reason he's interested in a featherweight tournament is because the New York Athletic Commission has declared Kid Chocolate's title vacant, and there are a number of claimants in addition to Miller, and he believes he can attract them all here and stir up a lot of interest in the fight game—HARRY KECK.

SCHOOL LINKS LOOP GROWS

By TOM BIRKS

The addition of new schools in the city section, discussion of a fourth section composed of teams located around Greensburg, and the re-election of officers marked the reorganization meeting of the Interscholastic Golf Conference held in the Allderdice High School last night.

The officers since the inception of the Conference include John H. Irwin, Taylor Allderdice High School, president; Dr. W. H. McColl, Kiski School, vice president, and Capt. W. A. Palmer, of Shady Side Academy, secretary-treasurer.

Last season the Conference operated in two sections with six clubs in each division. The addition of new schools, including Westinghouse and Central Catholic in the city section, and the formation of a section composed of Greensburg, Latrobe, Jeannette, Irwin and probably Scottdale may cause the officers to change the circuit makeup.

New Kensington and Springdale also are considering accepting berths, so the present setup indicates that five schools will play in each of four sections.

As in former years the season will get under way Friday, April 20, and will close May 25. The champions of the four divisions will go into the playoffs to decide the Conference champion. Capt. Palmer has been given full authority to line up the league and draw up the schedule.

LITFIN VICTOR OVER WOLFRAM

A single knockout was scored at the Palisades, McKeesport, last night, as the pro battlers went through their paces for the entertainment of a good-sized crowd of fans.

Nat Litfin, of the Hill, weighing 122 pounds, won the unanimous decision over Frankie Wolfram, of Winnipeg, Canada, in the 10-round windup. Litfin landed a right to the Canadian's chin in the second round that sent the latter sprawling for a count of five, but he managed to stay out of danger for the remainder of the round and to keep his feet thereafter.

In the first 10-rounder, Jackie McFarland, 140, of Canton, scored an impressive win over Johnny Durso, 140, of Oakland. The bout was a hectic affair from start to finish.

Farmer Bill Schwerin, Clairton middleweight, won the decision over Andy Maskey, of Canton, in six rounds. Maskey was down twice in the first round for short counts.

Joe Orsini refereed all the bouts, with Phil Scello and Lou Meininger serving as the judges.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Charley Massera, Monongahela heavyweight, who meets Reds Barry, of Washington, D. C., in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, has a return match in the making with King Levinsky in the Chicago Stadium the latter part of this month.

Massera recently spoiled things for Levinsky by giving him a tough fight in New York's Madison Square Garden, causing the crowd to boo the decision given the Kingfish, who was being primed for a match with Primo Carnera this summer as a result of the disinclination of Max Baer to make any concessions to land a title battle.

On Friday night, Levinsky finishes out a two-fight contract by meeting Walter Neusel, of Germany, for the New York Garden. Matchmaker Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium, is merely awaiting the outcome of this engagement and that of Massera with Barry here before signing the pair. He believes such a rematch will prove a great attraction in Chicago, where they think their Kingfish is quite a fighter.

Barry dropped a 10-round decision to Lee Ramage, of California, at Holyoke, Mass., last night.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Dominic Mancini, local welterweight, has been signed to box Danny Delmont, of Chicago, in a 10-round main bout in Louisville, Friday night. Charley Jones, who formerly handled a stable of boxers out of Louisville, will accompany Dominic there.

Buddy McArthur and Chuck Burns box a 10-rounder in Fairmont, W. Va., Thursday night.

Tommy Rios, the Wilmington (Del.) middleweight, who meets Anson Green, Homestead's Black Destroyer, in the first 10-rounder at the Garden next Monday night, has a bout with Ted Yarosz, local ace, in his record. They boxed at East Liverpool, O., in 1931, and Yarosz, then just beginning his sensational climb, won the decision. Rios hails originally from Tucson, Ariz. In addition to Yarosz, he has boxed Baby Joe Gans, Paulie Walker, Johnny Indrisano, Johnny Ketchel, Tommy (Kid) Murphy, Danny Devlin, Johnny Oakey, Benny Levine, Young Terry, Al Rossi, Tony D'Allesandro, Sylvan Bass and other good welterweights and middleweights.

A fine card of four 10-rounders marks the first promotion of Jimmy Toppi at the Arena, in Philadelphia, next Monday night. Here it is: Benny Bass vs. Cleto Locatelli, Johnny Jadick vs. Tony Falco, Harry Serody vs. Stumpy Jacobs and Harry Dublinsky vs. Lou Amber.

Tony Morgano boxes Johnny Craven at Philadelphia's Broadway Club, Thursday night, and Frankie Petrolle and Bucky Jones are the headliners at the Cambria A. C., there on Friday.

ENS TO ASSIST BILL M'KECHNIE AT BOSTON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—(AP.)—Manager Bill McKechnie has added Jewel Ens, former Pittsburgh pilot, to his Boston Braves' coaching staff.

The addition of Ens, who served as McKechnie's assistant in Pittsburgh for six seasons, will in no way affect the status of Duffy Lewis, but it will be some time before the Tribal chieftain decides which of his two coaches will go on the road with the club. The Braves' initial drill yesterday drew a large quota of veterans, who took matters easy.

Baseball Briefs

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—Things are back to normal in the Philadelphia Athletics' spring training camp, with the squad whaling the ball heavily in batting practice and the doctor applying iodine to the first casualties. Pitcher Johnny Marcum and Outfielder Ed Coleman were struck by fast balls, but the doctor told them to report today.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—One training season daily, from 10:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., was ordered today by Manager Robert Hornsby, of the St. Louis Browns. The Browns, Hornsby says, are at liberty to play golf if they feel like it.

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP.)—It's going to be early to bed, early to rise in the training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals, Manager Frankie Frisch says players must get up at 7:30 a. m. Joe Shaute, veteran southpaw, is here trying to land a job with the Cardinals. Shaute was with Brooklyn last year.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — (AP.) — Practice begins today for Philadelphia's National League club with 18 batterymen on hand and all signed. The only pitcher not here is Ted Kleinhans, and President Gerry Nugent says he has the former Chicago Cub's signature.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—Charley Ruffing, big right-hander of the New York Yankees, has given Joe McCarthy his first real reason to smile this spring training season. Ruffing weighed 250 pounds at one time last season, but he has reported this year weighing only 209.

AVALON, Cal.—(AP.)—Angie Galan, purchased from San Francisco, will be the Chicago Cubs' second baseman until further notice. Galan is said to be a better third baseman, but with Billy Herman still unaccounted for, Manager Charley Grimm plans to use the recruit at second.

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP.)—While Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers spent the practice time on general conditioning exercises, the club management waited hopefully for word that Glenn Wright, the veteran shortstop, released by Brooklyn, would agree to sign up with the Tigers for this season. Wright has taken Detroit's bid for his playing services under advisement while he listened to similar offers from two other clubs.

CINCINNATI. — (AP.) — Respectacled Chick Hafey has accepted contract terms with the Cincinnati Reds and promised to arrive at the Tampa, Fla., training camp about March 14.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(INS.)—The hardest-working man on the field at the training camp of the champion New York Giants today was none other than boss Bill Terry himself. Boss Bill cavorted around the infield with all the zep of a first-year man, and his example so inspired the other regulars that they followed suit. Terry was especially pleased with the stuff shown thus far by Castleman, a rookie righthander from Nashville.

BILOXI, Miss.—(INS.)—With the ball park overrun with rookies, the Washington Senators staged their first workout of the season. The holdout list was increased when Earl Whitehill, star pitcher, declared he had not signed and wanted more money.

PASADENA, Cal.—(INS.)—Manager Lew Fonseca today had his full squad of 31 Chicago White Sox players on deck for the spring training grind. Luke Appling, the wandering infielder, was the last to arrive, but he forgot to bring his unsigned contract with him. Fonseca today began to think about thinning out his squad.

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP.)—The Cleveland Indians' squad of battery men remained a small one today after the first workout under a warm sun. Missing were the holdout catchers, Glenn Myatt and Roy Spencer, and Pitchers Wes Ferrell, Monte Pearson, Willis Hudlin and Lloyd Brown.

ORLANDO, Fla.—(INS.)—Casey Stengel, new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, spent his second day of the training season today fretting over the holdout situation. Stengel is confronted with the necessity of getting five first-string men to sign their contracts. They are Walter Beck, pitcher; Al Lopez, catcher; Chick Outen, catcher; Hack Wilson, outfielder, and Ray Benge, pitcher.

Star Pros Clash In Miami Event

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(AP.)—Favored to repeat last year's victory, Horton Smith, of Chicago, and Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., the "firecracker twins," had to whip Walter Hagen, of Detroit, and Tom Creavy, of Albany, N. Y., in the semi-finals of the $3,500 international four-ball golf tournament today.

Densmore Shute, of Philadelphia, the British open champion, and his partner, Al Espinosa, of Akron, O., faced a veteran Brooklyn pair, Wiffy Cox and Bill Mehlhorn, in the other side of the bracketing.

Sport Shorts

Assisted by HRVEY HARMAN, Penn coach, POP WARNER, Temple coach, will conduct a summer football coaching school, sponsored by Ursinus College, at Collegeville, Pa., beginning August 15.

GEORE H. (PETE) BOSTWICK'S CHENANGO, ridden by D. MORGAN, today won the £1,200 two-mile challenge cup race by a margin of five lengths.

Carnera vs. Baer Match in Making

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—(AP.)—Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, California heavyweight, said today he expects to know within the next 48 hours whether a Baer-Primo Carnera title fight in New York next June "is in the cards."

Hoffman said he had been advised by Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, that the Garden "is ready to make a deal for the match."

Johnston informed him, Hoffman said, that the Garden also is ready to consider a proposition with Jack Dempsey, heretofore mentioned as a possible promoter of the match. Hoffman said he insisted that Dempsey be connected in some manner with any arrangement that is made.

A near capacity crowd of 10,000 fans, who accounted for gross receipts of $16,376, saw Ross, a 2½-to-1 favorite to win, extended to the limit to draw with his sturdy opponent.

STOCK MARKET MODERATELY LOWER

NEW YORK, March 6.—Financial markets generally were enveloped in a speculative fog today and prices again displayed a moderately downward slant.

Stocks reflected complex hopes and fears of traders who apparently were groping for clues as to near-future trends. Declines ranged from fractions to a point or more, but extreme dullness was the rule in early dealings.

Grains and cottons offered no support to hesitant equities. These staples had an easier tone. Rubber and silver futures were fairly firm. International dollar rates were still relatively narrow. Bonds were steady.

Homestake Mining shares, up 20 yesterday, dropped 7 points. American Tobacco B was off 2 and Liggett and Myers B yielded 1. United States Smelting and American Smelting were down 2 and 1, respectively, and other metals were soft. Most of the motors sagged, although Auburn advanced a point. The rails and utilities were a bit easier, but American Telephone showed resistance.

Alleghany Corporation issues were somewhat heavy on publication of the fact, already pretty well known in the financial district, that the Van Sweringens were in technical default—and had been since 1931—on some $40,000,000 of bank loans. Notes have been accepted for interest payments, however, and the banks concerned have made no move to take title to the collateral involved.

Overnight consideration of the President's NRA address brought a variety of interpretations in the financial district. The opinion was widely expressed, however, that, at least for the time being, the profit element in trade and industry would give way to the administration's campaign for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Observers, usually in close touch with Washington, although cautious in comment, voiced the thought that a drifting stock market may be expected until a clearer view can be obtained of the government's plans in connection with employment and code revisions.

The markets seemingly paid little attention to the intimations from Democratic Floor Leader Senator Robinson that securities exchange control legislation cannot be enacted this session. A few weeks ago, it was said, such a hint from the capital might have caused stocks to celebrate.

Continuing labor difficulties in Michigan automobile plants were being watched closely. Announcement that a representative of the National Labor Board had been sent to Detroit to assume jurisdiction over the controversy was viewed as a hopeful development.

Followers of the tobacco stocks, who yesterday saw their favorites advance in a declining market, were a little subdued today by the report of the American Tobacco Company which showed net income for 1933 of only $17,401,207, or $3 a share, against $43,269,026, or $8.46 a share in the previous year. The lower earnings were attributed partly to cigaret price reductions.

BANKS TO GET R. F. C. FUNDS

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Chairman Jones said today the Reconstruction Corporation was prepared to disburse within the next 60 days $777,000,000 in preferred stock purchases and loans to banks already authorized.

Preferred stock purchases totaling $1,018,513,850 in 6,191 banks have been authorized, he said, but of this only $476,632,000 has been distributed to 1,898 banks.

Authorized loans to closed banks for payment of depositors through liquidation of frozen assets have totaling $684,875,000 for 2,104 banks but of this, he said, there still remained $235,000,000 to be distributed. He said:

"The distribution of this $777,000,000 which we expect to get out within the next 60 days promises to afford a decided impetus to the recovery program."

Advances for all purposes by the corporation from the date of its organization February 2, 1932, to February 28, amounted to $4,786,408,000 while repayments were $1,198,093,000, Jones reported.

STOCK CONTROL NO ASSURANCE AGAINST RISK

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The public, impressed with the efforts of Congress to regulate stock exchanges and the issuance of new securities, should not get the idea that a new era of riskless investments has been ushered in.

Mr. Rukeyser

Even if through legislation and through a simultaneous advancement in the ethics of bankers, brokers and corporate executives, the major abuses of security dealings were eliminated, some of the hazards of investment would continue. Until economic society becomes static and hostile to change and progress new values will spring up as a result of human invention and ingenuity, and old values will disappear. In this eternal process of natural selection in business, mere honesty and sobriety, though eminently desirable in themselves, will not provide an insurance policy against loss resulting from obsolescence, change of public taste and relative shifts in the competence of management.

BOOSTS HAZARDS

Accordingly, if investors are going to fare better in the future than in the past, it is important that they should set out through education better to equip themselves for judging the nature of investment risks.

In the past, under that laissez faire, all but fools have fire when they were playing with fire when they entered the speculative arena, especially on a marginal basis.

Now there is a danger that after Congress in its mature wisdom has decided on an "ideal" margin, the neophyte will act under the illusion that he is operating on an approved and hence a "safe" margin.

As a matter of fact, even the 60 per cent which has been proposed and which will doubtless be whittled down, intensifies the hazards in security buying. Professionals and others skilled in the highly specialized craft of buying security risks on borrowed funds may know how to take care of themselves in the game of margins, but the ordinary, hard working outsider will be much better off in eschewing marginal speculation in its entirety. Such small investors will fare vastly better on the average if they confine themselves to outright, cash purchases of diversified securities constituting a balanced investment diet. The great institutional investors pursue this policy of buying for cash as surplus funds become available.

CITES REAL ESTATE

According to current gossip, Senator Fletcher, of Florida, who sponsored the original draft of the stock exchange regulatory bill, has been frightened somewhat by the suggestion by a New York senator that the drastic marginal requirement might also be extended to land speculation. If land buyers had to put up 60 per cent of the purchase price in cash, hopes of new land booms would be dimmed forever.

As a matter of fact, the innocent public through the decades has been especially fleeced in land booms and subdivision crazes. Land speculation is carried on in unregulated, unorganized market places, and in a low ethical atmosphere. If protection of the small capitalist, or saver, is one of the major goals, the real estate market cannot be ignored.

In reminding readers of this column that safe investment in the future, as in the past, will depend on the competence with which risks are selected, I am not unsympathetic to legislative attempts to outlaw financial frauds, chicaneries and double dealing. I merely wish to emphasize that even after Congress has acted, the investor will not be able to proceed blindfolded along the highway to certain riches. Sound investment depends on expert knowledge, on a capacity to keep in touch with developments, and on acceptance of the insurance principle of hedging against the uncertainties of the future through wide diversification of risks.

Chickie's Daughter

pulsively threw her arms about Bill's neck.

"Don't say a thing like that, Bill. I couldn't bear to feel I'd made you really unhappy."

His hands clasped at her waist. They were both so young, so brimming with emotion. And now, with the dark flowing down from the tall Presidio trees and the sunset putting flame on the waters, they were poignantly aware of a deep, romantic sadness.

The boy said: "I thought you meant to kiss me, Pippin."

She reached up and met his lips.

Second Choice

He said, holding her: "That's the most beautiful thing ever happened to me."

And he wanted her to promise he'd be second choice and that at least she wouldn't take anyone else until he returned to the city again.

"I promise, Bill, you're sweet. I'll always be happy I met you. I think I'll always have a love for you."

"This tree looks out on the Golden Gate, Pippin. It stands alone. Early tomorrow morning when we steam out I could see you if you came up here and waved a big white handkerchief. I'd be so happy. Will you, Pippin?"

"I will. I'll love to."

All night the foghorns barked. Pippin awakened and peered from her window through the gray obliterating mist. Trees in the gardens, terracing the steep hills to the waters swayed darkly but the bay and the hills across the Golden Gate were completely hidden.

"It's sad. I won't be able to see him. It's ghostly sailing off in a ship in this gray drizzle that makes everywhere seem like nowhere."

Pippin stole from the house at half past eight in the morning. Bill's ship would round out of the harbor at nine. She had her father's binoculars and could pick out the name, "Pennsylvania." As the gray, sleek battleship nosed through the straits, she lifted her arm and waved the handkerchief. She stared through the glasses. Someone leaned over the rail and waved a handkerchief back.

"It's Bill. I see him! Goodbye Bill. Can you see me? Goodbye—goodbye!

She waved until her arm was exhausted and his face dimmed to a white blur. It grew vaguer. It merged with the sky and the sea.

To her surprise the tears were streaming down her cheeks. "I'm silly," she thought, and dashed them hurriedly as she slipped the glasses back into their case.

Sorry for Bill

She wrote in her diary:

"He's gone. Bill is gone. There's something dear and lovable about him—something strong and sweet. We had a glorious, happy time. All but the very last. He looked so pale. I think he meant what he said. I can see his face now with his tan hair slicked back and that cleft in his chin. I feel sad.

"I feel a rushing sweetness—a kind of strange, ... pairing music playing over m... don't love Bill. Yet I let him ... ss me. I liked it. I was glad when he did it again. Oh, God, am I one of those terrible promiscuous women to whom all men are dear? Will I be attracted again and again in this pleasant yet superficial way. How awful—how simply tragic that would be!

"I won't be that kind of person. I don't want to fritter myself in a hundred little emotions. I want one mad titanic love for which the heavens and the earth may well fall.

"Bill is far out on the ocean now. He's so alone. When he reaches the warm tropic seas, and the moon flames in the sky he'll remember the night we met and other nights and things we said. It will be hard. I'm sorry for Bill—terribly sorry. I'll write to him.

"It's wrong for a girl to lead a man on unless she means to return his love. Women do it. They like to do it. Like Mabel Elliott. She doesn't care if a boy suffers. She has no imagination. She doesn't give a snap for Fred Parsons, but she's breaking his heart. It gives her a sense of power, I suppose. I hope I never do things like that.

"I'm glad I met Bill. I hope I haven't done him any harm. He's only the second man I've really kissed, and oh, how sweet it was!"

Father Amused

David teased her about him. She was lonely and in the evenings went with her father to his laboratory. She watched hours while he worked on experiments she couldn't understand but which he tried, nevertheless, to explain. She was a good student and read diligently the difficult books he selected.

As he was putting away his microscope, he reached over and squeezed her hand.

"Lonesome, girl?"

"Of course."

"He's a bonny lad."

"I thought so, too, darling."

"It was right to kiss him goodby, Pippin. A girl can't be too stingy, as he told you himself."

She turned red and flashed:

"Well, you're smart! How do you know what he said? Weren't eavesdropping of a moonlight night, were you?"

David threw back his head and roared:

"So he did say it, eh? How do I know, gal? Not so long, looking back, and the language of youth hasn't changed, I see."

"You used to trick girls with that 'stingy' talk, dad?"

"Maybe I did. Seems to be a good line. Bill is a nice chap. Would have been quite mean to send him lonely and unkissed into the gray and melancholy waste."

"Oh, dad—kisses are wonderful!"

He lifted her from the table and, holding her arm tight against his own, looked into her face, so appealing in its young ardent purity. He said, with a catch:

"They are, aren't they, girl?"

Secret Agent X–9 Clue Contest

Woman Aboard Wanted

Clue No. 2—The Captain Remains Puzzled

Briskly, Secret Agent X-9 and Capt. John Blake strode into the card room of the S. S. Marthinia. Twenty-four hours had passed since the skipper received a radiogram from the federal authorities in New York that "Queenie" Adamson was on his vessel and must be apprehended at all cost before the ship docked in Havana.

The woman, who was traveling alone and about whom the clever Secret Agent X-9 had been able to learn nothing, was seated in a corner reading, when the captain invited her to accompany him and his friend "Mr. Wooster" on his daily tour of inspection She shrugged her shoulders indifferently, but went along.

As they left the cardroom the trio saw on deck the youth who had asked his permission the night before to go to the bridge. The lad was tossing crackers over the rail to the seagulls that followed the Marthinia.

As the captain chatted with the girl, the fact that the lad was standing with his right foot extended as he threw the crackers, occurred to Secret Agent X-9.

"Thought he was left-handed," the sleuth told himself, "yet he is throwing with his right hand."

"Are you visiting Havana on business or pleasure?" Capt. Blake asked Miss Edison.

She stamped her foot. "Really, captain, I came up here because you said you would show me your ship. I think it insulting of you to ask me personal question." With that, she rushed off.

Secret Agent X-9 shook his head. Was this Sphinx-like woman "Queenie" Adamson? She certainly acted like a guilty person, yet—

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE (July 4, 1776)—BRITAIN LOSES AMERICAN COLONIES

Two distinct civilizations were competing on today's United States territory in the eighteenth century, New France in the Mississippi regions, England east of it. Though Britain remained victorious over the rising French in America, reducing their hope, as they did in India, for a French empire in the New World, their steadily tightening grip on the colonies antagonized the liberty loving Americans. The Boston massacre, the Boston "Tea Party," burning of stamps provided by "Stamp Act" are historic expressions of defiance to English orders. Hostilities between mother country and colonies climaxed in the "Declaration of Independence" and the Revolutionary War (1776-1781) that cost England portions of its North American possessions. (World History)

During the Civil War, the damages inflicted by the regular armies were greatly increased by those of irregular bands, "Guerrillas." The border states between Confederate and Union territories particularly suffered greatly. Lawrence, Kan., a city founded in 1854 amidst bloody struggles between slave holding and free settlers, was destroyed in 1863 by guerrillas of Southern sympathy. Above picture shows the sacking of the city and massacring of many inhabitants. (Civil War—U. S. History)

SULPHURIC ACID MANUFACTURE—CONTACT PROCESS

Sulphuric acid (H_2SO_4), one of the most important chemicals, is produced concentrated by the contact process (above). Sulphur or pyrite is burned, forming SO_2. This is washed by water spray, dried by concentrated sulphuric acid, then purified from arsenic by passing it over shelves with ferric oxide. SO_2 is then heated, mixed with air and led into the contact tower (converter), which contains pulverized platinum or vanadium on trays. Under their catalytic influence, SO_2 burns to SO_3, which, with the spray of concentrated sulphuric acid, forms the "fuming" sulphuric acid ($H_2S_2O_7$). This gives, with water, sulphuric acid: $H_2S_2O_7 + H_2O = 2H_2SO_4$. (Chemistry)

PLANTING OF FORESTS U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. (Farmers Bulletin, No. 1672)

For species and stock of trees to be planted best adapted to your locality, ask advice of a forestry agency. Spring planting (best) should be after frost, before growth starts. Fall planting after rains, before ground is frozen. Above: Slit method of planting. (General Science)

"SHE LAID THERE . . . ONE ARM . . . ROUND A BAR . . ."

Dreading disgrace, Lady Dedlock flees from her mansion. She is found frozen to death at the gate of the cemetery, where her one-time fiance, Capt. Hawdon, the pauper "Nemo," is buried.

John Jaryndice, Esther's benefactor and guardian, wooes her. She is willing to marry him from a sense of duty. He, a noble character, finding her heart belongs to a worthy young physician, Allan Woodcourt, secretly prepares a home for them. A happy marriage of the young couple closes Esther's narrative. THE EAR, A DUAL SENSE ORGAN

The ear is the sense organ for hearing and balance. It consists of the external ear (a shell-like outer ear and a canal ending in a membrane, the ear drum), the middle ear (the tympanic chamber containing three small bones, the incus or anvil, the malleus or hammer, the stapes or stirrup), and the internal ear comprising two parts, one for equilibrium (semicircular canals filled with liquid), the other for hearing (a complicated apparatus in the spiral shaped cochlea).

The external ear conducts the sound waves to the ear drum, the vibrations of which are transmitted by the hammer, anvil and stirrup of the middle ear. The stirrup, at drum of internal ear, conveys the vibrations to the perilymph, a liquid filling the cochlea. In this floats the membraneous cochlea, comprising the organ of Corti, the essential part of hearing.

Scramm, Here Comes a Man

Sunday marked the finish of the first year of democracy's triumphant return to the political wars.

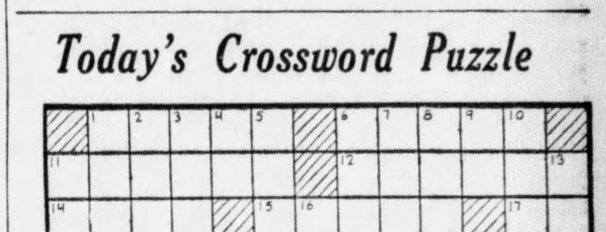
It was just a year ago that the inward-bound Jeffersonians steamed by the side-tracked Republicans who took over the job of biting their thumbs and piling up demurrage.

A lot of water has run under the bridge since that time and some of it has frozen up. Still, taking it all in all, as the old lady said when she hung out the wash, it has been a year of hope and endeavor.

We have seen the government enter business. We have seen the government's nose in other people's business. And that's where the old red, white and blue schnozzola belongs.

When the cities and the states fell down on law and order the big G men stepped forth and ran the malefactor so ragged he frightened the crows.

He stood not upon the order of his going but scrammed.



There was no temporizing or feenoggling with the G man. Like the stockyards on a hot July day, he could not be approached.

It proved that law and order were not a couple of things that Uncle Don kicks around on the children's hour.

That gave everybody a feeling of security. They began to feel just as safe as a turtle with two shells. Now we all respect the government again, and we bow politely to U. S. mail boxes.

It gives everybody a comfortable background when he knows he can blow a police whistle and call out the Army and the Navy.

If there is any trouble on your avenue, you call up Washington, and in a few minutes the regulars are marching 16 abreast up your street. If you flood the street, Washington will also send out a cruiser and a torpedo boat chaser. That's service.

It all happened inside of a year. In addition, and notwithstanding, we saw many other kinds of G activities. In fact, so many that when a little child gets up in school to recite the alphabet this way, "A, B, C, D, E, F, G—"

The teacher says, "You can stop right there, Tillie."

So can we.

Financing the Employer

Job Creating Projects Should Be Facilitated in the Public Interest

The much discussed Federal Securities Act attempts to protect small capitalists from buccaneering financiers, but it does not safeguard the country from a misdirected flow of capital.

Accordingly, the act in its present form, though distinctly a step in the right direction, may be criticized for going too far in one direction and not far enough in another.

The act is a desirable measure in so far as it places obstacles in the way of fake financiers.

And yet, because of the ambiguity of some of its clauses, it needlessly makes all new financing, meritorious and meretricious alike, difficult.

Financing of job creating projects along socially desirable lines should as a matter of public interest be facilitated, not discouraged.

There is a great need also to go further in regulating our money market, and set up an intelligent agency to apply tests of social and economic soundness to proposed offerings of new securities to investors.

This principle of law has already been applied to the public utility field. If new capital is to be raised for railroad building, for example, the expenditure must be justified before the Interstate Commerce Commission on grounds of public convenience and necessity.

During the emergency of the Great War, a capital issues committee was set up in the United States to pass upon the relative desirability of various demands for new capital.

A peace time capital issues committee is greatly needed at this juncture.

The immediate effect of such a setup would be to encourage a resumption of new investment, which is highly necessary to complete the cycle of business recovery.

If President Roosevelt is to achieve his budgetary goal of tapering off extraordinary governmental expenditures in the next year and a half, private industry and commerce must expand sufficiently to absorb the millions released from public payrolls.

Congress, in passing the Federal Securities Act, intended to stop financial frauds and chicanery.

It did not intend to strangulate the capital market, through which the savings of the people flow into productive industry.

The Securities Act should be clarified to encourage a resumption of private investment, and should then be extended to give a public agency supervision of the direction of flow of savings into new projects.

During the last boom, chaotic, uncoordinated investment led to the overproduction of industrial equipment, and contributed to the breakdown of the economic system.

Private initiative in investment banking showed an incapacity to co-operate in order to achieve economic balance.

It is important to make the remedial legislation correct the old abuses, rather than to destroy, or impair, the capital market itself.

In our delicately adjusted, interrelated modern world, the employment of millions of persons rests on a sane flow of capital, about which they are little aware.

Practical and effective handling of these basic controls in the power house of business and employment will determine the ultimate success of the present Democratic administration.

Open Hearings Demanded

The Bar Association's Inquiry Into Judges' Political Activities Should Be Public

Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Common Pleas Court, against whom the Allegheny County Bar Association's proposed inquiry into political activities of the judiciary is apparently directed, demands that the investigation be "speedy, thorough and public."

It is a reasonable demand, and the Bar Association will lower itself in the esteem of the citizens if it tries to avoid compliance.

The public, no less than the members of the bar, is interested in the integrity and efficiency of the judges, and if there is any question of our jurists' being incapacitated for honest, impartial performance of their duties by reason of political activities the citizens have a right to know the evidence pro and con.

Judge Smith and any other judges who may be involved are entitled, too, to know what persons, if any, bear witness against them, and what they say.

Open hearings cannot fairly be dodged.

Carbon Monoxide

If a Reasonable Ordinance Will Give Protection, It Should Be Passed

City Council is considering the enactment of an ordinance to eliminate hazards due to carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide is a poisonous gas which is formed by incomplete combustion of any fuel such as kerosene, gasoline, coal, coke or gas. It has killed many persons in Pittsburgh—four in one day recently.

Dr. James B. Garner, director of the Utility Survey Commission and holder of a natural gas fellowship at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, has written Robert Garland, president of Council, that the commission favors such an ordinance, believing that it "would very materially reduce loss of life and personal injury."

That is a strong argument for the passage of the measure.

It is important, however, that the ordinance should be reasonable.

Carbon monoxide from the exhaust pipes of automobiles has been responsible for numerous fatalities and much ill health. Several years ago the Mexican consul in Pittsburgh, Roberto Quiros, was relieved from duty here on the strength of a physician's certificate that he had been made ill by the carbon monoxide fumes in Fourth avenue, where his offices were located.

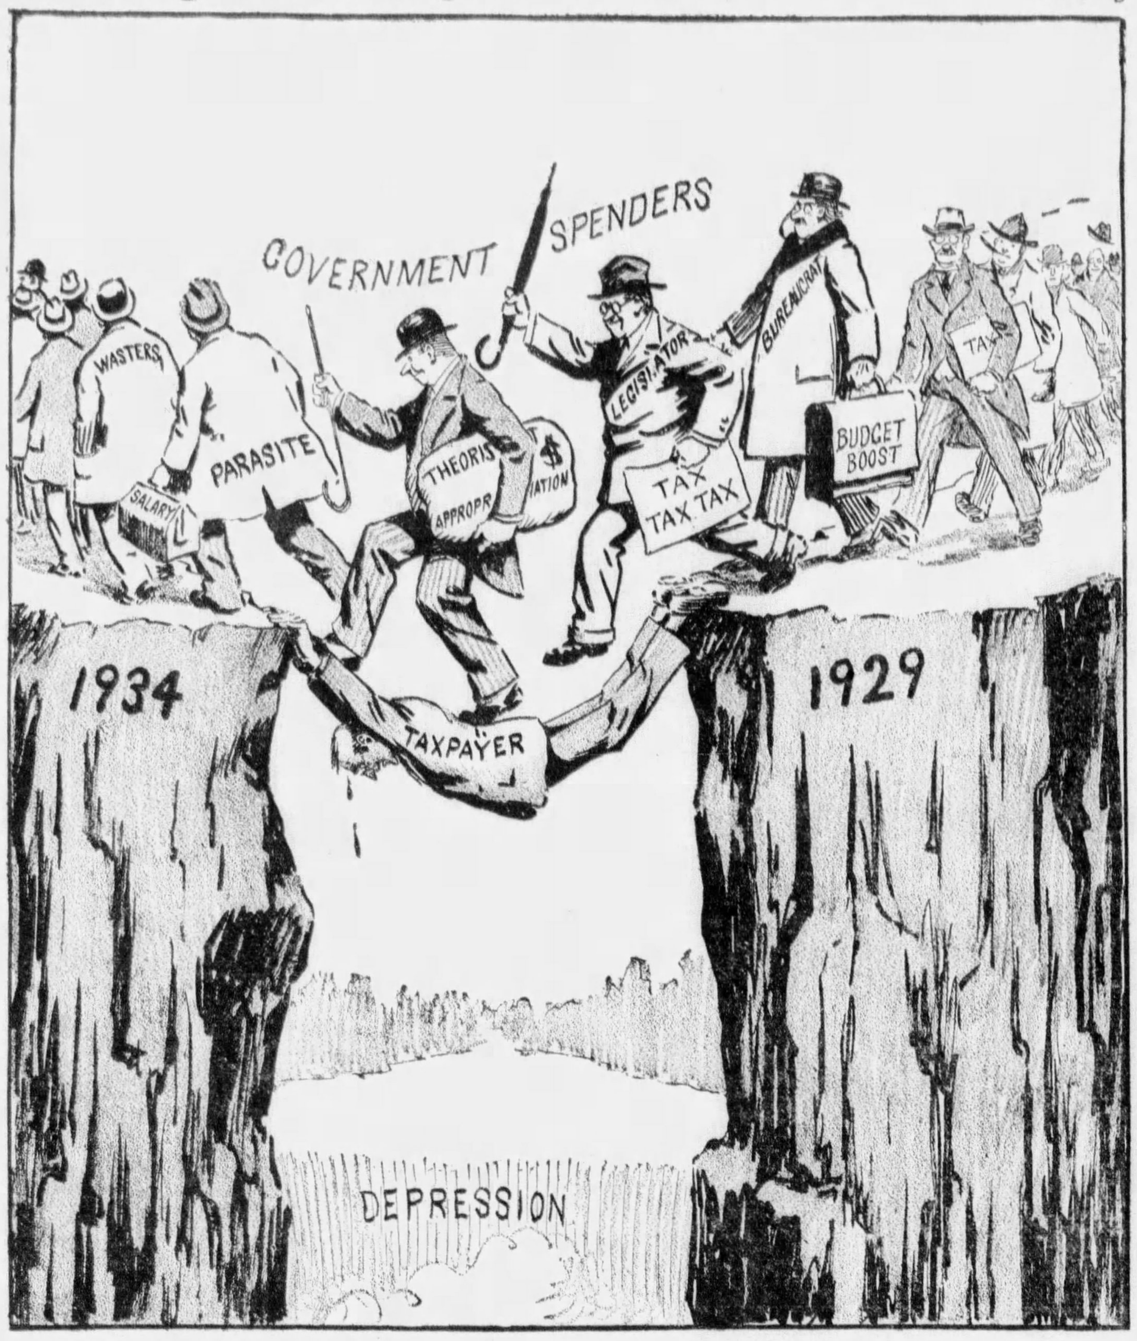
But this would not justify an ordinance prohibiting the operation of automobiles.

Of course there is no danger of Council's going to any such extremes as that; it is cited merely as an illustration of the necessity of being reasonable in the prohibitions that may be imposed.

If a reasonable ordinance will help, it should be enacted. But individual, personal carefulness no doubt will long continue to be the factor on which chief reliance will have to be placed if one is to escape death or injury from carbon monoxide.

Breaking the Bridge

By Nelson Harding



How much traffic can that bridge
Carry on his back?
How soon will the stress and strain
Cause the bridge to crack?

By that bending bridge alone
Is the chasm spanned,
And the bridge is breaking now—
More it cannot stand.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 6.—The sports pages have proved a generating ground for some of the best writers of the day, both fictional and columnar. The parade of names on a magazine cover would give a top-notch tilt that could not be salvaged from any other branch of the writing fraternity.

Bill Corum has been quoted editorially by Brisbane himself. Corum has a flair for the homespun philosophic paragraph that suggests Michael Monohan, a writer too little read. He is a product of Booneville, Mo., and can turn out a double column essay of absorbing interest on a topic of no consequence whatever.

Damon Runyon has become one of the most popular fictionists of the day. Bozeman Bulger, a baseball writer, was hitting all cylinders fictionally at his passing. Albert Payson Terhune was once a reporter of pugilistic affairs. Heywood Broun led off as a writer of sports.

Bugs Baer, too. Also Ed Sullivan, of the Broadway columns. And Westbrook Pegler. And if there was a better student of the human comedy and shadings of the American language than Ring Lardner, the world has not discovered him. And Lardner began chronicling the capers of the Chicago Cubs.

The writer of sports learns the art of brevity. The scenes he beholds are always in quick action and he often encompasses a short story in a line. Yet I sometimes think Ambrose Bierce did the best job of boiling down a flock of paragraphs. A lady sent him her book for an honest opinion in a single sentence. He complied thus: "Dear Madam—The covers of your book are too far apart."

The most embarrassing of the street scenes, I think, took place around the corner from the Gaiety the other sundown. A group of Salvationists were kneeling in prayer when a taxi-driver began to back toward them. At a warning shout they all sprang up, waited until the taxi went into reverse and dropped to their knees again.

In one of those stuffy, dusty burrows of second-hand books along Fourth avenue the other day I picked up a thumbed volume of Tom Sawyer. On a back page was a rubber stamp in brick red "E. H. Sothern," whether of the late actor I do not know. But whoever owned it reacted to drama. For a heavily interlined paragraph concerned the report of Tom's death and the sudden proud blurt of his playmate: "Tom Sawyer licked me once!" Twain liked it best of all his touches.

This book shop experience prompted probably the 50th rereading of Huckleberry Finn. Its enduring charm I believe is that every town, especially those along rivers, had a Huck Finn. I should like to see Henry Hull have a try at Huck Finn before his retirement from the stage.

Every cafe has among its regulars the unsquelchable bore who rushes over to one's table in the middle of the meal for one of those stand-up pauses that spoil the finest in cuisine. Nothing discourages them. They are the reasons why restaurants with booths have become so amazingly popular.

During the tedium of a liner's docking the other morning, I dropped into one of those stool and counter places off the jostling produce district of West street. The hot buttered crumpet was better than anything I've tasted uptown. And the scalding cauldron of coffee—why is coffee best in big thick cups?—was an ambrosia to poetize. The chit was a dime. There was no inquisitive pest. A policeman was telling a truckman about the new baby at their house. Sometimes I wonder if there is any reason for going to a high-priced restaurant—save to be seen.

In the Park Row days there was a sand-carpeted lunchroom on Vesey street Frank Ward O'Malley discovered. It had its day among newspapermen. Jack London went there when in poor purse. And Steve O'Grady. It served coffee in huge bowl-like cups of delft blue and the cat that rubbed against patrons' legs was named Euripides. But I think what caught the literary fancy was the sign running full length of the room: "Never Mind Glamour—Eat!"

And those who missed a 15-cent lunch at gaslit Ham and Dolan's on Park Row with the pink tissue paper fly shooers knows as much about the art of vittling as the playgoer who never saw Mansfield.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

'My Life Is But a Weaving'

Life—strange how its meaning changes as you go along! Or, rather, your understanding of it.

Are you seventeen? Then life is still half adventure tale, half dream. Sometimes intensely real—catching you up in tingling ecstasies, hurling you down in desperate despondencies, whirling you about in violent furies. And the next moment—as vague and distant as a desert mirage, unsubstantial, eluding physical and mental grasp.

But always, at seventeen, life is intensely personal. You realize there are other people on earth . . . other experiences than yours. But they have no place in your consciousness save as they affect you, personally. They do not make you laugh, cry, brood or burn. Life means YOU—at seventeen.

Are you twenty-seven? Life, if you're normal, has changed at twenty-seven. It is no longer so dream like. It has become much more real—painfully real. You no longer complain that you "can't understand it." You're beginning to feel that you understand it all too well.

You clearly see—or think you see—its heartlessness and hopelessness. Sometimes you rail against it. More often, you resign yourself to sour cynicism—or embittered indifferences. There are times—too many times—when you hate life and conclude that it isn't worth the living.

As you grow older this feeling is apt to harden about you, like a shell. You think you're growing wiser. You boast that you're becoming sophisticated . . . philosophical. But you're not. You're simply drying up!

Though you do not realize it, you're seeing life from as childish a viewpoint as you did at 17. You're still regarding it as a purely personal problem. And from that viewpoint life becomes an increasingly petty and pesty affair. The ignorance and curiosity which lent it such a lovely glamour at 17 have passed away. Now you see only the ugly "realities" . . . the harsh personal frustrations and disappointments. Weren't you a fool to think that living would be a great adventure!

No, you weren't! Life IS a great adventure. It should, and might, go on being a greater and more glorious adventure, to the end of our days. But we, ourselves, wreck the adventure.

We wreck it by limiting it. Where we might explore jungles and vault headlong through the stars, we insist upon staying in the cramped back yard of our own personal problems. Presently we know every boring detail of the shabby environment. Then stagnation begins.

But the wonder and eagerness of life's dawning would return if we could look beyond ourselves and our own small experiences . . . try to see human experience as a whole . . . stretch our imaginations to include some vision of the vast plan of which our individual careers are a part . . . catch a glimpse, however dim and fleeting, of that Source from which it all proceeds.

Once, when I was rebelling against the smallness and futility of life, a wise friend gave me this verse:

"My life is but a weaving
Between my God and me,
I may but choose the colors,
He worketh steadily;
Full oft He weaveth sorrow
And I, in foolish pride,
Forget He seeth the upper
And I the lower side."

Pretty poetry? No, much more than that—eternal truth. Not just "religious truth" for "church people." Truth for the man in the street as well as the priest in the pulpit.

Existence, for every human being, is more than a succession of personal experiences. It is a weaving between God—Life—and the spirit of man. Not an aimless weaving. Steadily—out of our tears and laughter, our rages and dreams—there grows, bit by bit, a design.

We cannot see it in our own lives. But, if we will turn away from ourselves, we can see it growing in the lives of others. And sometimes, for an instant, see the Hands at work.

Where is the cure for that bitter sense of smallness and uselessness in your life? There—in the longer look!

Human Side of the News

Apparently Authentic Stories of Sea Serpents Continue To Come From Various Sources

By Edwin C. Hill

SOMETHING, REALLY, will have to be done about the great sea serpent controversy. Perhaps it's a good thing that we have a fabulous marine monster, which should have perished millions of years ago, to divert our minds from the bloodshed in Europe and the threat of war. It might be a good thing to send out Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, the world's greatest authority on reptilian life, or Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who discovered the dinosaurian eggs in the Gobi Desert, to get at the exact truth of the mystery.

It won't do for scientists to lift their eyebrows and shake a scornful head. The reports, backed by affidavits and even drawings by reputable witnesses, come from too many parts of the world to be dismissed as illusions, much less plain fabrications. At present we have a great sea serpent reported simultaneously from three far-separated bodies of water—from Loch Ness in Scotland, from Georgia Strait, which borders the lower end of Vancouver Island, and from the Caribbean Sea.

Deception Theory Seems Untenable

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to believe that so many eye-witnesses could have been deceived; men of such standing. The Loch Ness monster has become almost like an old friend, we have had so many reports of him from over two hundred witnesses, including ministers of the gospel, government officials, fishermen and big game hunters. The latest news of the Loch Ness sea serpent comes from a Scottish student of natural history, who saw the monster swimming in the lake on a moonlight night, and who is convinced that it is a holdover from the great plesiosaurus which lived many millions of years ago.

Then, too, we have the continuous reports of the great marine serpent in Canadian waters, in Georgia Bay, a fearsome creature by all accounts. Two duck hunters caught sight of the strange creature a few days ago when it rose to the surface not 50 yards from their boat and swallowed a duck which had fallen to their guns. Fearing that their testimony would be ridiculed, they hurried ashore and collected 12 friends, including Justice of the Peace G. F. Parkyn, of Bedwell Harbor. Forty yards out from the lower end of Vancouver Island, the sea serpent broke water squarely in front of the eyes of the whole group.

Justice Parkyn went back to his office and swore to an affidavit of the experience. He had seen the head and a full 12 feet of the creature as it undulated through the water. It was gray-brown in color and at least two feet thick.

Monster Sighted In the Caribbean

EVEN MORE extraordinary was the experience of officers of the Cunard liner Mauretania off the island of St. Eustatius, in the Caribbean. S. W. Moughtin, senior first officer of the Mauretania, spotted the monster at 1:20 p. m., on January 30, and his tale and description are supported by Capt. Reginald V. Peel, the liner's commander, and by other officers.

"It was a fine, clear afternoon," said First Officer Moughtin. "The ship was steaming about 24 knots. At first I thought it might be a whale or a whistling grampus. And then I saw it raise its great head and clearly sighted at least 45 feet of what must have been about 65 feet of length. I have no doubt that it was a sea serpent of the type which has been reported for hundreds of years."

And to all this is added the testimony of a man of the cloth. Father J. E. Rockliff, the "Apostle of the Sea"—who preaches the word of God to men who go down to the sea in ships, and travels 50,000 miles a year in doing it.

"Two years ago in the mid-Pacific," says Father Rockliff, "I sighted a monster about 60 feet long, yellowish in color, and moving across the surface in looping undulations. A few days later I saw another. Out of respect for my cloth, people didn't ridicule my story, but it was clear that they doubted it."

It's interesting to know that Monsieur Jean Chiappe, until recently head of the Paris police, and the center of the insurrection in Paris a few weeks ago, has written a history of the appearance of sea serpents for many hundreds of years, and firmly believes in their existence. It is M. Chiappe who reminds us that sea serpents have been seen and reported by many notable persons, including Rudyard Kipling and Lord Northcliffe. After all, who are we little humans to doubt such marvels, supported by a cloud of witnesses, or to know what creatures still dwell in caverns, measureless to man, down in the sunless sea?

Department of Education Needed to Save Schools

By James T. Williams, Jr.

PUBLIC EDUCATION throughout the United States is urgently in need today of that protection, support and co-ordination which only the federal government can provide.

To meet its responsibility for public education the federal government must restore the Department of Education at Washington, which was established in 1867, place at its head the American best qualified to be Secretary of Education that President Roosevelt can find, and give him a seat in the President's cabinet.

This is the finding of the National Advisory Committee on Education, which made a most comprehensive report on the subject more than two years ago.

Dr. Suzzallo's Strong Argument

THIS REPRESENTATIVE body, of which the guiding genius was the late Dr. Henry Suzzallo, made an argument for the re-establishment of a department of education which has yet to be refuted. This argument, in part, follows:

"This committee believes the time has come to establish a federal headquarters for education that should be competent to meet the increasing national responsibility for education in ways that are consistent with the policies and procedures which are essential to the maintenance of a distinctively American system of public education.

"To realize these policies there must be in the government, close to its head co-ordinator, the chief executive, a spokesman for the American spirit and method in education, who may on all occasions express that enlightened public opinion upon educational matters which is our surest guide in formulating public policy.

"Without an additional officer of equal status with all of the heads of all other departments concerned, it would be impossible to secure that voluntary co-operation from all departments needed to integrate the educational resources of the government.

"No bureau chief or head of a detached or independent establishment can have that equal access to the chief executive, and that equality of approach to the heads of all departments concerned, essential to the effective total operation of education in the government."

The proposed Department of Education will perform the very same functions that were assigned to the department of education which we once had and which was established in 1867.

Will Have No Legal Or Financial Power

IT WILL collect "such statistics and facts as should show the condition and progress in education in the several states and territories."

It will diffuse "such information respecting the organization and management of school systems, and methods of teaching, as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and will otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country."

The new Department of Education for the re-establishment of which there is a rising tide of sentiment, north, east, south and west, will have no legal or financial power. It will have no regulatory or executive authority, direct or indirect, explicit or implied, "by which it may control the social purposes and specific processes of education."

The control and support of public education will remain with the several states. It will be re-inforced and made more effective by the aid which only the federal government can provide through a Department of Education with a Secretary of Education at its head, occupying a seat in the cabinet of the President on an equality with the other members of the cabinet.

Many Requests For Federal Aid

CONGRESS IS swamped with all sorts of proposals from states which are suffering under the yoke of an obsolete system of county and local governments to appropriate hundreds of millions of dollars to be distributed among these states for the relief of public education which these states have failed to provide.

Grants of this sort would not strengthen the American system of public education. They would only retard the modernizing of our obsolete system of county and local government by making the federal government pay the cost of public schools and thereby enable a horde of political parasites to remain on the payroll of county and local government in the several states.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

Spring Rain

The rain has fallen all day long,
Now swift, now slow, it sings its song;
Small lakes upon the wide fields gleam
And down the roadside rivers stream,
As to earth's heart
Its lances dart,
The sweet spring rain
Wakes life again.
Each branch and seed
Is thrilled with need
To stir, to swell,
To break the spell
Which winter's hand has woven well.
No work today in field or wood.
The rain has brought an interlude;
The farmer sits before his hearth
And muses on the soaking earth.
